Result of Big Shifts Caused by War.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Asia and Latin America have become chief sources of American imports as a result of the shift in world trade caused by the war.

Imports by the United States in the first year of the war rose 23 per cent. Total purchases abroad were 2 billion 625 million dollars. Imports from Europe fell 17 per cent. Asia and Latin America moved into first and second positions, respectively, as suppliers to this country, taking the place of Europe.

Only twice heretofore, in the early 1920s, have annual sales of Latin American countries to the United States exceeded Europe's sales here.

Britain Remains a Supplier.

Of the European nations only Great Britain remains an important supplier of the United States. Britain's American sales rose 15 per cent in the year ended last August, the period in which shipments from all Europe including Britain fell 17 per cent.

And with the change in import sources a shift from manufactured materials to raw materials has occurred. Crude materials from South America and Asia are up. Manufactured goods, formerly imported in large quantities from Europe are down.

Substitutes are being developed in the United States for some of the manufactured products. Domestic china and pottery are replacing goods formerly imported from Czecho-Slovakia and England. Consumption of domestic wines is growing with the shutting off of supplies from France and Italy.

Latin America Gains.

There was a 30 per cent growth in imports from the countries of South and Central America in the first year of the war, against the increase of 23 per cent from all sources. Total purchases were $649,400,000. It is the first time since 1929 that yearly imports from those countries have exceeded a half billion dollars and the volume is the highest it has been since the peak in 1920.

Products that contributed to growth include manganese from Brazil and Cuba, copper from Chile, Peru, and Mexico, tin from Bolivia, industrial diamonds from Brazil, raw wool from Argentina and Uruguay, chrome ore from Cuba, and hides and skins from Argentina. Still leading other commodities in sales in this country are the three basic staples, coffee, sugar, and bananas, which rank in that order in value of shipments to the United States.

Asia Supplies a Third.

A third of all goods imported by the United States in the 12 months ended last August was supplied by Asia. Total purchases from that part of the world were $906,700,000, more than 48 per cent above the preceding year. The large shipments of tin and rubber, swollen by the defense purchases, made up an important part of the trade.

Asia thus accounted for 29 per cent more of American imports during the 12 months than Latin America and 47 per cent more than all of Europe. Had purchases of tin and rubber remained at the level of the preceding year, however, Asia would still have shipped goods valued at approximately three quarters of a billion dollars to this country.

Include Strategic Materials.

Seven of the products in which the largest import gains were made are materials that are classed as "strategic" or "critical" by the army and navy munitions board. The United States has been accumulating reserve supplies of these materials for many months.

Strategic materials are defined by the board as those essential to national defense on which the country depends for supplies, wholly or in substantial part, on sources outside continental United States. Included in the list are antimony, chromium, manganese, nickel, tin, silk, and tungsten.

The United States is buying up these materials in markets now available and seeking to develop new sources for some of them in South America. A five year contract has been made with Bolivia to take 18,000 tons of fine tin a year.

NEW OBSTACLE PERILS TRANSIT MERGER PLANS

Surface Lines Group Irked by Council.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Clearly defined reports that negotiations for the unification of all local transportation lines in Chicago were again swinging toward the rocks were brought last night to the attention of Judge Michael L. Igoe of the United States District court, in which litigation vitally involved in the merger has been pending for years.

"I have heard the reports and believe they are true," said Judge Igoe. "The entire plan appears to be in serious danger."

The most definite of several reports of the same general nature was that Albert W. Harris, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and chairman of a surface lines bondholders' committee whose coöperation is essential to a merger, may notify Judge Igoe and the city council that the committee has determined to withdraw from the negotiations.

Step Viewed as Fatal.

Such a withdrawal, it is contended, would be fatal to the whole unification project.

Judge Igoe said that he knew of Harris' attitude.

"I have heard that Mr. Harris is thinking of withdrawing the surface lines group," the judge said.

"Mr. Harris, I am told, wants to go back to the old 'Abbott plan' which called for the financial reorganization of the surface lines as a separate unit without any consolidation with the elevated or bus lines."

Judge Igoe said he believed the change in Harris' attitude resulted from the recent withdrawal by the Chicago Motor Coach company of its agreement to put its bus system into the merger on a 10 million dollar valuation and the subsequent willingness indicated by aldermen to grant the coach company a separate franchise.

"Mr. Harris is said to feel that if the coach company can successfully claim an individual franchise the Chicago Surface lines has as much right to a franchise of its own without being compelled to take over the money losing elevated lines of the Chicago Rapid Transit company," Judge Igoe said.

Up to Council, Says Judge.

"Mr. Harris says it looks as tho the city council is playing with the bus company and that its dilatory tactics are both unwarranted and unfair. If all the local transportation facilities are not to be consolidated, he feels, it would be better for the surface lines to go ahead operating as a separate unit."

Judge Igoe was asked whether he contemplated taking new steps because of the altered situation.

"Nothing can be done by the court unless and until the city council submits an ordinance," he replied. "The whole load of responsibility is on the city council. The public can do nothing until their representatives in the city council agree on an ordinance."

Chairman Harris, whose committee represents holders of $41,700,000 first mortgage bonds, was said last night to be in the east, and it is believed possible he is there to confer with some of the larger investors in his group.

Fear for Merger Indicated.

Representatives of the Harris bank and the surface lines company in several instances declined to discuss the situation for publication, but some of them indicated their personal opinions that merger negotiations are headed for trouble at this moment. Attorney Henry F. Tenney, counsel for the Harris committee, said:

"There has been all kinds of talk in some quarters since this motor coach development," he said, "but it has gone no further than talk so far."

Another new factor that has come into the situation is the refusal of Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, to say whether, without the bus company included, he will be willing to lend 53 million dollars, or any other sum, for modernization of Chicago's transportation facilities. He previously had agreed to lend the 53 millions.

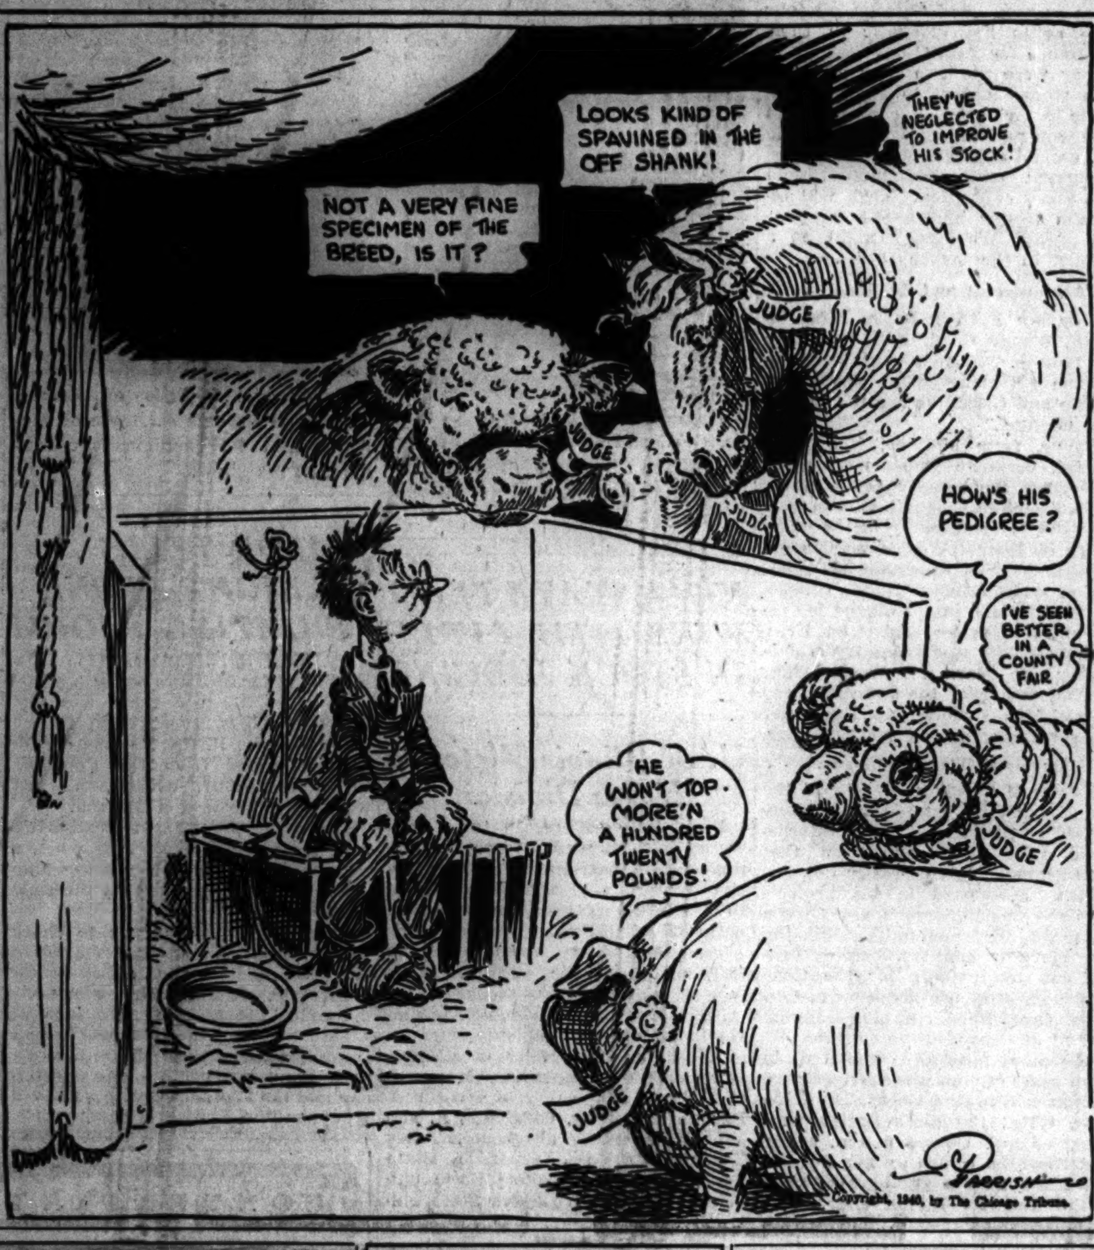
TURNABOUT, OR THE LIVE STOCK JUDGE'S DREAM



Plot of Chicago Pay Thieves to Rob Fort Bared

BY GEORGE MORGENSTERN.

Detailed steps in the preparation and commission of a crime by a robber band were unfolded last night in a digest by Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan of confessions by three of the four prisoners held for the shooting of Harry P. Walsh, chief of Chicago Tribune guards, and the theft of a $9,179 Tribune pay roll last July 19.

At the same time it was established that one member of the gang, under arrest in Los Angeles, had gone to California to plan another robbery on the grand scale—no less than the seizure of a $440,000 pay roll distributed monthly to soldiers and W. P. A. workmen at Fort Ord, near Monterey.

Counted on Chicago Pals.

In this project the robber planned to have the assistance of his Chicago confederates, who were to join him in California in the spring when all preparations were complete.

These revelations followed announcement by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney that evidence will be presented to the grand jury today against the four members of the bandit gang in the Walsh shooting and Tribune robbery.

Moynihan, who will submit the case to the grand jury in coöperation with Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, also will ask warrants and a requisition for the extradition of the bandit held at Los Angeles.

This man is Peter Allegretti, 32 years old, of 643 North Drake avenue, seized Saturday night in San Pedro, port and suburb of Los Angeles, in the climax of the investigation conducted since the robbery four and one-half months ago by Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office and Capt. Thomas Harrison of the East Chicago avenue police station.

Blame Other Crimes on Gang.

"Before we are finished," Moynihan said, "we expect to prove that this gang committed, not one robbery, but many, and that the arrest of its members broke up one of the most vicious criminal syndicates operating in Chicago and far afield."

In custody here are Tony Lullo, 30, an ex-convict, of 814 North 19th avenue, Melrose Park; Walter J. [Bud] Smith, 25, of 1361 Hubbard street, and Neal Rizzo, alias Ritz, 28, of 3328 Beach avenue.

Smith, the owner of a filling station at 1535 Grand avenue, had an account at the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, 605 North Michigan avenue, which he used in connection with his business.

It was in this bank that Tribune funds transferred daily to the Tribune Tower were kept. Walsh,

ONE OF 7 MOTHERLESS CANADIAN CHILDREN WINS OAT KING CROWN

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 1 (AP).—Paul Francis Pawlowski of Vilna, Alta., who was crowned oats king today at the hay and grain show being held in conjunction with the International Live Stock exposition in Chicago, is still in his teens, one of seven motherless children.

The family, which lives four miles northeast of Vilna, has no telephone. The town doctor's wife, Mrs. W. W. Eadie, said Paul Francis is a member of a "very enterprising, new Canadian family."

Mrs. Eadie said Paul Francis is 16 or 17 years old. She said members of the family are outstanding at agricultural work and both Paul Francis and his sister won prizes for boys and girls at the junior district agricultural fair this fall.

It was the third consecutive year an Alberta youth had won the oats crown.

Yacht Reaches Port After 58 Troubled Days

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 1.—Fifty-eight days out of England, the 145 ton yacht Marie, which started a nightmare trip as the Noroit, was brought to anchor here yesterday by its owner, A. B. Clarke, New York airplane manufacturer, with all hands in a starving condition.

Clarke started the wild voyage thru gales, privation and enemy war vessels when he missed the American refugee liner Washington at Galway, Ireland, and bought the 60 foot Marie, or Noroit, from Earl Beatty, former commander of the British fleet, in his determination to return to the United States forthwith. Because of war stringencies he was able to assemble only an amateur crew of three Danes and three Englishmen.

Fight Manager a Sailor.

One Englishman was Norman Middleton, former hotel proprietor and manager of the English boxer, Jimmy Wilde, who saw Clarke purchase the rakish white vessel at Dartmouth and was invited to join the crew. He did join on the spur of the moment and lived — narrowly — to regret it. He said today:

"I never want anything like it again. We were nine days out when the first of three terrific gales struck us, wrecking our radio, disabling the engine, and ripping away our sails. We drifted helplessly for three weeks before landing at Madeira. No one in the crew really knew navigation and we often went miles off our course.

"Later our food began running short. Things soon reached the stage where some coffee and tea, and seven pounds of potatoes were all that was left in our stores.

Frying in Engine Oil.

"I had been frying flour and water pancakes in engine oil for days when last week we sighted a tanker and were able to get two days' rations and cigarets.

"Half way over, Clarke decided he'd have to send a man over the side to change the name of the yacht from the Noroit to the Marie, but gave no explanation of why he thought that was necessary. The next day we were stopped by an Italian submarine, which circled us twice with her guns trained on us. The only other enemy boats we sighted were two Nazi torpedo speedboats near Brest. They scrutinized our American flags closely, letting us go on."

Clarke found a haven of trouble here. He immediately ran into a dispute with immigration authorities. He wants to continue to Miami, leaving the yacht and crew here. But the immigration men insist that he leave money for return fares to England for three of the men he has discharged and he is refusing.

Kennedy Quits Post as Envoy to British Isles

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 (AP).—Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, announced today that he had tendered his resignation.

Joseph P. Kennedy.

The ambassador issued the following statement after a conference at the White House:

"On Nov. 6 I tendered to the President my resignation as his ambassador to the court of St. James's.

"Today the President was good enough to express regret over my decision, but to say that, not yet being prepared to appoint my successor, he wishes me to retain my designation as ambassador until he is prepared. But I shall not return to London in that capacity.

"My plan is, after a short holiday, to devote my efforts to what seems to me the greatest cause in the world today—and means, if successful, the preservation of the American form of democracy. That cause is to help the President keep the United States out of war."

In Post Since 1938.

Kennedy succeeded the late Robert Worth Bingham in 1938.

Speculation about a possible successor to Kennedy has centered on William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, and Marshall Field III. There also has been talk that a career diplomat might be given the assignment. In that connection there has been frequent mention of Ray Atherton, now acting chief of the European division of the state department. Atherton was counselor of the London embassy for several years.

There was no amplification of Kennedy's statement that he would devote himself to helping "keep the United States out of war."

May Get Defense Post.

In some quarters it was believed this meant he intended to give a major part of his time to speaking and writing.

There have been reports, however, that he would be proffered some high government post, perhaps the chairmanship of the national defense commission. His statement did not seem to rule out that possibility.

Now 50 years old, Kennedy is a Boston financier who has been a major figure in the administration since 1934. In that year President Roosevelt drafted him to head the new Securities and Exchange commission. When the maritime commission was organized, the President called Kennedy to its chairmanship. He held this post until he was appointed ambassador to Great Britain.

BOMB EXPLODES NEAR QUISLING, OSLO REPORTS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 1 (AP).—A bomb exploded near Maj. Vidkun Quisling, Norwegian Nazi leader, but did not injure him during a recent visit to Frederikstad in southern Norway, the newspaper Dagens Nyheters reported from Oslo today.

Quisling is the leader of the sole political party permitted since the German occupation. Whether any one was injured was not stated.

CITY AN INFERNO AFTER BIG RAID, BRITAIN ADMITS

Nazi Flyers Make New Night Attack.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Dec. 2, Monday (AP).—For the second consecutive night German flyers overnight bombed a south England town, starting fires and damaging buildings, but a government communique said casualties were expected to be lighter than in Saturday night's pounding of Southampton. (Germans claim the town bombed last night was Southampton.)

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—An air ministry communique tonight admitted serious air bombardment of Southampton Saturday night and eye witnesses' informed THE TRIBUNE that the city was on fire from end to end.

Arrow locates city bombed and afire.

Flames extended from the civic center to the waterfront until the early hours of Sunday morning, the whole city being enveloped in flames.

In the main thorofare all the great shopping stores were seriously damaged and the street was a mass of ruins. Streets were littered with fire hoses. Traveling in automobiles was said to be hazardous.

The raid began at 6:30 p. m. Saturday. A thousand incendiary bombs were dropped. After fires had started high explosive bombs were dropped until 9 p. m., when the whole town was illuminated. Afterward the concentrated attack continued until nearly midnight in the outskirts, where further damage was reported.

Eyewitnesses were agreed that this was one of the most devastating air bombardments of the war.

Germans Strike Again.

BERLIN, Dec. 1 (AP).—The English port of Southampton again was singled out tonight for violent attacks by the Nazi air force, DNB, the official German news agency, reported.

From nightfall on, squadrons of German planes bombarded harbor facilities, drydocks, industrial plants and other war essential objectives with bombs of all calibers, the agency said, adding that the rail connection between Southampton and London was interrupted.

The German air force gave Southampton a heavy bombing Saturday night and early Sunday. It was claimed that the raiders left such an inferno there that clouds of smoke hanging over the port could be seen in Cherbourg, France, 70 miles away.

"Most Effective Attack."

DNB said Nazi flyers returning from the raid Saturday night counted 70 fires—including 20 large ones—after what it called "one of the most effective attacks of recent days."

The bombers emptied their racks unhampered by British fighter planes, according to the high command communique, which said the R. A. F. failed to put in an appearance.

Great warehouses were reported destroyed and airmen said fire-spreading blows were scored near a power station and along the waterfront, including a direct hit on a new testing dock. Air force leaders reported 13 British planes were shot down and two German craft missing in clashes today over southern England.

Tactics Like at Coventry.

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 1.—Using tactics similar to those in the "total" raid on Coventry the night of Nov. 14-15, waves of German bombers gave this port town its worst raking of the war last night and early today.

The Germans attacked this city of 175,000 population for more than seven hours and it was feared the casualty list would include a number of dead. Townsmen called it a "blitz fire raid" and one air raid official said "if ever there was indiscriminate bombing, we have had it here."

Some thousands of people were homeless and townsmen were talking of compulsory removal of women and children.

4-H CHAMPS SEE CHICAGO; PREFER TO LIVE ON FARM

Achievement, Leadership Winners Named.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Four young farm champions took in the city sights yesterday—skyscrapers, boulevards, museums, Chinatown, and the University of Chicago above the Midway. But the folks back home won't have any trouble keeping them down on the farm. Much as they liked Chicago, all four were polite but emphatic in their preference for rural life.

They were the two boys and two girls whose leadership and achievements in their respective communities have won national recognition at the 19th annual congress of the 4-H clubs, concurrent with the International Live Stock exposition. Each will receive a trophy and a $300 scholarship award Wednesday night at a banquet in the Stevens hotel.

Achievement and Leadership.

They are Francis Boyle, Nawatha Krebs, Wayne Good, and Geraldine De Lancey. Francis and Newatha are the 4-H achievement champions. Wayne and Geraldine are the leadership winners.

Wayne, from McCune, Kas., is a modest, versatile young man of 21 who plays the comedy parts in his club's dramatic productions, can give a satisfactory accounting at the piano either of Boogie Woogie or Chopin, sings tenor in a collegiate 4-H quartet at the Kansas State college, teaches 27 piano pupils during his vacations, and raises registered Hereford stock. He was a country schoolmaster one year. He coached four judging teams for the state fair, one taking high honors and the other three winning second place ratings.

Develops Champion Team.

Blue eyed Geraldine developed the grand champion team which demonstrated at the recent Pacific International Live Stock exposition that dishwashing, when correctly done, is a lark. Interested in 4-H projects since she was 10, Geraldine at 18 is a power in her community, directing nine clubs in canning, baking, sewing, and toy making for the Community chest of her home town, Corvallis, Ore. She is a high ranking student at Oregon State college.

Fifty-nine projects completed in seven years of club work is the record that gives Nawatha Krebs, 20, of Eufaula, Okla., the girl's achievement championship. Golden haired, brown eyed Newatha comes by her musical first name thru a great-grandparent of the Choctaw Indian tribe. Her list of accomplishments includes raising 1,441 chickens, preparing 127 recipes, canning 4,737 quarts of food, and raising 5,518 pounds of vegetables and fruit in her garden.

A Handsome Pledge.

Francis Boyle, 18, one of Beta Theta Pi's handsomest pledges at the University of Illinois, developed the dairy herd on his father's 700 acre farm near McNabb, in Putnam county. His cows, pigs, and sheep have brought him close to $200 in prize money at county and state fairs. Francis sings in the church choir and plays in the county band.

The 4-H congress has drawn to Chicago 1,300 boys and girls, representing 1,500,000 members. Champions all, these delegates come from 44 states and Canada.

SPAIN ADOPTS THOUSANDS OF WAR ORPHANS

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 1 (AP).—Spain's civil war orphans without close relatives to care for them have been "adopted" by the state and provisions have been made for their keep and education.

Measures announced today affect thousands of children who until now have been dependent on public charity or have had to shift for themselves.

They will be entrusted in some cases to families and in others to institutions, but in all cases a special board of the national social aid organization will keep watch over them.

SAILOR TELLS OF NIGHT ALONE FIGHTING STORM

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 1 (AP).—How he drifted for 24 hours alone in a lifeboat in an Atlantic storm was told today by Allen Lyons, 38 years old, of Vancouver, B. C. He was one of 18 men saved from the Canadian freighter Lisieux, which sank last week with the loss of 12 men.

Lyons was preparing to send a lifeboat from the Lisieux' side when a wave washed it away. Ten men whom it was to carry were left on the sinking freighter.

Lyons rigged an anchor to check the drift of his boat and, soaked to the skin and chilled, bailed water constantly. A ship picked him up.

Two of the Lisieux' crew died of exposure in her other lifeboat. Among those lost was André Perrin, the captain. Lyons reached St. John's yesterday and the 17 other survivors arrived today on the British freighter Urla.

GUERNSEY ISLAND LOOKS TO U. S. FOR POSTWAR CATTLE

Descendants of Guernsey cattle shipped to this country from England more than a century ago will be returned to their native land when the war ends in order to replace breeding stock moved to Germany after the Nazi capture of the Channel Islands.

Both British and American cattlemen already have begun discussing plans for this postwar action, according to Karl B. Musser, executive secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle club, which opens its winter meeting in the Stevens hotel tomorrow.

Musser said reports reaching American breeders from informants on the seized islands of Guernsey, Sark and Alderney indicated the Germans slaughtered nearly all calves, bulls and dry cows for meat and transferred milk-producing stock to Germany.

As a result, the breeder said, the United States, with 500,000 purebred Guernseys within its boundaries, is now the largest breeder of that strain.

CITY FAMILIES GET AN EYEFUL AT STOCK SHOW

Smarter than They Use to Be, Say Farmers.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

They brought the children early in the morning and remained far into the night, marveling at the majesty of the great farm show in the International amphitheater at 42d and Halsted streets.

B. H. Heide, general manager of the show for 34 years, estimated the crowd at 55,000—the greatest Sunday throng in the 41 years of the exposition.

The day saw three Canadians crowned as oats king, alfalfa seed king, and soy bean king.

The amphitheater was filled with dignitaries on Saturday, opening day, but yesterday was a day for fathers who had Sunday off and for their children, who had no classes.

They Catch the Spirit.

And so father, mother, and their sons and daughters admired the bagpipers in their plaids, and petted placid beef cattle.

Catching the spirit of the occasion, they bought canes resembling those the exhibitors and the judges carry, and a few of the men blossomed out in western hats. But the visitors only looked wistfully at the high heeled western boots the cattlemen wear, and wondered why the right trouser leg is always pulled up six inches from the ankle. [It's to show off the polished leather.]

Watch Morning Tasks.

The family parties, fortunate in being early, saw the sleepy lambs shelled out of the burlap pajamas in which they go to bed. They watched the cattle get their baths and tiny Chicagoans visiting the show for the first time learned an object lesson from the willingness with which the great animals submitted to a scrubbing with soap and water.

The city dwellers learned with pride to distinguish between the majestic Clydesdale horses and the Percherons. They taught themselves the different breeds of cattle.

The second day of the show brought out some new exhibits of which the show management was justly proud—the boys and girls whose animals won ribbons on Saturday. Wearing their emblems of victory, they inspected the show themselves for the first time.

Canadian Grain Kings.

Paul Francis Pawlowski of Vilna, Alta., was chosen the show's oats king. The reserve championship went to D. L. Scott of City View, Ont.

The new alfalfa seed king is Hugh Stewart of Weirdale, Sask. Gust Palm of Baudette, Minn., won the reserve championship.

The soy bean king is Hugh Jeffrey of Whitby, Ont. The reserve championship went to the Hirsch brothers of Oreana, in Macon county.

Burl Bone of San Jon, N. M., exhibited the champion grain sorghum and Henry Kuntz of Apache, Okla., won both the championship and reserve championship with his threshed grain sorghum.

New Honors Announced.

New honors were announced during the day. Iowa State college, 10 times winner of the collegiate live stock judging contest, won its 11th championship. Richard O. Smith of Ohio State university was high point man of the contest.

The University of Nebraska won the collegiate crops judging contest. Monty Mitchell of Texas A. and M. college was the high point winner. [Details and other winners will be found on page 2.]

Altho the show was in many respects a tremendous family party, there were a number of distinguished visitors.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts watched the horse show from a box with Mrs. Saltonstall and Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall Jr. The younger Saltonstall is taking a degree in agriculture at the University of Kentucky. The governor is a stock raiser himself, on his farm at Dover, Mass., where he has Hereford cattle and riding horses.

Argentine Brothers at Show.

Among them are Peter A. Lacau and his brother, Carlos, from Argentina. They have 10,000 shorthorn cattle on their 20,000 acre ranch.

The Lacaus, who make their headquarters at Buenos Aires, praised the exhibits and the enterprise that made the show possible. They were particularly interested in the youth movement of the 4-H clubs, which they pronounced one of the greatest encouragements to agriculture and stock raising they have ever encountered.

Behind the scenes in the exposition that has for years been called the greatest show on earth are two men who have played major parts in the show's history, Arthur G. Leonard, chairman of the show's board, and John T. Caine III., general superintendent.

Farmers and City Folks Get Along.

The farmers and stock raisers who have cattle in the show are patient in answering the city dwellers' questions. And the Chicagoans, they report, are far better informed upon farm matters than they once were.

Old timers recall the first exposition, in 1900, to which a public school teacher took her 78 pupils. She discovered by questioning them that only eight had ever seen a cow before, four a sheep, and two a hog.

That first exposition, called the Fat Stock show, established the exposition as a Chicago institution. Many credit the show with giving Chicagoans a familiarity with the farm which they might otherwise never had had.

Entertaining and Educational.

The show is spectacular as entertainment, and it is quite as remarkable for its educational opportunities.

Housewives will enjoy learning about the farm, but they will value more highly still their chance to learn about buying meat for the family, and planning economical meals.

The exhibit called "Meat on the Move" is a parade of different cuts of meat: Steaks, roasts, and every type of meat offered for sale, with notes as to their qualities. You don't have to walk to see it. You just stand still and the display goes past you on an endless chain.

Adjoining it are Sculptor Charles Umlauf's 13 skating pigs—done in lard. The pigs are playing crack the whip, and their leader is figure skating the words "Pure Lard." Refrigeration keeps the pigs from melting.

Information About Trees.

City dwellers with a single tree in their yard or farmers with a whole grove can learn facts of interest and value from the Illinois department of agriculture nursery inspection service exhibit. Here are shown the insect pests that damage trees, with examples of their ravages.

One of the pests in the display, prepared under the direction of H. F. Seifert, chief plant inspector, is the cicada or 17 year locust, which has been particularly destructive to oak trees.

But you will learn, if you will go further in Mr. Seifert's display, that not all insects are harmful. He has devoted an entire section to beneficial insects—the ant lion, which eats ants; the cicada killer, which lives up to its name, the lady beetle which tries to eat up all insects within reach except other lady beetles; the robber fly, which wars on grasshoppers, and the honey bee, which pollenizes flowers.

If you have been puzzled about those traps that tree men are setting in back yards for Japanese beetles, you can learn all about the mystery at the exhibit.

TWO WHITE OXEN PULL WAGON AT LIVE STOCK SHOW

Ward, who is 74 years old, uses oxen on his farm. The ones he has at the show are Tom and Jerry, the largest white oxen, he says, in the world. Their total weight is 5,400 pounds. Tom and Jerry can't appear often, because they haven't any shoes and walking barefoot hurts.

Ward says they're easy to direct. He just tells them "Gee!" "Haw!" "Get up!" "Whoa!" and "Back!" and they know what to do.

Gov. Stelle Will Attend Live Stock Show Today

Gov. John Stelle arrived in Chicago last night and will attend the International Live Stock exposition in the International amphitheater today and tomorrow.

FIND WOMAN'S CHARRED BODY IN ASHES OF HOME

Kane county authorities began an investigation late yesterday into mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Barbara Dahlquist, 32 years old, whose charred body was found in the ruins of her home which had been leveled by fire in mid-afternoon. The home was on Roosevelt road ,two miles east of Geneva.

The body was burned beyond recognition and parts of the skull, legs, and arms were missing. Dr. J. W. Gray of Geneva, who examined the remains, said the missing parts could have been burned away in the blaze.

Husband Is Questioned.

Coroner L. Victor Peterson and Charles Seidel, who will be inducted as Kane county state's attorney today, questioned the victim's husband, Norman Dahlquist, 35, an assembler in a St. Charles factory. Dahlquist said he could not understand how her death could have been accidental.

The Dahlquists, the authorities were told, had eaten at noon in the Club Moderne, a tavern operated by William Frazer, several hundred yards from the Dahlquist home. Dahlquist left the tavern at 12:30 p. m. saying he was going to Aurora to bowl.

Mrs. Dahlquist returned to their home. Two hours later a passing motorist ran into the home of George Klitzke, the owner of the building and who lived close by, and told him the Dahlquist home was on fire. Klitzke said that half an hour previously he had seen an automobile parked next to the house.

He Goes Fishing.

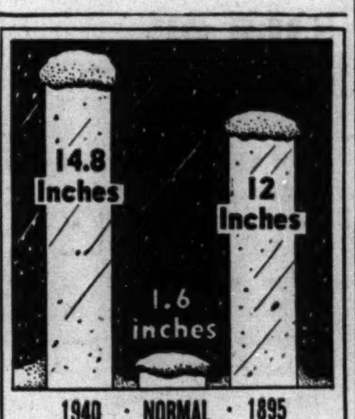
Dahlquist, meanwhile, instead of going bowling, had met some acquaintances in Geneva and had gone fishing. Word got to him that his home was burning. He notified his brother, Policeman Walter Dahlquist of Geneva, and they went to the scene. Dahlquist left for the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Almyr K. Shurtleff, in Geneva, thinking she might have gone there.

Walter Dahlquist reported that while he was watching the blaze a stranger approached and said he had seen a man throw a bottle thru a window of the house.

Some time later Frazer found Mrs. Dahlquist's body in the ashes.

The Dahlquists had been married six years. There are no children. Mrs. Dahlquist's father, Almyr Shurtleff, is a cousin of the late Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff of Woodstock.

New Snow Record



Comparison of the snowfall in November, 1940, with the normal fall and the previous record November, 1895.

November passed into weather bureau records yesterday as the snowiest of all Chicago Novembers. Total snowfall of 14.8 inches, compared with a normal of 1.6 inches, exceeded by 2.8 inches the previous record November fall of 12 inches, recorded in 1895. Snow fell on seven days during the month, with 6 inches on last Tuesday and Wednesday piling up the record total.

The big wind of Nov. 11 and 12, which reached a velocity of 65 miles an hour, was one of the strongest on record here.

4 KILLED, 4 HURT IN 2 AUTO AND TRAIN CRASHES

One Car Skids on Icy Rail Crossing.

Four Chicagoans were killed yesterday in two auto-train accidents and four others, one a boy 2 years old, were injured, three of them seriously.

The first tragedy occurred in Illinois highway 20, four miles west of Waukegan, where three were killed and two seriously injured when their auto skidded into the side of a Chicago bound Milwaukee road passenger train.

Taken to Hospital in Waukegan.

They were taken to St. Therese's hospital, Waukegan, where physicians said they had little chance of recovery.

Major Tatum, truck driver of Gages Lake, Ill., a witness, said that the driver of the automobile, owned by Miulli, appeared to be racing to beat the train to the crossing, where an electric signal was operating. At the last moment, Tatum said, the driver apparently tried to stop, but skidded on the ice.

The crash threw the automobile against the cast iron signal support, which broke off, and into a railroad semaphore signal, the concrete base of which was uprooted. The car was demolished.

Train Hits Rear of Car.

The second crash occurred at 130th street and the South Shore electric crossing. Andrew Szmigla, 50, of 13458 Avenue N, a steel worker, was killed, and his nephew, John Marcisz, 2, was seriously hurt.

Police were told by Edward J. Szczepanik, 17, driver of the car, that he stopped for the warning lights, then tried to cross when urged to do so. A Chicago bound train struck the rear of the car. Edward and his father, Martin, were unhurt. His mother, Anna, 45, suffered slight injuries. All live at the Avenue N address.

Peter Geraldi, 55, of 2522 South Claremont avenue, a laborer, was killed in 14th street near Morgan street by a car driven by Wilbur Taylor, 1521 Roosevelt road. Policeman Mark Nugent of the Maxwell street station said Taylor fled after the accident and was captured by a pedestrian, Clarence Brown, colored, 1323 Morgan street.

Booker Patrick, 33, of Gary, colored, was killed by a hit and run driver in U. S. highway 12 near Main street in East Chicago, Ind.

John Kelodziej, 58, of 145th and Division streets, Posen, died in County hospital of injuries incurred Nov. 23 when he was struck by an automobile at 147th street and Western avenue, in Posen.

Hit by Car; Dies of Injuries.

Alex Burak, 48, of 5758 South Melvina avenue, a foundry worker, died in County hospital of injuries incurred earlier in the day when he was hit by an auto in Archer avenue near Lockwood avenue. The driver was Lester S. Berry, who gave his address as the northeast corner of Archer and Harlem avenues.

A pedestrian who was killed by a surface lines bus in Central avenue near Addison street Saturday was identified yesterday as Thomas J. Murray, 40, of 905 Agatite avenue, a fireman assigned to engine company 43. The body was identified by Detective Anthony J. Murray of the Rogers Park police station, a brother.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 803 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 584 were killed in Chicago, where 21,824 were injured during the same period.

COURTNEY TAKES OFFICE TODAY FOR THIRD TERM

Cook county Democrats, who captured all of the local offices at stake Nov. 5, will have their day of celebration today, the biggest event on schedule being the induction of Thomas J. Courtney as the first third term state's attorney in the history of the county. Among those who will participate in the program in the Criminal court building will be United States Attorney J. Albert Woll, District Judge William J. Campbell, Bertram J. Cahn and Henry Barrett Chamberlin of the Chicago Crime commission, Aubrey H. Mellinger of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and William H. King Jr. of the Chicago Bar association.

Most of the other Democratic winners were reëlected or were elected to positions they already held by appointment. Exceptions are Roger J. Kiley, who, while an alderman, was elected a judge of the Superior court, and John J. Griffin, a newcomer on the Municipal court bench.

Similar induction ceremonies will be held in all counties in the state.

GREEKS ADVANCE ON WHOLE FRONT; TAKE KEY POINTS

Fascist Reinforcements Called a Failure.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Dec. 1.—All the way from the sea in the south to Lake Ochrida in the north Greek troops still are beating back the Italians, it was officially announced tonight.

Strategic operating points on the central part of the front near Premeti, Albania, have been occupied, the high command declared, and during the day's fighting 150 prisoners and much equipment were seized. Premeti is about 25 miles northwest of Konitza, Greece.

In the south, near Konispolis, which was captured Friday the Greeks said their troops were mopping up.

Say Reinforcements Fail.

Reinforcements rushed into Albania by the Italians have had little effect in slowing up the Italian retreat, the Greeks said.

Despite this, officers at the front from which I have just returned said the Italians must not be underestimated. The Fascists are retreating in good order, the officers said.

Snowstorms are adding to the difficulty of operations which were already made laborious by reason of the rugged terrain.

Fall Back from Pogradetz.

In the north, the Italians were falling back from Pogradetz, occupied yesterday by the Greeks, toward Elbasan, in central Albania. The story of the capture of Pogradetz gradually is becoming clearer. Greek advance troops entered the town a week ago but Italians still held positions on the heights southwest of the town. Until they were driven out of there yesterday, actual occupation of the town was impossible. Now it is in Greek hands.

An official government spokesman summarized developments this way:

"The booty we have captured [around Pogradetz] is very important and exceeds figures given in the official communique. More to the south, the fresh, select Italian troops which had been rushed to reinforce the enemy have contributed nothing. From the northern sector to the sea coast, the news is good. Italian resistance was crushed by our troops when they captured strategic positions."

Command of Sea Vital.

Command of the sea is playing an important part in the campaign, according to Greek sources. Despite the reports of strong reinforcements reaching the Italians, it was said that only 11 small vessels carrying 2,000 Italian troops have been able to cross from Italy to Albania in the last two weeks.

With winter coming on, the Italian force in Albania faces a calamity unless sea communications can be kept open.

Greeks Repulse Attacks.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 1 (AP).—Advices from the Jugo-Slav border near the Albanian war zone tonight said that Greek forces had repulsed several Italian attacks in the Leskovic region.

The Greeks, after speeding thru Pogradetz, were said to have taken positions on heights of the Kamia and Mokra mountains in an effort to cut off retreating Italians.

Italians, these reports said, were falling back on a strongly fortified line from the north bank of Lake Ochrida across the mountains to Kamia.

Greeks Stalled, Italians Claim.

ROME, Dec. 1 (AP).—Italian counterattacks in which the Julia Alpine division "distinguished itself particularly" have stalled Greek progress in Albania, the high command reported today.

Judge Otto Kerner and Jean Hruby before plaque honoring Dr. Allan J. Hruby.

A bronze memorial tablet dedicated to Dr. Allan J. Hruby, secretary of the board of directors of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium until his death a year ago, was unveiled yesterday in the infirmary building. More than 50 friends and relatives were present to see his daughter, Jean, and his son, Allan Jr., remove the covering from the tablet. Speakers were Judge Otto Kerner of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and Dr. Frederick Tice, president of the board of directors of the sanitarium.

TAVERN OWNER HELD UP IN STREET.

BERLIN NOT TOO UPSET BY DUCE'S GREEK TROUBLES

Lacked Hitler's Approval for Drive, Nazis Hint.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Messages which diplomatic circles have received from Greece and Albania indicate that Italy continues to experience great difficulties in her attempt to occupy Greece.

This news is received with evidence of satisfaction by quite a number of Germans, who assert that Premier Mussolini started the Greek campaign without Adolf Hitler's approval. Il Duce felt, these Germans say, that in axis negotiations with Marshal Petain and Vice Premier Pierre Laval of France, the Germans had not insisted energetically enough on big spoils for Italy.

Therefore, Mussolini set out to take the points he wanted in Greece. The difficulties he is experiencing, the Germans believe, will make him more ready to accept the German suggestions about the future peace treaty with France.

Diplomats understand the draft for this treaty is finished, and Laval and his friends, it is said, hope to be able to induce Marshal Petain to accept the German terms for a "definite peace" between the two countries.

German experts are busy discussing colonial problems.

In Stuttgart a meeting of the German association of engineers will discuss such problems as "Diesel engines in tropical climates." Even the games which children will get for Christmas are inspired by the colonial theme.

One department store features a colonial game for little girls in which the winner is the one who manages to get married to the colonial farmer.

BAYONETS PROVE DECISIVE FACTOR IN GREEKS' DRIVE

SALONIKA, Greece, Dec. 1 (AP).—Bayonets, which many military observers predicted would be discarded as worthless in modern warfare, are proving a decisive factor in the Greek army's drive into Albania against Italy's mechanized legions.

Wounded soldiers and neutral observers returning from the northern fighting front have declared unanimously that the capture of Pogradetz and Koritza was achieved mainly at the point of the bayonet in the hands of Greece's fierce Macedonian shock troops.

The Greek newspaper Progref answered what it called an Italian radio assertion that Greek bayonet fighting is "a barbarous form of warfare which shows a nation is uncivilized" by declaring that "bayonet fighting certainly is less barbarous than using Italian bombing planes against noncombatants . . . it is not our fault if the enemy lacks the courage of soul against these bayonet charges."

REPORT 3 BRITISH SHIPS TORPEDOED WITHIN 2½ HOURS

2 Nazi Vessels Attacked, London Says.

New York, Dec. 2, Monday (AP).—Mackay radio early today intercepted reports indicating that three British ships had been torpedoed within two and one half hours about 600 miles west of the north coast of Ireland.

The British freighter Goodleigh, 5,448 tons, radioed that she had been torpedoed at 55:02 north, 18:45 west, at 11:45 p. m. Chicago time Sunday.

The Valencia, Ireland, radio station reported that a British ship giving the call letters G-K-I-F was being attacked by a submarine at 55:03 north, 18:40 west at 10:53 p. m. Chicago time. The Mackay radio said they could not identify the ship by the call letters G-K-I-F and surmised it was a new ship. At 9:15 p. m. the Portishead radio station said that the British steamship Lady Glanely, 5,497 tons, had been torpedoed at 55 north, 20 west.

Torpedo 2 Nazi Ships.

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP).—Two German supply ships today were reported hit by aerial and marine torpedoes, one left in sinking condition and the other sending out an SOS.

An admiralty communique reported that British torpedo boats early today struck and damaged the 5,943 ton German cargo-passenger vessel Santos off the Dutch coast, causing her to send out an SOS.

One of the attackers, the admiralty acknowledged, suffered "superficial damage" and injury to two of its crew. In another part of the North sea British light naval forces were reported to have routed a German "mosquito" boat patrol last night.

[The German supply vessel, altho not identified by Germany, was said to have been towed to port. The Santos had tied up at Rio de Janeiro shortly after the start of the war and slipped to sea on Jan. 14 with a cargo of iron, minerals, and coffee.]

8,000 Ton Ship Sinking.

The first communique of the day said a coastal command aircraft had torpedoed a German supply ship off the Dutch coast last Friday. The air ministry news service said it was an 8,000 ton ship and that it had been left sinking.

The authoritative Press association said the vessel's tonnage brought to 26,000 tons the German supply ships sunk or damaged within the past few days by the navy and the R. A. F.

The submarine Triad is overdue and must be considered lost, the admiralty announced. No statement was made concerning casualties.

The Triad, one of Britain's Triton class, displaced 1,090 tons on the surface and carried a normal complement of 53 men. It was launched in May, 1939. Officially described as a "patrol type" for general service, the Triad was a sister ship of the Thetis, which foundered on a trial dive on June 1, 1939.

Claim Three Successes.

BERLIN, Dec. 1 (AP).—There were reports today of three successful German naval operations against the British:

1. The high command's report that a surface raider has sunk 79,000 tons of shipping not including "successes as a result of the cruiser's mine laying activity."

2. It was stated that British speedboats hit but failed to sink a German steamer at the mouth of the Scheldt river, off the coast of Holland, with three of the little raiders damaged—two probably fatally—in the attempt.

3. The news report that damage to the British navy in the English channel battle of destroyers reported on Friday by the high command appears to be heavier than the previous claim of two destroyers torpedoed and four merchantmen sunk.

[The latter two points are disputed by the British, who have admitted damage only to the Javelin in the destroyer battle.]

The German news agency said air observers flying over the region of the Friday naval clash south of Plymouth reported finding two wide oil patches with much wreckage in the midst of one and British destroyers clustered about many lifeboats in the other.

At another spot, it said, Nazi flyers spotted two burning destroyers which other ships were escorting.

ITALY SHOWS ITS FLEET TO REFUTE DAMAGE CLAIMS

Five First Line Vessels in Fighting Trim.

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK.

SOMEWHERE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Dec. 1 (AP).—On the invitation of the Italian government, anxious to refute British reports of damage to an Italian battleship, cruiser and two destroyers in a sea battle last Wednesday, foreign correspondents today inspected five Fascist first line ships.

The 35,000 ton battleship Vittorio Veneto and 23,622 ton Giulio Cesare were taking on fuel and munitions after what their officers described as an attack on a British naval force escorting a convoy off Cape Teulada, south of Sardinia, in the western Mediterranean.

Paint Peeled Off.

The only scars of battle either dreadnaught showed were a few bare patches where, it was explained, fire from their own 15 inch batteries peeled paint off their gun turrets.

Neither was there seen the slightest trace of damage on the three 10,000 ton sister cruisers Fiume, Pola, and Goritzia which the Italians said also took part in the battle.

They repeatedly have contended that only the destroyer Lanciere was damaged. Three admirals who commanded the Fascist squadrons in the battle said their forces included the two battleships, six cruisers, and several flotillas of destroyers.

We inspected five of the eight large ships from bridge to engine room today and are to visit others.

THE BRITISH CLAIMS.

The naval encounter between the Sardinian and North African coasts has been a subject of claim and counterclaim between Italy and Britain. A British admiralty communique last Thursday listed these results:

A battleship of the Littorio class seen to have been hit by a torpedo; [Stefani, Italian News agency, said the Vittorio Veneto "dodged" a British torpedo].

A destroyer of the Grecale class down by the stern, listing heavily and stopping and another destroyer listing slightly and losing way.

Four battleships make up the Littorio class, Italy's newest and mightiest dreadnaughts. Besides the Vittorio Veneto there are the Roma and Impero, which are not known to have been commissioned yet, and the Littorio, which the British have declarerd was crippled in the Armistice day aerial torpedo attack on the Italian naval base at Taranto.

$140,000 Given to Churchill Fund by People of Java

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP).—Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, husband of Princess Juliana, yesterday turned over to the chancellor of the exchequer a check for £35,000 [about $140,000] subscribed by the people of Java to Prime Minister Churchill's birthday fund. The prime minister was 66 years old yesterday.

CLIPPER PILOT TELLS OF DODGING CONVOYS ON WAY TO EUROPE

One of the worries of the trans-Atlantic airplane pilots is the fear that some time his ship may be mistaken for an enemy bomber. This worry arises when a convoy is sighted, according to Capt. F. J. Patrick Nolan, of Great Neck, N. Y., pilot of the Dixie Clipper, plying between New York City and Lisbon, Portugal.

F. J. Patrick Nolan.

Nolan described his wartime transoceanic flights yesterday at the convention of the Air Line Pilots association in the Congress hotel. He is a delegate representing Pan-American flyers.

"Every now and then," he said, "we sight a convoy. We immediately veer our course so the warships will not mistake us for an enemy bomber. We never radio convoys, and we never radio their position; to do so would be giving information to enemy ships."

2 GUARD CUTTERS SPEED TO AID OF SPANISH VESSEL

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—The coast guard said today that two cutters had been directed to proceed from Norfolk, Va., to the assistance of the Spanish freighter Motomar, in distress 500 miles east of Cape Charles, Va.

Arrow locates spot where ship is in distress.

The 5,724 ton ship sent an SOS at 9:50 a. m. In later messages the vessel reported she was unable to navigate because her compressors were damaged.

From Norfolk, the coast guard cutters Mendota and Bibb sped to the assistance of the stricken vessel which reported her position at latitude 37.25 north, longitude 65.06 west.

The Motomar, built in 1921, is en route to New York from Lisbon which she left Nov. 19 on her regular run. It was not known whether she had passengers aboard.

RUMANIA GUARD VOWS TO UNITE TRANSYLVANIA

Premier Tells of Axis' 'Understanding.'

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 1 (AP).—A hundred thousand cheering Iron Guardsmen pledged themselves tonight to fight for reunion of Hungarian occupied Transylvania with Rumania after Premier General Ion Antonescu had assured them Germany and Italy showed "understanding" for Rumania's desire.

"I went to Berlin and Rome for Transylvanians," Antonescu, who recently returned from the axis capitals, told the green shirted Guardsmen.

He said Hitler's message for the Rumanian army was that "on your shoulders rests the duty to repair and correct any injustice Rumania suffered."

Province Won in World War.

The occasion for Antonescu's speech, delivered in the mountain town of Albajulia, was a commemoration of the 22d anniversary of Rumania's acquisition of Transylvania.

["What is being said in Rumania is of no importance and of no interest to us," said official quarters in Budapest, Hungary. "Our only concern is that order be maintained there and that our nationals be properly treated." Hungary regained northern Transylvania, about half the province, in an axis-dictated settlement with Rumania last Aug. 30. It had been taken from Hungary in the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire after the world war.]

Antonescu, who has been confronted with a revolt by Iron Guard extremists taking assassins' revenge on many officials of the régime of former King Carol, pleaded with the guard that he had the right to give orders on the grounds that he, too, had been "persecuted" by its foes.

New Axis Plan Hinted.

Antonescu urged members of the Guard to "submit yourselves unquestioningly to the laws of the country," to maintain perfect order and to "work in harmony with all Rumanians" for internal peace.

Declaring that the day was one of "sorrow, suffering and reproaches" because of the loss of half of Transylvania, he vaguely referred to some new axis plan.

"I went to Rome and Berlin for the Transylvanians," Antonescu said. "I pointed out all their sufferings and ours at this time. I found understanding.

"Rumania is no longer alone. I can say no more now, for I am a soldier and a politician. But the day will come when you will know what I did at Rome and Berlin. We must work and make sacrifices to regain our rights."

"Right Shall Be Ours."

Neither "force nor arrogance" will ever be able to drive Rumania from Transylvania, the premier said. "Right rules the world now and right shall be ours."

Rumania's recent signing of the axis military alliance will be celebrated here tomorrow with a military parade in which an entire motorized division of the German army is to participate. Antonescu and young King Michael are expected to take part.

[Reports reaching the Hungarian border on Friday, when the struggle between Antonescu and Iron Guard terrorist-assassins was at its height, said 18 year old Michael had left Buckarest and was en route to the Jugo-Slav border or was just outside the city awaiting restoration of order.]

Elements Making Up Jugo-Slavia

(Story in adjoining column.)

Jugo-Slavia is a kingdom pieced together after the world war and thus has a problem of separatist movements. In 1929 counties were established whose lines overran boundaries of principalities which went into the union of the country. Arrow marks Zagreb, where home of vice premier was bombed, marring unity services.

CHURCH MEETING TO GET REPORT ON ENDOWMENT

An account of the use of income from one of the largest religious endowments in the country will be reviewed when the Chicago Congregational union holds its annual meeting tonight in the Palmer House. Dr. Ernest Graham Guthrie, general director of the union, will make his annual report before 1,000 or more Congregationalists of the metropolitan area.

The Rev. R. P. Barnes.

The union is the directive agency of more than 40 growing churches, neighborhood houses, community centers, foreign language churches, and other religious and social service enterprises. It has an annual budget of approximately $200,000, the principal part of which comes from endowments based mainly on the Victor F. Lawson estate.

The principal guest speaker at the meeting tonight will be the Rev. Roswell P. Barnes of New York, associate general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Hungary Signs $3,700,000 Trade Treaty with Soviet

MOSCOW, Dec. 1 (AP).—Tass, the official soviet Russian news agency, reported tonight the presidium of the supreme soviet has ratified a trade and navigation treaty between Russia and Hungary. The treaty was signed in Moscow on Sept. 3 and provides for a trade turnover of $3,700,000 annually.

CROATS' BOMBS MAR JUGO-SLAV UNITY SERVICES

Blast at Zagreb Home of Vice Premier.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 1 (AP).—Small but noisy protest bombs set off by Croat extremists today marred Jugo-Slavia's celebration of the Day of Union—the 22d anniversary of the proclamation of the union of Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes.

At Zagreb, bombs were exploded in front of the homes of Vice Premier Dr. Vladimir Macek, leader of the Croat Peasant party, and Juraj Krnjevic, party secretary. Both are moderates.

[The Swiss radio quoted the Jugo-Slav Telegraph agency as saying attempts had been made in Zagreb on the lives of the chief of the province, his deputy, and Vice Premier Macek. No arrests were reported.]

Other bombs burst in front of the residence of an army commandant and Banovina palace, Peasant party headquarters. Windows were broken but no casualties were reported.

Union day services in some churches were interrupted by bombs.

Croat extremists demand the separation of their territory, Croatia, from the rest of Jugo-Slavia, a kingdom welded after the world war. Croatia formerly was part of the crown lands of the Hungarian section of Austria-Hungary, and since its incorporation into Jugo-Slavia has been the scene of much disaffection over what the Croats call the dominance of the Serbs.

A long list of army promotions was published and decorations were bestowed. These included the Jugo-Slav Crown, first class, to members of committees that worked abroad during the world war for a military victory and the establishment of the present enlarged nation. These included Naka Grskovic, New York publisher, and Ivan Jager, Minneapolis engineer.

MAJ. WICK, NAZI AIR ACE, LOST ON FLIGHT TO BRITAIN

BERLIN, Dec. 1 (AP).—Maj. Helmuth Wick, commander of the Richthofen squadron, failed to return from a flight last Thursday over British territory it was announced tonight. Comrades said Maj. Wick shot down his 56th opponent during his last flight.

Only 25 years old, he was one of Germany's air heroes of this war. On Oct. 9, after he had been credited with shooting down 40 planes, he was decorated by Adolf Hitler personally with oak leaves added to the iron cross.

Despite his own youth, Maj. Wick once described youth and inexperience as the British air force's gravest problems.

1,700 French Seamen Repatriated from Britain

VICHY, France, Dec. 1 (AP).—Two French passenger vessels, the Winnipeg and the Djenne, arrived today at Toulon with 1,700 French sailors and naval officers repatriated from Britain.

ITALIANS CLAIM TWO VICTORIES IN AFRICAN WAR

ROME, Dec. 1 (AP).—Two successes against the British in Africa were claimed by the Italian high command today. At much contested Gallabat, in the Sudan, an attack was said to have been repulsed, and at Iregri, west of Lake Rodolfo, the daily communique said a six hour fight ended with the British put to flight, leaving 72 dead, some wounded, and material including "three trucks loaded with supplies and munitions."

PEACE FEELERS BEING TRIED OUT, VICHY DISCLOSES

Watches Washington for Significant Moves.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Dec. 1. — The European war has reached a crisis something like that of the world war in 1916. Peace feelers are being sent out. Contacts—some in Sweden, some at the Vatican—are being established envisaging possible stoppage of the war, according to diplomatic circles here.

Equally significant as a contact in the peace moves is the appointment of Rear Admiral William D. Leahy as American ambassador here and especially the resumption of Canadian diplomatic contacts thru the person of M. Dupuis, a French Canadian.

Forces wishing to spread the war have been thwarted by those wishing to halt its spread, it is claimed.

Study Lothian's Activities.

The French are studying British-American relations closely since the return of Lord Lothian, British ambassador, to America. They watch Washington, D. C., also to see how many mistakes made by the French may be repeated in Washington.

Activities of Lord Lothian—who as Philip Henry Kerr was secretary to David Lloyd George in the world war—especially intrigue diplomatic observers here.

French newspapers, also the Swiss, are beginning to reflect doubts whether the Americans are going to be "taken in by Lord Lothian's cry of English misery and start financing the war." The newspaper L'Action Francaise appraised America's "isolationist" strength and speculated on what may be the response to what it indicated was the Lothian campaign to "make Americans do their duty."

The French press quotes English sources to the effect that in order to save England the United States must speed its production to a maximum and jump into the war right away.

"Situation Can't Be Revived."

L'Action Francaise, in this connection, said:

"We don't know, of course, whether this thesis is shared by Lothian. But as for his ideas on British-American coöperation as applied to general politics we are pretty well informed. Lothian expressed his ideas without hedging four years ago in a statement to the effect that the 'situation of the last century can't be revived by England alone. It is not strong enough. But union of the United States, the South American republics, and the nations of the British commonwealth would be strong enough.'

"In other words, Lothian says that the British empire, territorially satisfied, solicits the help of America to aid it to recover the situation of the last century, when its supremacy was undisputed."

Called a Groggy Fighter.

This and other reflections of the French press give voice to the belief that the British have taken a bad beating and are about to throw in the sponge. Accordingly, they watch closely here to see whether any more money is going to be put out to back a fighter who is already groggy.

The French government has received no answer from the British to its protest against the bombing of Marseilles. The shooting down of the plane carrying Jean Chiappe to Syria also has created a high state of indignation in France. The Lyons newspaper Nouvellist hinted that British planes, informed by British spies in France, shot down Chiappe because of his influence as an able administrator in Syria would be a danger to the British near east influence.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 1.—Turkey last night restored daylight saving time, only a month after winter time had been started, in order to facilitate the working of the total blackout.

Battle on Border

French and Siamese planes battled over Thakhek, French Indo-China, as fighting on the border expanded yesterday.

FRENCH BATTLE SIAMESE IN AIR; TOWN SHELLED

Fighting Along Tense Border Grows.

HANOI, French Indo-China, Dec. 2, Monday (AP).—French and Thailand [Siamese] warplanes fought for 20 minutes above the border town of Thakhek yesterday, it was reported here today. The result of the battle was not announced.

Fighting on the Thai-Indo-China border appeared to be expanding as the French shelled the town of Kahon in retaliation for Thailand bomb attacks on Thakhek and Savannakhet last Thursday and yesterday. Three persons were killed in the air raids.

Other details of the operations along the border, where the French have been reported concentrating forces, were not made known.

Take Blackout Precautions.

The principal cities of southern Indo-China are taking blackout precautions. All French women and children have been removed from the border regions.

Hanoi officials said there still was some slight hope of settlement because the French minister to Bangkok and the consul were remaining at their posts.

Relations between Thai and Indo-China have been tense since the Bangkok government early in September formally asked Vichy to return small areas in Laos, western Indo-China state, which France took from Thai [then Siam] by force in 1907. Vichy rejected the claim.

Promise Strong Retaliation.

Colonial officers here said they would retaliate with their entire strength against any major attacks by Thai along the troubled border.

[A Domei, Japanese news agency, dispatch in Hongkong said that a Thailand communique issued in Bangkok reported skirmishes were continuing between French and Thailand border patrols. The Thailand high command Saturday had reported the occupation of three Indo-Chinese districts by its forces. It also said the air raids on the two border towns followed an alleged French bombing of Thai.]

The latest border incident announced was the killing of a sailor on the Mekong river by Thai rifle fire.

ADMIRAL STARK URGES BASES IN U. S. POSSESSIONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 (AP).—Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, today called for advance naval bases in "our own overseas possessions, wherever they may be needed, be it in Puerto Rico, Hawaii, or Guam," to permit operations in the areas where national interests are subject to attack.

In his annual report covering the fiscal year 1940, Stark said "the experiment of disarmament" from 1921 to 1935 "cost us dearly in relative naval strength—but the greatest loss is time."

"Dollars cannot buy yesterday," his report continued. "Our present fleet is strong, but it is not strong enough. The navy should always be in a position to uphold national policies and interests, and to guard the United States and its continental and overseas possessions."

BATTLE 7 MILES HIGH TO SHOOT DOWN 600TH NAZI

Unable to Climb Beyond British Pilot's Range.

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP).—A dogfight seven miles high over the southeast coast in which two British Spitfire pilots shot down a German Messerschmitt plane which couldn't climb higher to elude them was reported tonight by the air ministry news service.

The pilots, who have teamed together in numerous engagements since the evacuation of Dunkirk, flew to battle together again.

An R. A. F. source said the pilots used no special equipment for fighting at terrific heights, except oxygen apparatus commonly used above 15,000 feet.

600th for One Outfit.

Fights at high altitudes are not rare in this war and this one was said to be no record. The Spitfire's ceiling is a military secret.

The ministry news service said the plane was the 600th claimed to have been destroyed by squadrons operating from a single fighter command station. The two pilots shared a prize made up by the station's personnel for the pilot boosting its plane mark to the 600 total.

The pilots were credited with a half plane each. One is a 22 year old flight commander holding the distinguished flying cross, whose personal bag is 11½ Nazis shot down. The other is a 26 year old pilot officer with the distinguished flying cross and bar, who worked on a London evening newspaper before the war. He claims 19½ planes.

3,006 Downed in War.

The British Press association declared the R. A. F. and antiaircraft guns have shot down 3,006 planes over Britain and the coastal waters since the start of the war. Twenty of them were Italian, the rest German, it said.

The royal air force, official sources said, destroyed 221 axis planes over Britain and British waters during November.

British losses over Britain and British waters in November were 53 planes, but 28 of the pilots were saved, according to these sources.

The British said eight German planes were destroyed in Sunday's fighting, while five British planes were missing. All British pilots were reported safe, however.

London had two air raid alarms during the early evening after going thru three daylight alarms. Only a few bombs were dropped in the southern outskirts of the capital, however.

U.S. CAN'T PERMIT AN AXIS VICTORY, BRITISH DECLARE

Assert Roosevelt Given Mandate in Election.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

L. S. Amery.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Despite heavy German air attacks on industrial and shipping areas and notwithstanding the increasing menace of submarines, airplanes, mines, and sea raiders against British shipping, British commentators and military experts hail two major developments in November as victories for the allied cause. The first was the reëlection of President Roosevelt; the second, Greek successes against Italy.

No one here took seriously the election campaign promises to keep the United States out of the war. The English weekly, This Week, gives what may be the best and frankest summary of the British attitude. After declaring that both candidates had overbid one another "first in the declaration that Americans should never fight in the war, and secondly, that they should strain every nerve to insure victory to the side they favored," the weekly added:

"No one dared publicly to admit that whoever became President would have a 100 per cent mandate to declare war as soon as circumstances might render the course advisable. For no one is so simple as to think that America can go on doubling stakes upon the British side and then allow that side to lose."

No "Limited Liability."

The weekly continued: "Whether the United States will engage in active warfare is not really the question. All that is in doubt is when and where it will become obligatory for the safety of the state for the American air, sea, and land forces to be employed. . . . America's present aid cannot be on the lines of limited liability."

While this opinion is generally felt and encouraged, the hope that the Greek campaign may result in knocking Italy out of the war entirely and "win new allies" was expressed by L. S. Amery, secretary for India, in a speech at Newmarket today.

Amery developed the theme which newspapers have been harping on for a week—that Italian reverses on the Albanian front may be a decisive factor in turning the tide against Germany. Amery attributed the poor showing of Italian troops to morale weakened not because the Italians cannot fight, but because they do not believe in the cause for which Premier Mussolini wants them to fight.

"If we can enable Greece to hold her own until we have disposed of the Italians in Egypt, we shall have secured for our armies a foothold from which we might threaten the flank of any German attack upon Turkey," he said.

Advises Against Bragging.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express, which, during the Norwegian campaign, warned against the cheerful victory news from there, today was one of the few newspapers cautioning against building up too high hopes of a quick decision in the Mediterranean.

"Don't brag too soon," it advised. "For the last few weeks we jeered and sneered at the Italians because of their supposed cowardice. This is foolish business."

The Express then said "it was Italian naval strategy to keep her fleet as intact as she can in order to contain a big section of our fleet in the Mediterranean, thus leaving fewer British ships to destroy the raiders now infesting our Atlantic sea routes."

It also declared that "when we deride the prowess of the Italian soldiers, we not only belittle the immense achievements of the Greeks but lay ourselves open to the retort, 'If the Italians altogether are useless in battle, why did you budge from British Somaliland?'"

[The British evacuated Somaliland on Aug. 19 after a 300 mile, 15 day drive by the Italians to Berbera, the capital, from Djibouti.]

DIXON WOMAN DIES AT 73.

Oregon, Ill., Dec. 1 [Special].—Miss Anna Drew, 73 years old, a resident of Dixon most of her life, died here yesterday. Funeral services will be Tuesday.

JARECKI THREAT OF SUIT EVOKES TOMAN DEFIANCE

A threat of court action merely evoked further defiance yesterday from County Treasurer John Toman, who is delaying the payment of 4,302 citizen-canvassers who verified the registration lists for the Nov. 5 election. The threat came Saturday from County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, head of the election machinery.

"I'll pay those people after the 1941 budget is passed, and not a minute before," Toman said. "I'm under 3½ million dollar bond and I'm not taking any chances by tinkering with public funds. It's not true that somebody ordered me not to pay. Nobody asked me to do anything."

Toman also said he did not receive the pay roll for the canvassers until Oct. 31. Judge Jarecki, hearing of this, immediately inquired of his chief of records and replied that the pay roll went to Toman on Oct. 16.

In 1940 Budget, Says Judge.

"Toman had better look up the law," Judge Jarecki said. "The pay roll in question was included in the budget for 1940, submitted a year ago, and has nothing to do with the forthcoming budget. Under the law the county treasurer must pay these canvassers whether there has been an appropriation for the item or not—and must pay them promptly.

"Toman in refusing to pay is speaking to the people in their sovereign capacity as the electorate. As the electorate, the people can't be hampered or controled by manipulation. They can't be blocked by a plea of lacking funds. The lawmakers had this kind of situation in mind and provided for it."

Judge Jarecki injected a new point into the controversy. He recalled that before he became county judge in 1922 it was common practice for payments to election workers to be delayed.

Loan Shark Racket Recalled.

"The result was a racket, with the notes of the workers being discounted by loan sharks around the county building," he said. "I don't intend to have that racket spring up again."

Previously the judge had declared that since "crooked politicians have found that independent citizens can stop them in their tracks they want to harass the citizens and make it undesirable for them to provide their community with honest elections."

It is reported that the Democratic organization still is rankling over the defeat of James M. [Strong Box] Slattery for the United States senate by his Republican opponent, Wayland Brooks.

TRIAL OF FRANK NITTI IN SEIZURE OF UNION TO BE RESUMED TODAY

The trial of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti on charges of conspiracy to seize control of the bartenders' union is scheduled to be resumed today in the Criminal court of Judge John F. Bolton.

It was indicated that George B. McLane, business agent of the union, may take the witness stand to testify against Nitti. McLane refused to testify Friday, basing his refusal on the ground he might incriminate himself. Since then, however, it has been indicated he has changed his mind and would testify, after all.

It was reported yesterday Nitti has recovered sufficiently from a recent illness to join in the planning of his defense and that of the six codefendants who are on trial with him. He has not appeared in court thus far. It was said he had remained away from the courtroom because he was suffering with ulcers of the stomach. Later it was said he had suffered a heart attack.

CAMACHO SWORN IN; PLEDGES TO DEFEND AMERICAS

New Chief Says Mexico Will Build Bases.

BY LESLIE DUNKLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—With a colorful ceremonial reminiscent of the pomp of the days of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho this morning took the oath of office as president of Mexico for the 1940-1946 term.

Representatives of 30 foreign powers included Henry A. Wallace, Vice President elect, and Ambassador Josephus Daniels of the United States; special Latin American delegates, and Dr. Shao Hwa Tan of China.

Diplomatic and military uniforms formed a striking contrast with the somber black suits of members of Mexico's congress. The gathering frequently applauded Camacho's inaugural address.

Camacho pledged Mexico's aid in defense of the Americas and promised to work for a friendship "based on mutual respect, reason, and coöperation." He said he would improve the nation's navy, merchant marine and bases.

"Never again will armed forces intervene in the political life of the country," he declared, adding that he was convinced that soldiers should be barred from politics while on active duty.

Produce More, Labor Told.

The new president promised social security laws to protect workers, aid for farmers, and credits for the people to aid in supplying "a needed lever for high moral and labor standards."

He called on labor for greater national production and announced he would create cabinet posts for labor and marine. The latter, he said, will enable Mexico better to defend her coasts and establish her own bases.

After the ceremony the new president and diplomats drove thru cheering crowds to the national palace, where Camacho received the congratulations of the diplomatic corps.

During the ceremony the principal streets were crowded with persons listening to the proceedings thru loud speakers. Picked troops guarded the streets and armed agrarian forces were massed near government buildings.

Thirty Thousand on Alert.

Thirty thousand guards were estimated to have watched over the inauguration. There was no disorder.

In a broadcast to the United States Wallace declared he was "in complete agreement" with the "lofty sentiments of the Pan-American solidarity" expressed by Camacho. "Apparently he believed that the various differences which may exist between the various nations of this hemisphere can be subordinated to the doctrine of peaceful coöperation," Wallace stated.

Gun Kills Soldier; His Pal Didn't Know It Was Loaded

Fort Dix, N. J., Dec. 1 [Special].—Private Edward W. Zenobi was killed in a mess hall here this morning by another soldier with a gun that he "did not know was loaded." Seattle, Wash., Dec. 1 (AP).—When 3 year old Billy Rampton told his mother he was "running away" last Friday, she dismissed the threat as child's prattle.

An hour later she couldn't find him. All thru the night and yesterday more than a hundred persons joined the parents in the search.

Then last night a neighbor heard a faint "mama" from a dry well less than two blocks from the Rampton home. It was Billy.

Physicians said he suffered only from exposure and hunger.

NANKING CHINESE BRAND U. S. LOAN 'UNFRIENDLY'

Chungking Aid Is Spite, Says Wang Minister.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Dec. 2 (Monday) (AP).—Yakichiro Suma, spokesman for the Japanese foreign office, said today that Japan "had no reaction" to the United States nonrecognition of the Nanking regime of China and to the United States' extension of 100 million dollar credit to the Nationalist government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek since both had been expected.

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 1 (AP).—Wang Ching-wei's publicity minister, P. S. Lin, declared today that the new United States credit of $100,000,000 to the Chungking government was "an unfriendly and unjust reply by a government to the friendly peace concluded between China and Japan."

Japan and the Wang government of Nanking signed treaties of collaboration and "peace" yesterday at Nanking about the time that the White House announced the credit to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's National government at Chungking.

The credit, Lin declared, was extended "out of spite and for the sole purpose of enabling Chungking to exhaust China's strength in useless conflict with Japan while simultaneously weakening Japan's position."

Two Japanese Attacked.

The entire city of Peking and a large area of Shanghai were blockaded tonight by the Japanese as they border settlement here, and a Japanese carried on an intense search for persons who attacked two Japanese. At least 20,000 Chinese and several hundred frogeiners were affected.

An unidentified gunman shot and wounded a man reported to be a Japanese gendarme in a western anese lieutenant-colonel was assassinated in Peking.

The Japanese military, in a statement issued thru Domei, Japanese news agency, declared two of three "Chungking agents" responsible for wrecking a train near Soochow on Friday had been killed by Japanese soldiers. It was officially reported 73 Chinese and one Japanese were killed in the wreck and 70 persons seriously injured.

Air Raid Near Chungking.

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 1 (AP).—The Japanese today followed up their pact of collaboration with the puppet Nanking government with the first raid on the Chungking area in more than a month.

Japs Retreat, say Chinese.

HONGKONG, Dec. 2, Monday (AP).—The Central [Chinese] news agency reported today that a much-publicized Japanese offensive in Hupeh province had been shattered by Chinese counter attacks. The agency said the Japanese are beating a general retreat toward their original bases.

GREEN INDORSES BENSON AS STATE SENATE LEADER

As he was preparing yesterday to leave for two weeks under southern skies, Dwight H. Green, governor elect of Illinois, gave his indorsement to State Senator Arnold P. Benson of Batavia as a candidate for president pro tempore of the upper house of the general assembly.

Senator Benson.

This action parallels Green's early declaration in favor of the election of State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago for speaker of the house of representatives.

Caucuses to determine the award of these two key positions will be held in Springfield by the Republican majorities in the two houses the evening of Jan. 7, the night before the convening of the new assembly.

Silent on Own Appointments.

Those are the only announcements that the governor elect has made in the four weeks since his victory at the polls and are taken as an indication of his great interest in the legislative program he will present to the assembly. When he left he still was silent about his own appointments in the executive department.

Senator Benson is entering upon his third four-year term in the upper chamber in Springfield. During the 61st [1939] session he was elected minority leader, the most important post open to a Republican in the organization of that chamber. He has been a lifelong resident of Batavia and is editor and publisher of the Batavia Herald.

Unless he is in the chair during the absence of the lieutenant governor, who is president of the senate, the president pro tem acts as majority floor leader. During the last session, however, because of an intraparty problem, the Democratic majority chose both a president pro tempore and a floor leader.

Return to Precedent Likely.

That example probably will not be followed by the Republicans, as the precedent of many years is for the president pro tem, when called to the chair, to designate a majority floor leader for the occasion.

Governor Elect Green, Mrs. Green, and their two daughters, Nancy, 13, and Gloria, [illegible] left on the Capitol Limited for the south via Washington, D. C., where they will spend a few hours today with relatives of Mrs. Green. The vacation destination was not announced. Green gave his reasons for that silence in a statement he issued at the train.

"I am asking that my vacation be uninterrupted," he said, "so that I may be fully prepared to assume the duties of governor on Jan. 13. In not revealing my destination, I am seeking the indulgence of those who expect unceasing effort from me in the next four years.

Need of Funds Cited.

"My administration will face many grave problems immediately. Funds must be found to insure performance of the functions of government, and budgets must be shaped to effect economies while still meeting pressing deficits.

"There are important matters of legislation I want to place before the general assembly at the earliest possible moment. I shall devote considerable time while I am away to the study and preparation of my inaugural address and message. The legislature has serious problems, too, and I want to make suggestions that will be helpful.

Job Conferences Described.

"I have worked in campaigns for more than a year without interruption, and since the election I have devoted my entire time to conferences on governmental and legislative problems as well as to consideration of the many applications for appointments to state offices. My office has been open to all who wished to consult me.

"A few days away with my family will provide a little rest and relaxation, and, at the same time, the opportunity for thoro and uninterrupted study of the many duties which confront me. I am taking none of my staff with me, as I shall work only on those matters which involve my own decision. I have even requested my office here not to communicate with me. I expect to return about Dec. 17."

FALL IN REVOLVING DOOR FATAL.

Mrs. Christine Christensen, 79 years old, widow of a Whitewater, Wis., druggist, died in Grant hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Nov. 6 when she fell in a revolving door at 4753 Broadway. She had been living at the Allerton hotel, 701 North Michigan avenue.

G. O. P. STUDIES ACTION TO LIFT FOOD SALES TAX

Bill Upset in 1939 Held Best Means.

Gov. Elect Dwight H. Green already is working hard to redeem his campaign pledge to remove the sales tax from food if this is legally possible, he said yesterday before leaving for a vacation with his family. Eliminating the tax on food would mean a saving to the public of an estimated 27 million dollars a year.

Several possible means of accomplishing this end are being studied, but the outstanding one thus far is embodied in a bill which failed to pass the 1939 session of the legislature. Both Green and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, whom the governor elect favors for speaker of the house, said this bill, with modifications, may be reintroduced.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside], would repeal the present sales tax law and substitute one applying only to dealers selling "tangible nonesculent personal property to purchasers for use." The word "esculent" means food for human consumption. Many lawyers regard this as the best method of making the change impervious to legal attack.

Creates New Classification.

These lawyers said a bill which merely amends the sales tax law to exempt food would be unconstitutional because it would be legislation favoring one class of dealers. On the other hand, the Lund bill would create a new classification under which all dealers not selling food for human consumption would be taxed equally.

The constitutionality of the Lund bill was not questioned in the 1939 session.

Only two Republicans voted against the bill, and no Democrats voted for it. Gov. Horner's secretary had brought word to the house that the bill was to be defeated.

Candidates Favor Move.

In the April primary campaign, however, a majority of successful candidates for the legislature indicated in answers to questionnaires that they would support a move to abolish the food tax.

Lund said yesterday the bill also would remove the tax from beer, wine, and liquor because these would be in the "esculent" classification. He said other taxes on these items could be raised easily.

Lund will not be a member of the legislature convening Jan. 8. He dropped out of the house contest to make an unsuccessful race for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

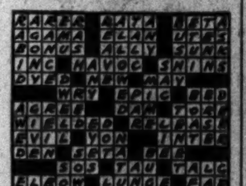
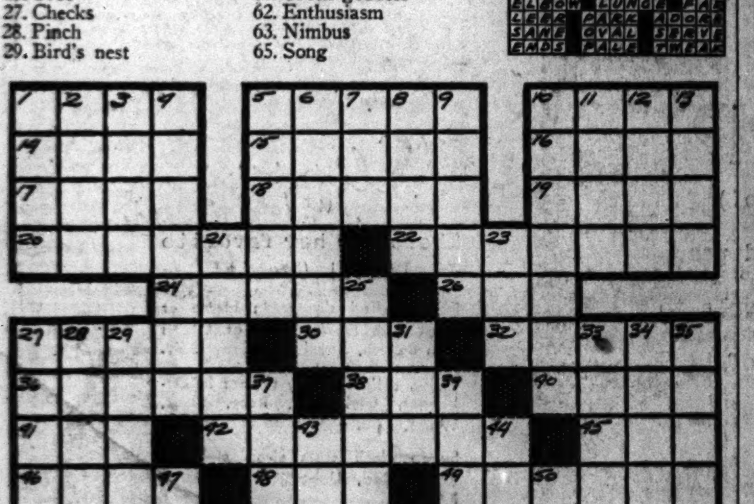
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, NOV. 30, SOLVED





STELLE TO FIND THIS WEEK HOW FAR HE CAN GO

He'll Learn Limitations in Variety of Matters.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 1.—This week, with the budgetary commission scheduled for an initial meeting on Wednesday, the Stelle administration is expected to learn how far it has gone and how far it can go in spending the $490,278,253 biennial appropriation before Governor Elect Dwight Green's inauguration set for Jan. 13. The fiscal biennum ends on June 30, 1941, but the legislature's appropriation laws do not compel Gov. John Stelle to leave his successor enough money to operate the government for the first five and a half months of the Republican administration.

This week, with the November pay rolls on record in the auditor's office, Stelle will be able to learn for the first time how far his decentralized patronage management has gone in shifting jobs to give two or three months' pay to those who worked for the governor in his unsuccessful spring campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Pardons and Paroles.

This week, with the new board of pardons and paroles holding its initial meetings, the public will probably learn how much sympathy is to be given to the many clemency pleas addressed to the short term administration mainly thru friendly, petty politicians.

This week any maneuver to delay the inauguration of Green thru a deadlock over the election of a speaker of the house, is expected to become evident.

There are 79 Republican seats in the lower chamber. For the speaker's election, a constitutional prerequisite to the governor's inauguration, 77 votes are required. Friends of Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Green's choice for the job, are canvassing the Republicans to be sure that none has been lured from party regularity.

Spending Report Due.

This week George Edward Day, Stelle's purchasing agent, has promised a report on his spending as compared with his predecessor's. This will be a report on the inexperienced but eager management of the state's pocketbook by the governor's department heads.

This week Ernst Lieberman, who has been retained as chief engineer of the highway administration, may act on requests to commit the Green administration to spend motorists' tax money on a Congress street parkway promotion in Chicago where the money is needed for life saving superhighways.

This week Alfred H. Greening, a Republican, is to succeed a Democrat as state's attorney of Sangamon county. He will have jurisdiction of prosecutions for any violations of the Illinois criminal code committed in the capital by the present administration or by the sick room regency during the prolonged invalidism of the late governor, Henry Horner.

Grand Jury to Adjourn.

This week a federal grand jury, in session since last August, is to adjourn with a final report on alleged slush fund expenditures among politicians by certain public utilities in this district. Federal agents working on the case have the "little black book" of the late F. Lynden Smith, the private record of campaign collections and disbursements of this former director of public works and Democratic campaign manager, whose body was found in a bathtub of a Springfield hospital last March.

Greening has requested the government men to give him the Smith book when they are thru with it.

GOOD TURN A DAY BOYS TO BECOME GOOD FELLOWS

Boy Scouts to Donate 100 Baskets.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Junior Good Fellows will become a reality this Christmas season. The Boy Scouts of Chicago will take more than 100 baskets of food, toys and candy to unfortunate families at Yuletime. Plans for this movement are now underway and a rally of 600 Scout leaders of Chicago will be held soon in the audience studio of W-G-N.

W. Arthur McKinney.

"If the work of Good Fellows continues to grow it will devolve on the younger generation," said W. Arthur McKinney, executive of the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts.

Do Good Turns on Christmas.

He emphasized that the 25,000 Chicago Scouts help spread Christmas cheer in carrying out the Scout slogan: "Do a Good Turn Daily."

"I think Good Fellows do a magnificent work," he added, "and I hope the Scouts will be among the leaders of this cause when they grow into manhood."

Assisting McKinney in making arrangements for the delivery of these baskets will be John Lovett, assistant director of field service, and George A. Mozealous, assistant director of camping service.

The baskets will be assembled by the Scouts and taken on Christmas eve to the homes of the needy.

Other Juveniles to Help.

Other boys and girls, too, are asked to follow the example being set by these Boy Scouts. A basket, which includes toys, will cost $5 to $6.

There are three ways in which one may support the Good Fellow campaign. They are outlined in the accompanying Good Fellow coupon.

The Good Fellow Bureau is located at 1 South Dearborn street in the Tribune's Public Service office. The telephone number is Superior 0200.

JILTED IN IOWA, WOMAN ACCUSES WOOER OF THEFT

Miss Claire Michelow, 24 years old, of the Commonwealth hotel, 2757 Pine Grove avenue, asked the police yesterday to arrest Jud Butler of Cleveland, O., a salesman, who she said, reneged on his promise to marry her. She also accused him of taking $20 from her purse and clothing worth $200.

Claire Michelow.

Miss Michelow said she met Butler two weeks ago. He asked her to give up her job as manager of a dress department in a State street store and travel with him, she said. He told her "we will live the life of Riley," according to Miss Michelow.

Butler drove her to Davenport, Ia., Saturday where they were to be married, she said. When they got there the marriage license office was closed and Butler left her at a hotel to find a friend who could get the license officer to issue one. He did not return. Miss Michelow then said she discovered her losses and wired to relatives to send her money to return to Chicago.

PRESIDENT FACES SHOWDOWN OVER ARMS MUDDLING

Defense Program Now 6 Months Behind Time.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—With airplane production lagging seriously, President Roosevelt faces a showdown in the new congress next month on the efficacy of his system for the mobilization of American industry under the defense program. The production program is nearly six months behind schedule.

Particularly under fire will be the haphazard, headless organization which is struggling futilely with the problem of achieving maximum production of aircraft and other military material for the United States armed forces and for the British government.

There is the national defense advisory commission, which has no directing head except the President—who cannot devote himself exclusively to the job, even if he were qualified by experience to handle a large scale undertaking of industrial mobilization.

Various Interests Clash.

There are the war department and the navy department, each with independent functions which frequently clash with operations of the defense commission.

Aircraft production has been slowed down in important instances by the failure of government experts to test prototype planes and by changes in design after the beginning of construction.

The program of aircraft construction for the United States and Great Britain requires full operation of all existing aircraft factories, the building at rush speed of additional factories and the utilization of other industries for the manufacture of airplane engines.

It appears, however, that even the existing facilities of the aircraft industry are not operating 100 per cent. Some factories are not operating at the maximum capacity of their floor space. Some still operate on a five day week schedule.

40% Capacity Wasted.

One of the most serious bottlenecks in the production of military aircraft is in the manufacture of airplane engines. The automobile industry is qualified to turn out airplane engines on a vast scale. At present the automobile industry is using only 60 per cent of its capacity in the manufacture of automotive vehicles and machinery. The other 40 per cent could be utilized for airplane engine production.

Six months after initiation of the defense program, however, facilities of the automobile industry are yet to be utilized on a large scale for the manufacture of engines.

A month ago the war department denied any shortage of airplane engines. Then a few days ago, when the shortage was admitted, the only remedial measure forthcoming from the administration was an embargo on the production of aircraft and engines for the extension of commercial air lines.

President off for a Cruise.

The necessity of getting the automobile factories busy turning out engines is regarded by many officials as the most pressing demand of the moment, but whether any effective step in that direction can be taken immediately is problematical. The defense commission can take no action without the authority of the President, and Mr. Roosevelt is leaving Washington tomorrow for a fortnight's cruise.

Realization of the President's goal of 50,000 planes a year, proclaimed six months ago, is now seen to be extremely remote. The utmost that can be expected by July 1, 1942, is the production of 20,000 planes a year. The immediate program is to produce 40,000 planes by that date—26,000 for the American army and navy and 14,000 for Great Britain, tho this proportion will be changed in favor of the British by the President's recent pronouncement that the two countries will share equally in American plane production.

The 1940 schedule of production called for 6,000 planes, but the total will be less than 5,000. Of the 6,000 projected, the British were allocated about 3,000. The army's share is about 2,000, chiefly training planes, and the navy's share is 1,000. Production has lagged steadily. The production rate was scheduled to reach 750 in October, but fewer than 600 were completed that month. Of these the British received 280.

Field Artillery Unit Seeks Recruits for Year's Camp

Lieut. John Harris, adjutant of the 3d battalion, 184th field artillery, announced yesterday that more than 100 recruits are needed to bring the National Guard regiment to full peacetime strength. The 184th is an all-Negro regiment with headquarters in the armory at 3517 Giles avenue. It will be called into federal service soon after Jan. 1 for a year's training at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich.

No Business Can Stand Still

'HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT'
a weekly column by
Holgar J. Johnson
President Institute of Life Insurance

No business—however well-run—is good enough to stand still. This applies especially to life insurance. Our business has a fine record of public service; but it has also a clear-cut social obligation which dictates that it can never stand on its record. It must progress.

JOHNSON

This progress depends upon efforts in many directions—among others upon research. Not all research has been for the purpose of producing material things. It involves also analyses of markets, the search for improved methods of distribution and better service.

It is this kind of research—dealing with the human side—that helps life insurance do a better job. For the past 20 years, the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau, supported by the insurance companies, has been conducting research which has improved distribution methods and raised the service standards of the agent.

Now, there's a new step forward. The companies have just established the S. S. Huebner Foundation at the University of Pennsylvania. Named for a celebrated scholar who has devoted his life to the teaching of insurance subjects, it will promote new research in life insurance and at the same time develop more trained teachers of life insurance for American colleges and universities.

Thus life insurance recognizes again its social obligations to find better ways to conduct its business in the public interest. It recognizes the fact that the millions of policyholders who own life insurance have a great stake in the business; therefore, it cannot stand still.

TO THE MAN WITH A JOB WHO NEEDS A LOAN

How you can borrow $20 to $300—without endorsers or guarantors and repay in convenient monthly installments—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service

WOULD you like to get a cash loan without having to ask friends or relatives for a favor? At Household Finance you can apply for $20 to $300—without endorsers or guarantors—if you can make small monthly payments on your loan. We require no stocks or bonds, no wage or salary assignment. You borrow on your own signature (no friends need sign)—and at rates substantially below the lawful maximum.

Choose your own payment plan

See, in the table below, how you may repay your loan in convenient monthly installments which fit your own income. You may repay in small installments spread over 20 months. Or you may repay sooner to reduce the charges. Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.77 each will repay a $100 loan in full in 12 months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 a month for 20 months will also repay a $100 loan.

Same rate to everyone

Installments in the table cover everything. They include charges at the rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only one rate—the same to everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

No one else need know

When you borrow at Household, there is no need to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) We do not ask friends or relatives about your credit. If you should be faced with sickness or unemployment while paying on a loan, Household will show you every consideration. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

If a loan will help you, you are urged to look at the table again. Then phone or visit us for further information. You'll be under no obligation to borrow.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Move Today to Indict 4 for Shooting Guard.

head guard since 1920, guarded the money transfers. James Dubenic, a Tribune employé since 1923, usually drove the car in which the money was brought from the bank.

The story of the planning and commission of The Tribune robbery, as described by Moynihan from the confessions of the robbers follows:

"On his visits to the bank Smith saw the money being taken out and conceived the plan of a robbery. The confessions of his confederates designate him as the brains of the gang.

Two Gangsters "Case Job."

"Smith outlined his plan to Lullo and Allegretti. On July 16, three days before the holdup, Lullo got in touch with Rizzo and the two of them went to the neighborhood of the bank. It was Rizzo's business to 'case the job,' that is, look over the ground, familiarize himself with the routine of The Tribune employés transferring the money, and obtain their route from the bank to the newspaper.

"Lullo, Allegretti, and Smith, who were to stage the actual robbery, did not wish to attract suspicion by loitering around the bank.

"On the first day, Lullo took Rizzo into a restaurant across the street from the bank, pointed out The Tribune car, and left. Rizzo stayed, noticed the time Walsh and Dubenic went into the bank, the length of their stay inside, the time they came out, how they were carrying the money, and where their car went. He then went to a poolroom at Grand and Ashland avenues, near Smith's station, and reported to Lullo.

Lullo Sets Robbery Date.

"The following day Rizzo followed the same procedure, except that he went to the vicinity of the bank alone. He again watched from the restaurant, and again reported to Lullo.

"Lullo directed him to be near the bank two days later, on Friday, at about 10 a. m., saying that the robbery was planned for then. Rizzo was to stay around and watch, then direct his confederates when to do the robbery.

"On Friday morning Rizzo drove down in his own car. He parked on Erie street, just east of State, facing east, and walked over toward the bank. At the corner of Michigan avenue and Erie street he met Lullo. Lullo told him to stay and watch for the arrival of the Tribune car, notice how many persons were in it and when they went into the bank, and then to go to an alley on the south side of Ohio street, between Michigan avenue and St. Clair street.

Two Gunmen Take Posts.

"Rizzo did this, meeting Smith, who was in his car, at the alley. Smith drove him to St. Clair street and Grand avenue, where Rizzo got out. Smith then drove along St. Clair street until he came to Lullo and Allegretti, who were posted on either side of the street, between Illinois street and Grand avenue.

"Smith then circled back and waited for THE TRIBUNE car to come along. As it approached, heading south in St. Clair street, he drove slowly along in front of it, and, upon arriving at the spot where Lullo and Allegretti were waiting, stopped.

"Cars were parked on both sides of the narrow street and the Tribune car, unable to pass, was forced to stop. Lullo and Allegretti, both armed with .38 caliber revolvers, closed in on the Tribune car, Lullo from the right side of the car, and Allegretti from the left. The shooting began.

shotgun, advanced on the Tribune car, and fired two blasts into the body of the car.

"After Walsh was put out of action, badly wounded, his trigger finger shot away, Lullo reached into the Tribune car and took the money sack from the floor beside Dubenic, who had crouched down and was unwounded. The three gunmen then returned to their car and Smith turned west into Illinois street and drove away, with Lullo and Allegretti in the rear seat.

Divide Loot in Cicero Garage.

"The three bandits went to a private garage in Cicero and there divided the money. Each of them took $2,700. Rizzo says he was given $300. The remaining $779 was supposed to have been put into a pool for expenses.

"Smith, Lullo, and Allegretti left their hats and other distinctive clothing, their guns, and the money sack in the car. The following day they burned the money sack and hid the guns.

"Rizzo, after the holdup, walked back to his parked car and drove to Grand and Ashland avenues. He met the others later in that neighborhood."

Assistant State's Attorney Moynihan said the bandits' car was owned jointly by Allegretti and Smith, that it was used a week later, on July 26, in the robbery of the Hurley Machine company, 1945 South 54th avenue, Cicero, and that it was abandoned by the four robbers in that holdup after being wrecked at Madison street and Keeler avenue while being pursued by police.

Only one of the Hurley robbers, Joseph Kostek, 23, of 608 North Paulina street, was captured. He said that he knew only one of his accomplices—Joseph Cullato, 34, of 515 North Aberdeen street, at present a fugitive. Authorities are not overlooking the fact that the other two bandits who escaped in the Hurley holdup might have participated in the Tribune robbery.

Information is being investigated which might lead to the discovery of still other holdups by the robbers of THE TRIBUNE in which the same car was used.

Wire Coast to Hold Bandit.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday wired Capt. S. S. Stone of the Los Angeles robbery detail to hold Allegretti, promising that warrants would follow. Assistant State's Attorney Moynihan will obtain the warrants this morning in Felony court and then will start extradition proceedings by asking Gov. John Stelle for a requisition to return Allegretti to Chicago. When indictments are voted, Los Angeles authorities will be notified.

Allegretti admitted fleeing Chicago after he learned he had become a suspect in the Tribune robbery. He also admitted he was a close associate of Smith, and that he knew Lullo, but he refused to discuss Rizzo. He said he had $2,000 "and then some" in a San Pedro safety deposit box, the key to which was found in his possession. A court order will be obtained today to open the box.

Bare Grandiose Robbery Plot.

The grandiose robbery plot on Fort Ord first came to light when the three bandits under arrest in Chicago disclosed Allegretti's San Pedro hideout. They said San Pedro police might not find Allegretti for a few days because he went to Monterey at the end of each month when the government pay roll was being moved to look over the situation.

The robbers said Allegretti had told them of the huge pay rolls going into the fort, had made several trips there to "case" the ground, and had asserted he would send for them when he was ready to attempt the robbery.

Allegretti was captured Saturday directly after his return to San Pedro from Monterey. Saturday was pay day at Fort Ord, and he is believed to have inspected the handling of the pay roll to further his robbery plans.

While driving back to Chicago from one visit to California, Allegretti picked up a hitch-hiker who turned out to be a soldier stationed at Fort Ord. It is believed that talk by this soldier of the pay roll gave Allegretti the idea of robbing the fort.

Find Letter to Soldier.

While Detectives Ernest Sloey and Joseph Healy of State's Attorney Courtney's office were waiting for Allegretti to return from Monterey to his hotel in San Pedro a letter previously sent by Allegretti to the soldier at Fort Ord was returned unclaimed. It read:

"I am back on the coast, as I said I would be. How is my radio coming along? If it is ready I would like to have it as soon as you can ship it, as I am anxious to get it. If it is not ready, I would like to hear from you by return mail."

Capt. Stone expressed belief that the references to a radio were simple code terms between Allegretti and the soldier concerning the contemplated robbery. Allegretti insisted he had commissioned the soldier to make him a radio, but the captain considered it ludicrous that a man with so much ready cash would bother with a homemade radio.

Allegretti said that in Monterey he learned that the soldier was A. W. O. L. and had been for 29 days. Because of information supplied by the Chicago detectives, the pay roll moved to the fort Saturday was guarded by troops. Allegretti was believed to have watched the money being escorted to the fort, but the sudden appearance of a detachment of troops guarding the funds failed to frighten him into flight. He returned to San Pedro and walked into the arms of the waiting detectives.

2 BOYS AND GIRL BURN TO DEATH IN AUTO CRASH

Fairfax, Va., Dec. 1 (AP).—Two high school students roasted to death in the luggage compartment of a coupé early today when the lid slammed down and trapped them after a collision which set the car afire.

The driver, Dennis Burdis, 15 years old, also burned to death. Two companions in the front seat, William Remington, 14, and Robert Carlton, 15, were severely injured. Doris Finlayson, 16, and Aeneas Anthony Collins, 18, perished in the luggage compartment.

HIGHER SCHOOL LEVY NEEDED TO KEEP FULL TERM

Legislature Is Faced with Chicago Problem.

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

Altho the cost of operating Chicago's public schools is expected to be less in 1941 than in 1940, the legislature next January will be faced with the difficult choice of asking taxpayers for an additional $3,750,000 or of having a month lopped off the school term. This situation became apparent yesterday after the release of the business manager's report on estimated school resources and requirements for 1941.

The crisis which the legislature will face is of its own making. In 1939 it pegged the levy of the board of education's educational fund at 48 million dollars for 1939, 1940, and 1941, despite protests that the sum was insufficient to operate the schools satisfactorily. There was a tacit agreement to make up part of the estimated annual deficiency of $3,500,000 out of motor fuel tax funds.

Reduce Amount Each Year.

Since then these contributions have been made, but in decreasing amounts each year. One million was slashed off in 1939; another million in 1940. At the last session of the legislature motor fuel tax funds were entirely withdrawn from the schools and reserved for relief and road building.

In the meantime expenditures of the board of education had increased. In 1939 and in 1940 a week was added to the school term at an approximate cost per week of $1,300,000 in salaries and other expenses. Salaries were restored to within 7½ per cent of pre-depression levels. Three new high schools were built and smaller building projects were completed.

Thru an extensive program of economics these added expenditures were absorbed in the school budget in spite of the decreasing revenues from the motor fuel tax. In doing so, however, the schools' surplus fund, which once totaled $3,585,029, was reduced by approximately $1,250,000.

Able to Balance Budget.

By adding the surplus fund withdrawals to the $2,500,000, which was the average annual contribution from the motor fuel tax fund, the board of education balanced its budget. But with the motor fuel tax contribution now denied and with surplus funds depleted, an increase in the pegged levy from $48,000,000 to $51,750,000 will be necessary to balance the school budget, it is stated.

This boost in the pegged tax levy would mean a direct increase in the taxes of property owners to make up for the money previously obtained by the schools from the motor fuel tax, which is paid by autoists. The motor fuel tax, being a fixed levy, will not be reduced in spite of the fact that the schools no longer obtain a share of it.

With one month remaining in the calendar year Alfred E. Bolt, auditor of the board of education, estimates that expenditures this year will be approximately 69 million dollars or about one million more than during the preceding year. Most of this increase was due to the extra week in the school term.

Forecast Lower Expenses.

President James B. McCahey said expenditures next year actually will be lower than this year because it will not be necessary to extend the term again, the building program is not so extensive, and economies will be demanded from heads of all departments.

The difference between the amount of the pegged levy for the educational fund and the total expenditures of the board is gained thru tax levies on a fixed rate basis for the five other funds in the budget and miscellaneous revenues from such sources as school lunchrooms. These levies probably will not be increased next year.

The business manager's report is the first step in drawing up a budget. It will serve as a basis for conferences between department heads and members of the board which will begin tomorrow and continue until Jan. 1 when a tentative budget will be drafted. This will be offered for approval at a public hearing early in January. The final budget will then be drafted and sent to the city council.

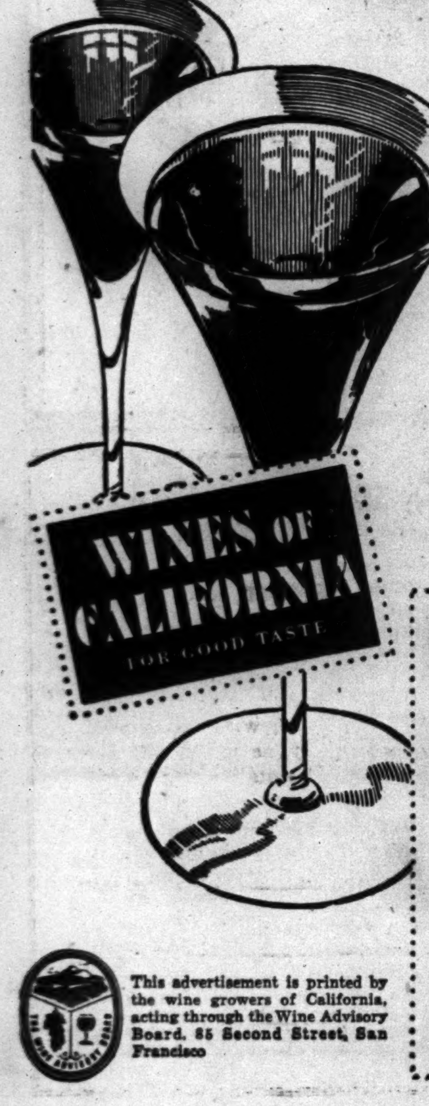
FIND MORE GUESTS THAN EVER BEFORE NOW PREFER WINE



IS THERE A CHANGE in hospitality customs today? Well-known hosts and hostesses say so. It's come about, they report, because so many people now prefer a moderate beverage.

Perhaps you've noticed it yourself. How many men and women now choose Sherry at appetizer time. Or a delicious sweet wine at afternoon or evening affairs. Or a good table wine with the main course at dinner.

Try it next time you entertain. Give each guest at your house a chance to select wine. See how this considerate hospitality is appreciated.

TIPS ON SERVING WINE

AN APPETIZER WINE
like Sherry is best before dinner. Sherry is amber, nutlike in flavor. This good wine promises a good time to follow. It is usually served in a cocktail-size glass.

TABLE WINES
go best with meals. They are made "dry" (not sweet) to complement food. Try tart, red Claret or Burgundy wine; delicate, golden Sauternes or Chablis (well chilled) in servings half water glass size.

SWEET WINES
go best with refreshments and desserts. They are made rich with the natural sweetness of the grape. Try red Port or golden Muscatel, each in servings.

Attention: Music Lovers!

SYMPHONY RECORD OFFER TO CLOSE DEC. 21st

10,000 Chicagoans Called for Their Records on the First Day of Distribution... Closing-Day Crowds Are Apt to Be Even Larger... Please Co-operate With Us By Following These Suggestions:—

The Chicago distribution of phonograph records of 12 of the world's greatest symphonic masterpieces will be officially closed on Saturday, December 21st at 6 p. m.

This Music Appreciation Offer comes to a close after one of the most successful distributions in the entire United States.

More than 10,000 Chicagoans called for their records on the opening day of the distribution. They stood in a line two blocks long, before the doors were opened, at the Distribution Headquarters at 65 E. Lake St.

On that opening day, sixty clerks worked from nine o'clock in the morning until eight that night, distributing the records to music lovers who stood fifteen deep in front of the music counters, waiting their turn.

Each week, during the three months that followed, a complete symphonic masterpiece was released! The immortal music of Schubert! Beethoven! Tschaikowsky! Mozart! Bach! Wagner! Haydn! Brahms! Debussy! Franck!

Tens of thousands of Chicagoans took good music to their hearts! Civic and educational leaders gave the movement their warmest support. Editorials of high commendation appeared in some of the Chicago newspapers. Mayor Kelly issued a Proclamation urging fullest support of the distribution.

At a cost of only $1.69, Chicagoans secured COMPLETE symphonies, (3 or 4 double-faced, twelve-inch records in each group) of some of the world's greatest musical masterpieces.

But, whereas tens of thousands of Chicagoans have secured the records, there still exists a tremendous demand.

This demand exists among thousands of families who have intended all along to get the symphonies but who have not done so up to this time.

An even greater demand exists among the people who have obtained some few of the symphonies, but who missed getting several or more of the groups during the time of the regular weekly releases.

In view of the fact that the crowds of the final closing days are apt to be even larger than the crowds of the opening, we request your co-operation in helping us minimize confusion and add to the success of the distribution.

There are two ways in which you can co-operate with us:

(1) If you intend to obtain certain additional symphonies before the offer is permanently closed, PLEASE call or send for them as promptly as possible. PLEASE do not wait until the last few days.

(2) If you are not prepared to get the additional symphonies right away, either through lack of time or money, THEN PLEASE take note of the Memo form printed in the lower left corner of this page. Merely check off which of the symphonies you will want, and fill in the date when you will send or call for them. We will put your symphonies aside at a "WILL CALL COUNTER." They will be wrapped and ready for you to pick them up.

The co-operation we suggest will react definitely to your own advantage. Because, by acting promptly you will be certain to get those particular symphonies which you most desire.

At this time, we have at least some of each of the 12 symphonies. Therefore, if there are some of the twelve that you have not yet obtained, you can be sure of getting them by calling for them within the next day or so. Undoubtedly, as the closing hour approaches, we are certain to run short of some of the twelve symphonies.

These Are Same Recordings as Originally Offered!

The Society would like to make it clear that these records, which will be available to the public up until 6 p. m., Saturday, December 21st, are the same records as originally offered.

These symphonic masterpieces, at $1.69, recorded by some of the world's greatest orchestras and conductors, with the names of those orchestras and conductors on the records would have cost from $6.50 to $8.50 prior to the general price cut in records.

The opportunity to get these magnificent musical masterpieces at this extremely small cost is something that may never again be possible.

Practically all Chicago music lovers are familiar with the distribution of these symphonic compositions. They represent inspired interpretations of some of the world's outstanding symphony orchestras under the direction of their equally famous conductors. They have been reviewed by the music critics of the Chicago newspapers as well as by critics the nation over. The highest praise has often been bestowed upon them.

The distribution of these records has been conducted under the auspices of the Chicago Society for Music Education which, in turn, had the co-operation of four of Chicago's prominent music organizations, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Chicago Opera, Ravinia Festival and Chicago Women's Orchestral Association. The Society secured the records through the Publishers' Service Company, which originated and managed the Music Appreciation offers throughout the United States and which makes a profit on the records. The Society, however, is a non-profit organization, and after payment for the records, together with all other costs of conducting the distribution, turns over any remaining proceeds to the four Chicago musical organizations.

Mail Order Form for Those Who Live Outside Chicago

For the convenience of those who live outside of Chicago, or for Chicagoans who want their records delivered, a MAIL ORDER FORM has been included in the lower right corner of this page. Mail orders will be filled in the order of receipt.

Again, may we say to those who intend to call for certain of the symphonies before the closing hour:—

Please co-operate by (1) Calling or sending for your symphonies within the next few days; or, (2) Sending in the Memo, telling us which symphonies to save for you until you are ready to call for them.

We feel sure that all Chicago music lovers will join with the Society feeling that this distribution of fine symphonic records has advanced the cause of good music in our city by many years. Through this movement we have placed the world's most beautiful symphonic music in thousands of Chicago homes for the first time and to that extent we have increased the number of families who really care about the cultural opportunities of the community.

It is to be hoped that the love for the beautiful music of these twelve valuable symphonic masterpieces, which the Society was able to distribute among the great public will be handed down from generation to generation of Chicagoans as a precious cultural heritage.

The Society's Distribution Headquarters are located at 65 East Lake Street and 14 North Franklin Street, and the records will be available at both locations as long as the supply lasts.

THE FACTS ON SENATOR BARKLEY.

Ever since a newspaper editor first exposed a political scoundrel the politicians' stock reply has been a diatribe against "lying newspapers." The late Huey Long made such frequent use of the phrase that "lyingnewspaper" was incorporated in the Louisiana vernacular as a compound word similar to "damyankee."

Thus when Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky hid behind his senatorial immunity to attack the veracity of THE TRIBUNE, he was merely adopting one of the stalest tricks of hack politicians, of whom he is one of the most eminent.

THE TRIBUNE, commenting on his announcement that he reserved the right to object later to the seating of Senator Brooks, has said of Senator Barkley:

"If there were any doubt as to the validity of Senator Brooks' election, which there is not, Senator Barkley is the last man any honest Democrat would choose to dispute it. The country has not forgotten that Barkley's own renomination and election to the senate were procured by the shameless bribery of the voters of Kentucky with federal funds. It was a use of money which President Roosevelt not only condoned but brazenly recommended in his statement reminding Kentuckians of the grants that he had been pleased to bestow on his yes man, and it was so flagrant that it aroused the indignation of a senate investigating committee, the majority of whose members were of Barkley's own party."

That is the statement which Senator Barkley terms "an unvarnished, unmitigated, premeditated, malicious lie." Here are the facts:

In 1938 Senator Barkley, backed by the President and the full power of the Roosevelt political machine, was seeking renomination against the opposition of Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky. On July 8 President Roosevelt went to Covington, Ky., to make a speech on behalf of his "dear Alben." On that day Mr. Roosevelt said:

"In these six years the federal government has allotted to Kentucky in new kinds of federal expenditures for relief, work relief, public works, the education of youth, farm rehabilitation, and crop benefits approximately 280 million dollars.

"In these six years the federal government has spent in more traditional forms of federal expenditure . . . at least another 50 million dollars."

Having previously commended his favorite as one with faith that the government would come thru [the President's own words], Mr. Roosevelt then commended him anew by comparison with his opponent, saying:

"I have no doubt that Gov. Chandler would make a good senator from Kentucky—but I think he would be the first to acknowledge that as a very junior member of the senate it would take him many, many years to match the national knowledge, the experience, and the leadership in the affairs of the nation of that son of Kentucky, of whom the whole nation is proud, Alben Barkley."

If there was any doubt in the minds of Kentuckians that the President was making an appeal to greed for federal funds and informing them that Senator Barkley was the person who could get more of the same for them, the candidate himself clarified the point with a statement even more brazen than that of Mr. Roosevelt. He told them:

"If you want to swap all you're getting now for a set of balanced books down in Washington, then vote for Happy Chandler. But if you want to keep on getting what you're getting and get some more too, then vote to keep me in the senate."

Federal subsidies were not only offered to the voters of Kentucky as a bribe for the renomination of Senator Barkley, but some of those subsidies were directly diverted to his campaign. The senate committee on campaign expenditures, headed by Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, a Democrat, warned that this was being done during the primary campaign, and met denials and evasions of its charges. In a final report on Jan. 3, 1939, Senator Sheppard reported to the senate:

"The committee believes that funds appropriated by congress for relief of those in need and distress have been in many instances diverted from these high purposes to political ends."

This was a general statement regarding the 1938 campaign. Of Barkley's own campaign the same report said:

"The findings of the committee's investigators in reference to these charges indicated solicitation of WPA employés and officers for contributions to the campaign funds of Candidate Barkley and a systematic canvass of WPA employés as to their preference in the race for the Democratic nomination."

The Sheppard report went on to cite instances of canvasses of WPA workers by their bosses to learn whom they intended to vote for, of workers forced to sign papers saying that they would vote for Barkley, of workers known to be opposed to Barkley discharged from the WPA—always on some nonpolitical excuse.

Harry Hopkins, head of the WPA in 1938, confessed the truth of these charges. On Jan. 11, 1939, Hopkins appeared before the senate commerce committee. He was seeking the ratification of his appointment as secretary of commerce, which may explain why he ate humble pie. He was questioned about the acts of his WPA executives in Kentucky and he said:

"I think they should have been pitched out on their ear. They were not. I don't want to duck responsibility in my shop, see. I think we should have fired them. We made mistakes."

Those are the essential facts on which THE TRIBUNE's observations regarding Senator Barkley were based. If Senator Barkley chooses to deny them, the record is there to prove him a liar. This statement is made with full knowledge that THE TRIBUNE is responsible for what it prints. Newspapers do not possess the privilege of senatorial immunity behind which to hide when they commit libel. That is one reason why they are more careful of the truth than some senators.

THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

The war has brought Canada and the United States into a new relationship which doesn't modify any of the fundamentals in the association of two good neighbors but rather expresses what has been implicit. The community of interests was recognized and the war made an expression of it desirable. It takes the form of the mutual assistance agreement and joint defense action. Presumably a formal treaty will be placed before the senate and undoubtedly will obtain consent.

Canada and the United States accept as a fact that neither could be confronted by a threat of invasion from Europe or Asia without concern to the other. The joint defense plan recognizes that truth. What would be a danger to one would be a danger to the other. The military understanding may be extended later into the economic field. That point may not be as clear as the other, but still it may be discovered that an economic agreement will be desirable to meet the situation created by the war. Beyond military and trade agreements it probably will not be expedient to go.

Canada would not want a political relationship in which the dominion would be a small percentage of the whole and it would seem undesirable that the United States should further complicate its politics.

The United States has not wholly liquidated the political effects of the civil war. In ordinary relations the temper is good enough and the associations are friendly, but when it comes to politics a good deal of confederate gray gets into the ballot boxes and predetermines elections. Altho immigration has been checked and the country is taking time out for the slow boil of the melting pot, we haven't as yet welded all the races and nationalities together. It has been a very good job so far and it is being done very well. But there are still opinions and sentiments which have their origin in other lands and we need more time. We have the problem of color, which requires patience, intelligence, and better spirit. We have regional rivalries which need solution and better handling.

The requirements of good neighborliness and common interest concerning Canada and the United States would seem to be completely met by a military and economic treaty without undertaking anything else. We have this big advantage, that Canada and the United States can coöperate wholeheartedly as never can be done by the countries of Europe. In long association the two North American nations have laid the secure foundations for that. It is the duty of every one to promote the spirit of good will.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

The aldermen got the bad news on Friday, when City Controller Upham gave them an estimate of revenue that indicated that they will have to trim city appropriations by at least a million dollars to make a legal budget.

But the taxpayers got their bad news the day before. It came from the lips of the ubiquitous Jake Arvey, chairman of the council finance committee. Ald. Paul Douglas, whose acts at times are so guileless that there is ground for suspicion that he is not as guileless as he seems, suggested that money could be saved by reducing the number of garbage collection districts from 50, one for each ward, to 20.

The urbane Ald. Arvey explained to his colleague that while that was a splendid idea and would no doubt save the city money, it just wouldn't work. The reason it wouldn't work is that an alderman needs his own ward superintendent to assure his reëlection.

This little interchange between the council's Prof. Freud and its Dr. Ellis got right to the roots of the financial difficulties of Chicago's local governments. Even with tax collections in their present deplorable state, the governments are still taking in enough money to finance all their legitimate functions. The reason they seem short of funds is that there isn't enough cash for both legitimate functions and the support of a corrupt political machine. And, taking into account the appetite of the machine, it is a safe prediction that there never will be enough.

Editorial of the Day

THE BISHOP'S TWO-THIRDS.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Declaring that no law had been more maliciously misrepresented or disregarded than the now defunct prohibition act, Bishop Ralph S. Cushman, president of the Anti-Saloon league, yesterday dwelt upon what he called the "substantial benefits" which prohibition brought to the nation. Among these benefits, he asserted, was a one-third decline in the consumption of liquor and a rapid increase in the national wealth.

It is perfectly true that the prohibition law was disregarded—it was, in fact, unenforceable on that account. But consider the dry bishop's statement about a one-third decline in the consumption of liquor. Assuming, for the sake of argument, that his statement is correct, tho we are by no means assured that it is, what about his willingness to return to a situation in which two-thirds of the gigantic liquor traffic would be in the hands of thugs, gangsters, gunmen, hijackers, racketeers, murderers—criminals of the vilest stripe imaginable? For that, in effect, is exactly what he proposes.

Prohibition gave rise to this breed of underworld gentry. The very names of many kinds of the most vicious outlaws were a product of the dry era. They operated without benefit of any law—except, of course, the prohibition law, which brought them into being. Two-thirds [or was it more?] of the gigantic liquor traffic paid no state or federal taxes, underwent no liquor control board supervision, bred contempt for all laws and disregarded every principle of decency. The "substantial benefits" of which Bishop Cushman speaks, the "rapid increase in wealth," went to the prohibition gangsters. Is it to this foul mess that the Anti-Saloon league would have the nation return?

SCIENCE WITH COCKTAILS.

Cocktail guzzling Americans who know little about wines and care less may now prepare for the surprise of their lives. A certain type of wine is one of the principal ingredients in their favorite evening tipple. Whenever they crook the elbow with a Martini or a Manhattan, they are drinking wine as well as spirits.

We refer to the Vermouth, French or Italian, dry or sweet, without which there would be no Martinis and Manhattans. Wines are generally divided into three main groups—still, sparkling, and fortified; but the penetrating eye of science discerns a fourth group in which there is a large traffic. It is aromatized wine, and the Vermouths are its leading characters.

The flavoring of wines with foreign substances is a practice that has come down from the Homeric period. The ancient Greeks added resin to their wines, and the modern Greeks continue the custom. The ancient Romans tossed all kinds of stuff into their wine vats—pepper, spikewood, cypress, wormwood, myrrh, poppy, tar, pitch, bitumen, chalk, mastic gums, boiled sea water, and asafedita.

French Vermouth is made, by a complicated process, from thin little wines grown in the south of France called Picpouls and Clairettes. The last step in manufacture is steeping certain flavoring agents in the wine. About 40 different botanical products are used; they include nutmeg, coriander seeds, cloves, cinnamon, rose leaves, quinine bark, hyssop, marjoram, angelica root, wormwood, bitter orange peel, camomile, linden tea, gentian, and flowers of elder.

Italian Vermouth is made from inexpensive wines of the Pulia district, and the process is practically the same. Caramel gives the brown color; some sugar is added; and a small amount of quinine is essential.

There are other "aperitifs" of Europe that belong in the group of aromatized wines. Among them are Dubonnet, Byrrh, and St. Raphael.

Who and Why Was Nelly Bly?

For the information of those who do not know about one of the three American women in whose honor passenger trains are named [Nov. 26]:

Archaeology on the Boul Mich.

There are 33 pieces of stone from historic buildings on the façade of the Tribune Tower within easy view, all labeled with their places of origin. Four come from the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein on the Rhine; the others represent different sites. Thus the total of original locations is 30.

But that isn't all. The walls of the W-G-N building contain 17 others of equal historic interest.

What, Ho! Another Anniversary!

Are you looking for any more anniversaries to celebrate this year? Well, 1940 is the 75th anniversary of the steam power laundry industry in Chicago. . . . But in spite of the progress of the machine age there are still more than 500 Chinese laundries in town, working by hand.

More Looks at Old Theater Curtains.

Move over there, Max of the Second Gallery, and stop spitting tobacco. The bouncer is watching us.

Say, on Nov. 25 you gave the right Riley quatrain but had it on the wrong curtain in the old Illinois theater. The verse beginning "O, dreamer of the days" supported a lovely woodland scene in which the splashing water could almost be heard babbling over the stones. Your cornfield scene appeared with a quotation from Gov. Oglesby of Illinois, something to this effect:

"Aye, the Corn, the Royal Corn."

Just a couple of curtains for us, Max. Let's see, this is August of 1902. Tomorrow night we ought to see Dave Montgomery and Fred Stone in "The Wizard of Oz" over at the Grand Opera house. Jello.

When at a loss for a last line this month, we can always recite the number of days until Christmas. CHARLES COLLINS.

THE OPEN SEASON FOR INFLUENZA.

INFLUENZA is here. In fact, most communities have been battling for weeks against a widespread but relatively mild type of the infection. Certain cases have been catarrhal in character, while others have displayed intestinal upsets.

We should recall that this malady changes its tactics each season and in succeeding years. Many of us who remember the world epidemic of 1918 realize that since that fateful period only occasional examples of such a pernicious visitation have appeared. Let us hope that the time will be long deferred ere we have another such experience. Rather perhaps should we desire greater knowledge on the part of physicians for its successful conquest—when it comes.

Every month, however, we meet some form of the ailment. There may be different strains of the causative virus, each varying in virulence. At any rate, we recognize that it may break out almost anywhere and seize upon a large proportion of our population.

To most of us the disease is quite familiar. We identify chilly feelings, aching [which seems to penetrate the bones], and irritation or true inflammation within the nasal passages, the throat, or the bronchial tubes. Severe headache also is common and the whole picture may be ushered in by a sore throat with pain behind the breastbone accompanied by a dry, unproductive cough.

The episode is usually over in from two to five days. Fever is rarely extreme and the bout may terminate with the discharge of considerable quantities of mucus from the air passages and the pharynx.

During an acute seizure the patient feels miserable. If plenty of fluid [largely fruit juices] is given and the victim kept warm and quiet, recovery proceeds, as a rule, without complications. But should careless or useless exposure be indulged in, with the sick one waiting on himself, an invitation is extended to many species of bacteria to make themselves at home. The main objective, therefore, with a beginning coryza [cold] is to maintain body reserve so that no further difficulty will be encountered.

Bed rest, then, is imperative and the room should be comfortable. Food is of minor consideration until the sufferer desires it. Flushing the bowel is not advised. Constipation, however, should not be allowed to persist and the use of compound licorice powder or some other mild laxative may be indicated. Aspirin may be required for relief of pain. Many physicians employ the sovereign remedy of that old British physician and buccaneer, Thomas Dover. His well known formula [Dover's powder] has banished many a sleepless and otherwise unhappy night.

It is well also to keep the air in the room moist, as this apparently helps to prevent bronchitis, even pneumonia. A steam kettle with the water impregnated with benzoin compound, eucalyptus oil, or menthol crystals is in order.

Yes, "flu" is contagious and may spread thru the entire household, involving other members of the family. A light case in one may be followed by a serious siege in another.

The reason we must be on our guard against this insidious disorder is because pneumonia germs, as well as streptococci, are always lurking about seeking an opportunity to strike. With the one who is fatigued, all tired out, and run down, an attack may be a fairly grave matter—not from the standpoint of the virus itself but because some other organism may take advantage of the weakened state of the patient.

SKIN LIGHTENER.

C. T. writes: Can anything be done to make a yellow skin light? The person is in good health but had yellow jaundice as a child.

REPLY.

A sallow skin is natural to some persons and roses will not bloom on such cheeks. About all that can be done is to provide adequate elimination, a well balanced diet, and some outdoor activity. Skin bleaches are useless because they cannot penetrate to the deposits of pigment.

SHOULD SHE?

C. S. writes: My fiancé has the habit of twitching his head, one shoulder, and both eyes when he talks to any one. This is very annoying to me. Shall I marry him?

REPLY.

Love has so far defied our philosophers. Why not ask the social workers to settle all the problems of the lovelorn?

It all depends upon the depth of your affection in persuading him to control the "tic."

DEALCOHOLIZATION.

M. O. writes: I am in an occupation that necessitates my drinking alcoholic beverages. Is there any method by which this intoxicating substance can be rendered inert?

REPLY.

Only by means of an emetic. Perhaps you can train your stomach to reject its contents. This is an old Roman custom. Absorption is somewhat slower when the gastric pouch is well filled with food.

CONSTIPATION.

R. E. writes: I have tried all kinds of medicines but cannot seem to cure constipation. What would you suggest?

REPLY.

Stop taking laxative drugs or you will never cure the disorder. The most important factor is to establish a habit time. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on constipation.

SUN IN DIABETES.

R. S. writes: May a person afflicted with diabetes take sunlamp treatments?

REPLY.

HOUSE REPAIRS.

Chicago, Nov. 22 [Friend of the People].—Will THE TRIBUNE help in doing something about a house which is a very filthy, unsanitary, dangerous firetrap and should be condemned? The proprietor collects rent but never invests in cleaning and repairs, yet owns quite a number of buildings.

The roof leaks. At the rear the beams gave way and timbers are still falling off. The flooring caved in at the rear and the front 12 by 12's are rotted. The flooring concrete is sagging dangerously. Toilets leak; fleas, cats, rats fill the rear and house. Odor is very strong. There is a heap of old rubbish and garbage in the rear on the first floor. Electric wiring that isn't already damaged is so loosely connected [perhaps because of age] that at times it goes out for a day or a couple of hours and then when least expected lights again. A short because of it may cause sparks which will ignite the cobwebs and start fire to the building. The entire building is completely tenanted and with youngsters. M. A.

The owner of the above mentioned premises has been notified to make all repairs necessary to put building in good and safe condition or wreck it.

If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice we will proceed according to law.

The matter of sanitation has been referred to the board of health for attention.

RICHARD E. SCHMIDT,
Commissioner of Buildings.

WIFE'S CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Could you kindly inform me as to whether a woman is a citizen or not if she married a citizen in the year 1904, he being deceased now?

2. How long a period is required for a woman having lived most of her life in the United States to become a citizen of the United States? J. P. K.

1. If the woman was married to a citizen before Sept. 22, 1922, as stated, she became a citizen by such marriage, under the laws then in effect. It is assumed that she was residing in the United States at the time of her husband's death and continued to reside here. Under the facts stated, she is still a citizen.

2. If the woman is married to a citizen, she may apply for final papers, without a declaration of intention [first paper], as the alien wife of a citizen. Otherwise, she may file a declaration of intention and when the same is at least two and not over seven years old, apply for final papers.

POWER OF ATTORNEY.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1932 a friend of mine gave me a sealed letter marked, "To be opened only in case of death or insanity," and requested me to keep it in my safety deposit box. He died three weeks ago and upon opening the letter:

1. It was found to contain a power of attorney written entirely in his own handwriting for me to have access to any safety deposit box or bank account which he may have.

2. It also contained a will which he had typewritten himself and signed in his own handwriting. In it he made some specific requests and appointed me administrator of his estate. Neither paper was signed by any witnesses.

3. The public administrator says the papers are no good and has taken charge of the estate.

4. Is this correct? S. W.

1. Since a power of attorney is revoked by death, it seems probable that this document is entirely inoperative.

2. If it was not also signed by two witnesses, it would not satisfy the Illinois wills act and hence would also be inoperative.

3. We agree with him.

4. The question whether the case is one for the public administrator would depend on whether there are resident heirs.

6. There is still a great deal of misunderstanding regarding heredity and disease, even among supposedly scientific and educated men. To dispel some of these delusions and erroneous beliefs, I want you to suppose that a newborn baby at the moment of its birth has been diagnosed in turn as having each of the diseases listed in the left hand column below. Then place a check mark under the proper heading at the right which fits the disease.

BARRED; ITALIAN DESCENT.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—About a week ago my younger brother was invited to a birthday party. He accepted it and has been looking forward to going. Today, to his surprise, the little girl who invited him gave him a note reading as follows: "William, I cannot have you come to my party because mother doesn't allow Italians in the house. You understand, don't you?—Cecilia."

What in the world is this country coming to when people in the United States begin to classify other persons by their creed, religion, or nationality? That is what happened in Europe and now it seems to be happening here.

Why must people be so narrow-minded as to feel this way toward a person that has Italian ancestors? I am of Italian, Danish and Swedish descent.

Let's judge people by what they are, not by their ancestors. I am sure if all are treated equally in this country we will not have what they are having in Europe now. CAMILLE NAVIGATO.

THE PIGEONS GET THE FOOD.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 28.—Certainly, we feed the birds. We have done so every day for the last eight years, but it is more of a pain in the neck every day.

I cut up between two and three pounds of bread into neat little squares. It takes me about 20 minutes a day. My husband takes it with him when he leaves for work and scatters it on the ground behind the apartment building where we live. It is a lovely sight to watch the enthusiasm of the birds when they see him coming with his big bag.

What happens? The flock of pigeons parked on the housetop waiting for him flutter to the ground, push the little birds out of the way and gorge themselves until every crumb is gone. They then fly away in a body—about 30, as of today.

I have tried sneaking crumbs out later in the day only to find a pigeon lookout roosting nearby. As soon as he sees me coming he hotfoots it off to tell his kinfolk. Presto—the crumbs vanish.

Surely, the pigeons do have to eat, but why doesn't the person who raises them keep them home and raise them at his own expense instead of at mine?

LOYAL TO BUCKTOWN.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Of course, "everybody" has heard of that esteemed place called Bucktown. We, the people living in it, consider it a privilege. No other environment would suit us. Being loyal to Bucktown, we feel that an answer is in order to the slur cast on it by one J. F. People of Bucktown, in general, mind their own business.

Your reader's references concerning the time taken for the improvement of Armitage avenue are unjust to the people of this section for they themselves are not concerned in any way with bringing about this delay. This concerns only the city government which controls such matters.

PREFERS THE BUSES.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—A bus rider since the first day they operated in our city and a daily user of street transportation systems for 40 years declares that the motor coach service is by far the best of the three systems now in use. To read some of the soundoffs in these columns about the crowded buses one might think that the bus company is herding people in at the points of guns. If passengers prefer standing in a nice warm bus to standing around in a cold street car and will walk past street car lines and elevated stations and a block or two farther to ride a bus there must be a sound reason. W. A. S.

HELP FOR DEAF BROTHER.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Thru this column I would like to thank every one who was kind enough to write in, giving the information I asked for in regard to a hearing aid for my brother. I also wish to thank THE TRIBUNE for printing my request and for sending replies to me. G. S.

AN O. K. ON DRUNKENNESS.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Your story of the drunken Pennsylvania engineer is well worthy of its front page position. But its very prominence seems to imply that the National Railroad Adjustment board broke precedent in placing its O. K. on drunkenness.

A swarm of parallel cases is listed in Garet Garrett's article on the antics of the NRAB [Saturday Evening Post], all indexed by serial award numbers. If W. S. Gilbert could have read them he would have written another opera. Koko's intricate plea to the Mikado is sober sense compared with the circus logic of this weird tribunal.

Garrett goes farther than illustrating the benevolent encouragement of drunkenness by the NRAB. He shows how impoverished railroads are being driven to extinction by the New Deal policy of "made work," ruinously expensive and useless.

Even in 1906, before there ever was an NRAB, when I was a roundhouse fitter's mate, a boilermaker's mate found a loose nut on the lower flange of the left steampipe in the smokebox of a Wabash locomotive at St. Thomas, Ont. He told the boilermaker, who told a deputy inspector, who told the chief inspector, who told the master mechanic, who told the roundhouse boss, who told the running-gang boss, who told a fitter, who told me [I was his mate]. I got two spanners, a monkey wrench and torch, and accompanied the fitter to the locomotive, where he held the torch while I gave the nut a 1-16 turn, while the boilermaker and his mate looked on.

There was some justification for this; any mechanical defect must be reported to the right authority and the correction of it booked on the roundhouse record. But we didn't let drunken engineers and switchmen endanger 200 lives. The New Deal has greatly improved on the red tape of those early days. B. W. WILLIAMS.

HIS PUMPKIN AND TURKEY.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—I am the young owner of a modern home on the s—— side. Last Halloween I bought a pumpkin and carved it to resemble a face. A few days later it was discarded. When the Thanksgiving turkey hash was gone, the turkey was also discarded, but when I went to the refuse container I was slightly embarrassed because the pumpkin was still there and I had to introduce them with a casual, "Punky, this is Tom."

I know Tom and Punky quite well by now. Is the city really paying the garbage collector for not collecting garbage?

Should I have obtained three or four more garbage cans when the aldermen were buying them out of our pockets? I already have a dandy big concrete one.

Should I believe that it is all for the best, because if the garbage was collected there would be no need for a rat extermination campaign? Can any one help me? WORRIED.

24 HOUR PARKERS WIN.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—It was with dismay, and I think I speak for a host of law abiding motorists, that I read the police commissioner had decided to let the 24 hour parkers have their way with the streets.

Last night's experience of the fire department on the north side should be enough to make this selfish group of law violators provide for care of their cars and not use our expensive, improved, and widened streets as garages. These people park over fire plugs, sidewalks, in and [illegible]

Your great newspaper could be a big influence toward helping this condition, or do you think it would influence subscribers as the politicians seem to think it influences votes? A HYDE PARKER.

HOW ABOUT GEN. SHELBY?

Chicago, Nov. 27.—I suggest the name of Gen. Isaac Shelby as an alternative for Camp Peay. This revolutionary war soldier was identified with the early history of Tennessee and Kentucky, and to the middle western soldiers who will go to the camp his name is familiar thru its repetition in the names of numerous middle western towns and counties. UNION AND PLANT HEADS FACE QUIZ ON STRIKE TODAY

Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's office will meet today with officials of the Chicago Molded Products corporation and with officials of the union representing striking employés. Egan will question both about charges that 29 nonstriking employés have been attacked or their homes have been damaged since the strike began Nov. 8. The plant is at 1020 North Kolmar avenue.

A. C. Skinner, national representative of the striking local 48 of the National Association of Die Casting Workers [C. I. O.], said the company backed down yesterday on a previous agreement to permit strikers to return in a body pending an election to determine a bargaining agency. Company officials, however, said they had agreed to permit the men to return in small groups daily until all were absorbed.

DISPUTE AFFECTING 20,000 WORKERS IN DETROIT IS SETTLED

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1 (AP).—James F. Dewey, federal labor department conciliator, today announced settlement of a dispute affecting 20,000 workers of the Briggs Manufacturing company and the Plymouth division of Chrysler corporation.

Details of the settlement were not disclosed, but Dewey said work would be resumed tomorrow morning. The dispute had developed late Friday. Dewey reported the federal government had considered quick intervention necessary to assure labor peace for the national defense program.

The settlement was reached, Dewey said, after he conferred this afternoon with company officials and representatives of the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers.

LAKE DIVERSION TEST INCREASE TO START TODAY

Chemists to Study Effect on Sewage Sediment.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Engineers and chemists will be on hand at noon today when lock gates in the Illinois waterway are opened to permit 10,000 cubic feet of water a second to rush in from the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence watershed, starting a 10 day experiment authorized by the United States Supreme court. The court on Jan. 1, 1939, decreased the diversion from 5,000 to 1,500 cubic feet a second.

The experimental increase in diversion is for the purpose of flushing out sewage sediment which has accumulated in the Brandon road pool north of the dam at Joliet. Residents there and along the main channel have complained that sickening odors from the sediment constitute a health hazard.

Chicago Sanitary district engineers said that if the noxious top layer of the sediment is swept away the expanded sewage treatment plants will prevent the condition from recurring. They do not expect that the flushing will move all the sediment—now 15 to 20 feet thick. There is an estimated one million cubic yards of sediment.

Gates to be Opened Wide.

Lock gates at the mouth of the Chicago river will be opened wide, and the drop in the water between here and Joliet will be boosted from 1 foot to 9 feet by opening gates of the Brandon road lock, Engineer J. M. Mercer said. Within about four hours the greater slope of the water surface will speed up the current from one-tenth of a mile an hour to 1.75 miles an hour in the main river and to 2.30 miles an hour between Lockport and Lemont, Mercer said.

The United States engineers' office notified mariners to be on the alert for the increased current.

Approximately 70 tests of the water will be made daily, according to Dr. Floyd W. Mohlman, director of laboratories for the Sanitary district. Water samplers from a dozen points along the waterway will bring the samples to laboratories in Stickney, Joliet, and Morris.

Analyses to Show Change.

Within a few hours analyses can be made to show what change is occurring in the amount of suspended solids and dissolved oxygen. About five days is required to make the most significant analysis, denoting the degree of impurity in the water.

Results of the tests will be correlated after the experimental period ends Dec. 12. At that time, when diversion again is reduced to 1,500 cubic feet a second, surveyors will make soundings to determine how much sediment has been carried away from Brandon road pool.

This information will be filed as a supplemental report with Monte M. Lemann, special master in chancery for the United States Supreme court, who was appointed to hear evidence on the plea of Illinois for a two year temporary increase in the amount of diversion.

W-G-N CITIZENS' PROGRAM TO HAIL SCHURZ SCHOOL

Carl Schurz High school and its 4,000 students will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program from W-G-N's main studio at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow. Six hundred students will be guests of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE during the broadcast, which is dedicated to the youth of America.

Albert G. Bauersfeld, principal of the school, will speak. The school mixed chorus, directed by LeRoy Wetzel, will sing three numbers. Walter F. Slocum, retired principal of Schurz, who served 26 years, will be a guest at the broadcast.

Philip Maxwell of the Tribune staff will conduct the Tribune news quiz, with $5 going to each winner. Three outstanding 4-H club members who will be in Chicago attending the national 4-H club congress will be interviewed by Maxwell and their names will be added to the Roll of Honor.

FUNERAL RITES ARE TODAY FOR GREEK BISHOP

Funeral services for Bishop Callistos, head of the Greek Orthodox diocese of the central western states, will be held today at 1 p. m. in the Church of the Annunciation, 1017 North La Salle street. Bishop Callistos died last Thursday.

The Most Rev. Athenagoras, archbishop of North and South America, will officiate at the funeral, assisted by 4 bishops and 50 priests. A special requiem will be offered at the Church of the Annunciation this morning by the Rev. Nikitas Kesses.

Van A. Nomikos, national vice president of the Greek War Relief fund, said that the town of Tsoukaleika, Greece, where the late bishop grew up, has voted to change its name to Callistion, in honor of Bishop Callistos.

COUPLE AND SON FOUND DEAD IN THEIR NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Then and their son, Donald, 21 years old, were found dead last night in their new home at 611 Lyon avenue, Wheaton. They had moved in Saturday night from their former residence at 3713 North Francisco avenue, Chicago. Authorities said they apparently died of asphyxiation, perhaps from gas leaking from the furnace or the sewer.

The tragedy was discovered by friends coming to call at the new home. Deputy Sheriff Arthur A. Bennett said there was a strong odor of gas in the house and that he believed the couple died in their sleep. He said it was possible the son had been overcome while going to their rescue.

RADIO MUSICAL PRICE WAR ON FOR SHOWDOWN

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—Radio's "battle of music"—in which America's listening millions are the innocent bystanders—reached a showdown today.

It came as the Columbia Broadcasting system put into effect a new policy barring from its sustaining or noncommercial programs all tunes controled by A. S. C. A. P., the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers.

The C. B. S. action immediately eliminated from unsponsored network programs over 126 of the nation's 800 radio stations the playing of any tune by Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Victor Herbert, George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, or any other member of A. S. C. A. P., living or dead.

Its new policy put C. B. S. in the position of taking the initiative in a musical price war between the National Association of Broadcasters and A. S. C. A. P., which controls the copyrights on approximately 90 per cent of the music of native and foreign composers played in this country. On Dec. 8, station WOR of the Mutual Broadcasting System will stop using Ascap music on its sustaining programs and NBC will follow suit on Dec. 15.

RECOVER 28 OHIO MINE EXPLOSION VICTIMS' BODIES

Cadiz, O., Dec. 1 (AP).—The bodies of 28 miners caught in an explosion that rocked the Nelms coal mine had been recovered late today and three more located, George A. Strain, state director of industrial relations, announced tonight.

Officers of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company, the operators, said the death toll from Friday's blast would be 31. All the bodies were found more than 1,500 feet from the entrance to the pit by rescue workers that braved the threat of gas and rock falls.

All of the bodies were burned badly and some shattered by the explosion.

BRINGS A PLANE DOWN ON FIELD IN LINCOLN PARK

Steven Sowinski, a licensed amateur pilot, brought a rented sports airplane to a landing on a playing field in Lincoln park at North avenue yesterday after the motor failed at 2,000 feet.

Steven Sowinski.

Sowinski, who lives at 2649 North Rockwell street and is a driver for an electrical concern, has 35 solo hours in the air to his credit. He was uninjured in the landing, but one wing of the plane was damaged when it struck a goal post in the playing field. Sowinski said he was forced to scrape the post to halt the plane within the restricted area.

The craft has a 40 foot wingspread, is 15 feet long, and weighs about 900 pounds. Sowinski said he had been in the air only 20 minutes when the engine went dead. He was unable to explain its failure.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and "cure" it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it regularly—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Levant Proves He's Pianist as Well as Savant

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Oscar Levant, a pianist and composer whose curious fate it has been to become famous as a radio savant and author rather than as a musician, appeared at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon as piano soloist in an all-Gershwin program. The orchestra was made up of local men. Frank Black conducted. Proceeds went to the Chicago Wellesley club for its scholarship fund.

Mr. Levant, a boyish, discontented looking little man, received a big ovation before he had so much as touched his instrument, and one could only conclude that the audience was applauding his prowess in identifying obscure musical themes for "Information Please" and his success in cramming a great many revealing stories and character sketches between the covers of "A Smattering of Ignorance."

A little later he was applauded for his skill as a pianist, for he acquitted himself very well in the solo parts of the Concerto in F and the "Rhapsody in Blue." The bitter, percussive passages which play so important a part in the former work were done cleanly and with an attractive brittleness. The rhapsody was persuasive rhythmically and often very suave of tone.

But the significant fact about yesterday's concert was not that it brought Mr. Levant's first Chicago appearance since his fame began but that it offered an opportunity to hear a whole afternoon of Gershwin's music and to muse on its remarkably aged and pallid character. A sort of composer-laureate of the prohibition era, Gershwin expressed perfectly the futile sadness of a period which was not quite sure just what it was sad about and which overlooked completely the fact that the quality of its own liquor offered a very sound reason for melancholy. Also, in "An American in Paris," he expressed aptly the empty headed gladness of an era which could accept without shame anything so impertinent as a description of Paris as "one of the largest and by all odds the pleasantest of American cities."

Already it has all come to seem as irrelevant as lavender and old lace, and some thousands of years older than Rome. Gershwin's music apparently dealt not with universals, but with the most fleeting kind of particulars. Its sadness and its gladness were products not of a clear headed assessment of life, but of youthful sentimentality on the one hand and an artificially produced and mistakenly grounded jubilation on the other.

ROLAND HAYES CONCERT

BY CECIL SMITH.

Roland Hayes, the celebrated and widely admired Negro tenor, returned to Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon for his only scheduled concert appearance of the season. Accompanied by Reginald Boardman, he presented a program consisting of a classical and preclassical group; Schumann's "Dichterliebe" cycle; another cycle of "Eight Epitaphs," by Theodore Chanler of New York, and several Negro spirituals.

Mr. Hayes has always been able to surround his listeners with a unique spell, by his own unbroken concentration upon his music and texts, and by the emotional genuineness his artistry unfailingly possesses. In the 10 songs of the "Dichterliebe" cycle [one of the original eleven was omitted], sung without pause, he again attained a mood of poetic elevation yesterday—so much so, indeed, that ill advised applause after one of the songs came as a distinct, unpleasant psychological shock.

With his slender vocal resources he does not try to make these enchanting songs more than miniatures. But his command of varied tempi and inflections eliminated all danger of monotony, and he evoked the early 19th century romantic fervor of the poems effortlessly and communicatively. When the audience demanded an encore after the Schumann cycle, he offered a rapt performance of Schubert's "Du bist die Ruh'."

Two important dance events took place yesterday. At the Civic Opera house in the afternoon the Ballet Theater repeated "Giselle" and "Peter and the Wolf." In the evening Carmalita Maracci and her group gave the last of three week-end performances in the Civic theater.

At International house, on the University of Chicago campus, the Collegium Musicum of the university, directed by Siegmund Levarie, performed instrumental and chamber works of ancient and more recent vintage. Fanchon Gelbard played Haydn's second piano concerto in G major, and a choral group sang Brahms' "Liebeslieder" waltzes.

Story of Opera for Tonight: 'The Valkyrie'

"THE VALKYRIE."

[Music drama in three acts. Words and music by Richard Wagner. The action takes place in the remote, legendary past. The scene is the Rhine country.]

Act 1—Siegmund, beset by his enemies and by a tempest of rain, rushes into a forest hut. Sieglinde, wife of Hunding, the master of the house, takes pity on the stranger. However, when Hunding returns the fact comes out that Siegmund is an enemy. As a guest, he is safe for the night, but in the morning he must fight Hunding for his life. Late that night Sieglinde comes to Siegmund, tells him of the sword which a stranger [really Wotan, Siegmund's father] once sank into the tree trunk which forms the center post of Hunding's hut. Now Siegmund and Sieglinde fall madly in love with each other. They flee—but not before Siegmund has triumphantly wrested the sword from the tree.

Act 2—Brünnhilde, a valkyrie—one who bears fallen heroes off to Valhalla, warns her father, the god Wotan, that his wife, Fricka, is approaching. Fricka speaks of the forthcoming duel between Hunding and Siegmund, and she insists that Wotan, in the interests of morality, must see that Siegmund, the wife stealer, is slain. Wotan reluctantly agrees, and he instructs Brünnhilde to see that justice is done. However, when the fleeing Siegmund and Sieglinde arrive, Brünnhilde is so moved by their love that she resolves to disobey her father. The pursuing Hunding comes upon the scene and he and Siegmund engage in deadly battle. Brünnhilde urges Siegmund on, but Wotan breaks Siegmund's spear and allows him to be felled by Hunding. Hunding himself dies at a glance from Wotan, who vows to punish Brünnhilde.

Act 3—Brünnhilde has rescued Sieglinde, and urges her to flee now and be ready to endure all hardship, for the child whom she will bear, the son of Siegmund, will be the most glorious of heroes. As punishment for Brünnhilde's disobedience, Wotan now declares that she must sleep a magic sleep, and be given as wife to the first stranger who awakens her. She begs him to surround her couch with fire, that none but a hero may ever come to her. This he consents to do, and as he bids his daughter farewell, flames spring up around the fastness where she sleeps.

Sellout in Sight for 'Falstaff' on Wednesday

An unprecedented advance demand for tickets has followed the announcement that the Chicago Opera company's rollicking performance of Verdi's "Falstaff" will be repeated at the Civic Opera house on Wednesday evening. Altho tickets for the performance are still available today, all indications point to a sellout before 8 o'clock curtain time on Wednesday.

John Charles Thomas, whose impersonation of the fat Sir John Falstaff has made operatic history by demonstrating fully the entertainment value of opera in the English language, is returning from New York for this additional presentation of "Falstaff." At the two earlier performances the audiences rocked with merriment at his uninhibited, boisterous comedy, and applauded his baritone voice in the beautiful and expressive music.

In Wednesday night's cast of "Falstaff," Mr. Thomas' associates will be the artists who appeared earlier in the opera season—Dusolina Giannini, Virginia Haskins, Sonia Sharnova, Lydia Summers, José Mojica, Mack Harrell, Giuseppe Cavadore, Robert Topping, and Douglas Beattie. Henry Weber will conduct. And, most remarkable of all, the audience will understand every word sung or spoken on the stage!

Tomorrow night brings a brilliant revival of Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna" to the stage of the Civic Opera house. Spectacular in staging, big and exciting in its music, passionately emotional in its story of Neapolitan love and vengeance, "The Jewels of the Madonna" was always enormously successful and popular in earlier seasons, and has long deserved to be restored to the repertory. Maurice Abravanel will conduct tomorrow night, and the principal singers will be Miss Giannini, Ada Paggi, Frederick Jagel, and George Czaplicki.

Mr. Duckett Replies.

The other day Miss Betty Lyon's verse, Seen from the Lake Street L, printed in this space, dealt with the sign, "Duckett and Cipinko." "Who they mean, I do not know, Or what kind of goods they show, Duckett and Cipinko, Charming, don't you think so?" rhymed Miss Lyon.

The next day's mail brought in an answering verse from Mr. Duckett. It seems the firm sells used egg cases. Mr. Duckett's ending to his verse:

And Betty must have had a seat
On the Lake Street L,
And that's more than I can get,

The Lunts' Big Dream.

John Pollock, who will handle the coming of Robert Sherwood's There Shall Be No Night at the Grand, went to Cleveland to talk with the Lunts. The conversation drifted to their greatest desire—the creation of a répertoire company. A listener unfamiliar with this ideal of the Lunts confused their idea of a répertoire company with the stock company of former days.

"Do you know why they were called stock companies?" Alfred Lunt asked the confused young man. "Because in stock companies the actors worked like horses."

Belated Thanksgiving Tale.

Some lads who are employed in the steel mills at South Chicago had to work on Thanksgiving day. They decided they would not be cheated of their Thanksgiving turkey, so they took a dressed bird to work with them, and, cooling the blast furnace to 700 degrees, put the turkey in to roast. It roasted pretty quickly, more on the outside than the inside, too, but they had their hot Thanksgiving turkey.

Contributions collected from 21 Chicago banks and amounting to $201,696 were turned over to Merle J. Trees, chairman of the Community Fund campaign, yesterday by Ronald P. Boardman, head of the La Salle street financial committee. This brings the total to $3,173,419, or $430,581 short of the goal of the campaign. Further contributions are expected at a meeting of 700 industrial division chairmen and team captains Thursday noon in Hotel Sherman.

Shirley Keith's Engagement to Sewall Gardner Announced

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING romantic news is the announcement that Stanley Keith is making of the engagement of his younger daughter, Shirley, to Sewall Gardner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Gardner of New York, formerly of Chicago. The announcement was made yesterday at a small cocktail party given at the Keith home in Lake Forest.

Miss Keith attended St. Timothy's school at Catonsville, Md., and then traveled abroad with Miss Stout's school. She made her debut in the winter of 1936-'37. Mr. Gardner was educated at Harvard. He has been living in Chicago for nearly four years and now shares bachelor quarters in Lake Forest with a group of young men. He and Miss Keith have set no date for their marriage.

The late Mrs. Keith [Dorothy Leslie], who was killed in an automobile accident in 1937, was a popular and well known member of Lake Forest society. The elder Keith daughter is Mrs. Robert S. Macdonald of Lake Forest, formerly Miss Leslie Keith.

After the death of his first wife Paul Gardner married Mrs. Elliot Bacon of Westbury, N. Y., who is still living there and who will be coming to Chicago for the wedding.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her philandering ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment—and discovers Paul Gerente murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Paul Gerente—with orders in code from the Naval Intelligence. They are Braille instructions in case New York should be plunged into darkness by war, giving the five vital points in the city where sabotage might occur. Cameron, who lives below Paul Gerente, investigates Paul's apartment. Maclain finds him there with the dead man, and Cameron glibly confesses to the murder. The police arrest Cameron, but Maclain doubts his confession. Far off in California a girl spy questions her escort about the nation's new bombing sights. Worried for fear Barbara might be implicated in the murder, Norma goes home. Bunny Carter, president of the aircraft works where Norma's stepson, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, gives Norma a lift, but she dares not confide in him until she talks to Barbara. Barbara's brother, Stacy, telephones that Barbara is missing and must have eloped with Paul Gerente, but Norma knows Paul is dead. A banging door sends Norma on a trip of investigation thru the silent house. She smells the scent of violets, which Bella, the maid, uses.

INSTALMENT XIII.

THE WARDROBE.

Gilbert's workshop was forbidden territory to servants and family, but that rush of cold air must have come from the opened workshop door.

Norma groped her way down the passage, feeling above her for a light cord which she knew was there, but couldn't see. She found it at last, much farther along than she had expected. The bulb was gone. Ahead of her something creaked raucously. She was certain then that the big white-washed door, which Gil kept padlocked so carefully, was swinging free.

Machines and a forge stood at the back of the workshop, crowding the room in a double row. A wooden workbench, littered with tools, ran the full length of another wall. Two model airplanes hung from the ceiling, swaying gently from the opening of the door.

A huge old walnut wardrobe stood in a far corner behind the forge. It was piled high on top with remnants of a hand printing press, and filled to bursting with a haphazard collection of nails, screws, and type—relics of a printshop Gil had started as a boy. The only place where any one could be hidden in the workshop was behind that wardrobe in the angle of the wall.

Norma picked her way carefully between the machines, watching the floor for nails and upended tacks. When she circled the forge and looked up, the greenish light from the emerald shades was flickering on the dull grimed finish of the wardrobe, drawing it closer to her. For the space of one dreadful second she felt that the wardrobe was tottering and about to fall.

It took another second for her to realize that her terrible thought was true. Then it was far too late. She stood motionless with feebly upraised hands; unable to scream from a throat that was tight and dry. The heavy press toppled and grazed her head. An instant later the lead-filled bulk of the wardrobe had crushed her to the floor.

"Good. Col. Gray, the head of our defense plans, believes your ability to get around with your dog, invaluable. Even under war conditions, a blind man could pass unquestioned when others might be suspected and stopped immediately. The vulnerable spots mentioned in there are in code. Before I leave would you care to name their locations for me, as given you personally by Col. Gray? I'd like to be sure you know."

Capt. Duncan Maclain made a noise with his lips and switched off the Ediphone record which was repeating his earlier conversation. With an easy motion, denoting long habit, he took a cigar box from the right hand desk drawer. He dumped the contents—a hundred piece jig-saw puzzle—on the desk top and irritably began sorting out the jumbled pile.

Stretched out luxuriously on the divan, Spud Savage watched his partner's quick fingers select a piece, trace the design of the cut, and begin their search for its mate.

"Well, go on with it, Dunc," he urged. "Did you tell this bird all the vulnerable spots?" A glint of humor lighted his curious yellow eyes.

"Since you came all the way into New York to protect me," said Maclain, "I'd appreciate a little help from you. Did you ever hear that fellow's voice before?"

Spud yawned. "On that record, he sounds like all the actors we heard in that movie house on the Cape last summer—but for that matter, so do you."

"I'll make a note of what you say." The captain found a piece which fit, and gave a tiny smile. His expressive face could reflect almost any shade of feeling when he so desired. The smile gave him a quizzical look, as tho he might be listening to distant laughter. He fitted the two pieces of the puzzle together, and patted them down. "We live in a funny country, Spud," he began.

"If you're going to sit up all night, I suppose I'll have to listen." Spud shifted restlessly. He didn't like the look on the captain's face. "What are you driving at? Politics, economics, or keeping us out of the war?"

"Sabotage and espionage," said Duncan Maclain. His fingers began to move more surely thru the pile—selecting and rejecting; placing certain pieces to one side—pieces which were burned by touch into his memory.

"Don't tell me you've caught a spy." Spud lifted his slippered feet and tucked them under the heavy silk of his dressing gown.

"Sabotage and espionage," Maclain repeated. "That's what I'm driving at—that, and the levity of your tone."

"Of my tone, Dunc? Why pick on me?"

"Because, my very dear friend and companion, you unconsciously represent a norm."

"For God's sake don't get unctuous," Spud said pleadingly. "Did you say 'norm' or 'worm'?"

"There isn't much difference, is there?" The captain wriggled his eyebrows thoughtfully. "You're intelligent—"

"Thanks."

"Strong and fearless—"

"Terrific!"

"Well educated—"

"A certificate from Vassar."

"Widely traveled, and unusually familiar with the workings of organized crime."

"In fact," Spud admitted shrinkingly, "I'm known to my devoted wife, Rena, as Samuel Savage, the Magnificent Obsession. Why don't you hire me?"

The captain clicked two pieces of the jig-saw together like castanets. "The detecto-dictograph is recording all this," he said. "The reason I don't hire you is—you're dumb!"

"After that recommendation you just gave me?"

"Certainly," said Maclain. "You're a norm. Like the rest of our nation, you begin to giggle and twist like a coy little girl at the mention of espionage. The United States is probably the best hated country in the world today—because it's the best. It has more to lose—and consequently more to guard. Yet you don't believe in spies!"

"Now look, Dunc, that's hardly fair." Spud sat up hastily. "You worked with me both in London and Paris during the last war. What about that crowd with the house at Leeds? What about—"

The captain raised a hand. "There are always spies in England, France, and Germany—and every other country in Europe, too. The American public accepts that as a fact. The magazines and the movies have told them that it's so. But here?" He shrugged broad shoulders deprecatingly. "Hell, no! Your average American will swallow the most incredible feats of gangsters—because he's had them on his neck for years. He overlooks the fact, that compared to a spy, the biggest gangster who ever lived was playing for small dough."

"You're upset, Dunc." Spud's voice was quiet with an unusual note of concern. He came to the desk and placed a hand on the captain's shoulder. "I had no idea this was so serious, Dunc. What do you want me to do?"

"If I knew the answer to that, I wouldn't be upset." The captain broke up a dozen pieces of the puzzle he had fitted together, carefully returned the fragments to the cigar box, and replaced the box in the drawer. "There are no rules of criminology which hold entirely good for a spy."

"The FBI nailed three of them in the Rumrich case," Spud reminded him. "A couple of Russians, Gorin and Salich, were convicted in Los Angeles, too."

"Yes," Maclain admitted, "that's true—but Rumrich turned against the others. Let's consider this business of catching and convicting the hidden spy. First, the motive's fairly obvious in an ordinary criminal case. Not with the spy. Love of a mother country may be buried very deeply. The background of a suspect has to be thoroly traced."

[To be continued tomorrow.]

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Looking over the field—and it's a big one this year—we think the honors for beauty gift sets should go to the ensembles in the fragrance of forget-me-not. They're so pretty they make your fingers itch and the items themselves, all bath glorifiers, are so delightful you'll hate to part with them as presents.

The cologne is lovely and its bottle is one of the most successful designs of the season, in a delicate looking but really sturdy and practical vase shape. For the season it's all done up in a pretty gift box with light splashes of the blue forget-me-nots. The fragrance is beautiful, clear, and fresh and a little bit sweet. The cologne alone makes a charming gift, and one of small cost.

Or you can have the cologne with dusting powder in the same scent as a companion piece. Both are assembled in one of the most feminine, eye catching gift boxes we have seen in years. This ensemble is inexpensive, too, looking about five times more costly than it actually is.

We are so fond of the scent that we'd like the soap too. You can get three huge cakes of it in bath size, specially boxed, or a set of three smaller hand cakes. There is also a talc, daintily done up, that's an added attraction.

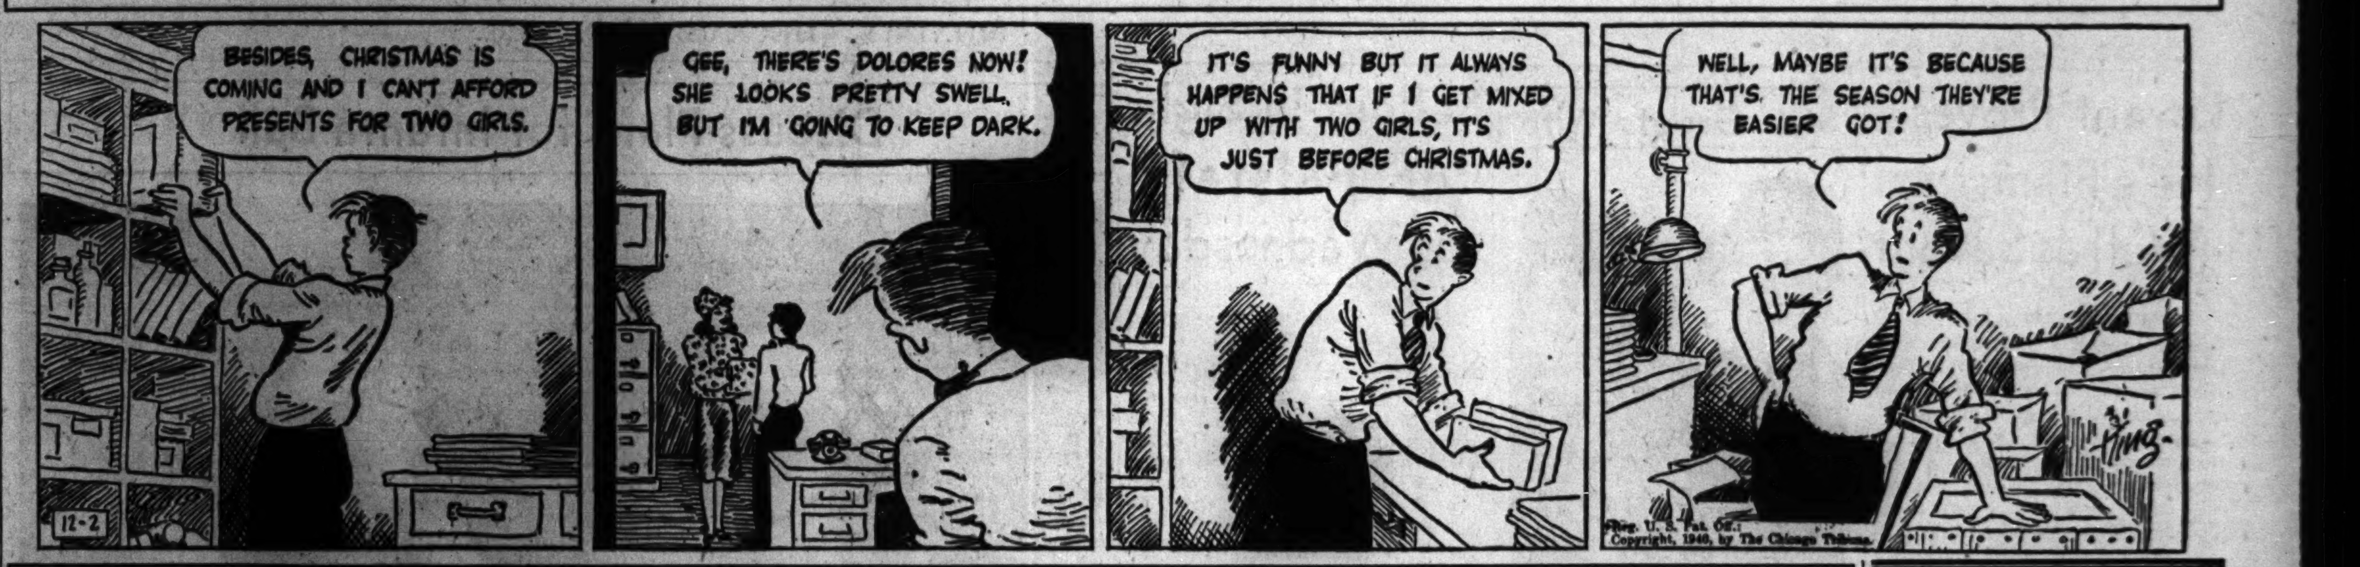
GASOLINE ALLEY—OPEN SEASON



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Squaw Keep Brave's Wigwam

If You Shiver in the Cold, Here's a Hint

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you're one of those shivery, teeth-chattering women, your circulation is faulty. That's why your nose is like the red, red rose and your cheeks do a blues song all their own. It's why your arms are pebbly with gooseflesh and why feet are constantly cold unless wrapped in layers of wool.

In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, when these beauty as well as physical ills attack a person, it's because she's a house baby. That's what they call folks who rarely stick their little noses outdoors except to run speedily for a waiting car or taxi. You just haven't what it takes to meet those cold but invigorating breezes even half way.

There's one grand remedy for what ails you. It's to get out, and get out every day, for a good hike so that the stale, musty house or office air is dissipated from the lungs. And here's a trick to warm you, until you can do your own warming with better circulation. Walk along, drinking in for five steps, deep, deep draughts of air. Walk along for five steps in your normal manner. Then take five more draughts of "elixir." Repeat the formula until you can take in eight draughts, then ten. You'll be amazed how this cold, brisk, air-intake warms you to your very toes. Meanwhile, you're toning up your circulation beautifully and immediately you'll see a change in your complexion tone, too.

Mrs. Thorne's Rooms Go on View Thursday.

Art and social news are intermingled more than usual this winter, it seems, for every day we have an announcement of some affair that has noteworthy art interest, as well as social significance. Thursday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock the Antiquarian society of the Art institute will be at home to open an exhibition of Mrs. James Ward Thorne's American Rooms in Miniature and to compliment Mrs. Thorne, a member of the society.

The reception will be in A-7, tea will be served in A-9, and the rooms will be displayed in gallery A-12. The rooms, all new, are of American interiors and constitute a fully developed American wing in miniature.

The rooms are divided into three groups, "the first illustrating the developments that took place in the North Atlantic region from the settlements on Massachusetts bay to the days of the 'brownstone front.' The second shows the more spacious if less precise attainments of the Old Dominion and her neighbors to the south. The third takes up the 19th century types of the middle west, the antebellum deep south, the southwest, and California with her Spanish traditions and latest cosmopolitanism," Meyric H. Rogers, head of the institute's decorative art department, says in the foreword of the catalog.

Another item that might be in the art column as well as in the society column is that Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett will give a free public lecture in Fullerton hall of the Art institute Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. "A New England Summer" will be her subject. As illustrations Miss Bartlett will show kodachrome pictures that she took in New England last summer.

Dec. 2, 1940.

Universal day—You can get off to a better start today with any new projects you have in mind for the week.

Universal month—This month the accent will be on values, not only material values but spiritual ones as well. The world will be asking itself what the results will be, win or lose, in the battles raging across the globe. An expansion and extension of power will be tried. The need for efficient organization and the shifting of power to men who have proved their authority and ability will be foremost in the minds of the people. Wisdom and judgment should be emphasized.

Year ahead—For those with birthdays on this date this month should be a time to stabilize after the changes, so as to have things running smoothly to enter into the coming two years.

Some Indispensable Aprons

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

No housewife can afford to be without aprons, whether her domain is a one room kitchenette or a mansion. There's always the necessity of having a coverall on hand to wear in emergencies, if not all the time. Today's two patterns fill almost any bill in this respect.

Style No. 2703 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of rickrack.

Style No. 2540 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Medium size requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch fabric, with ¾ yard of contrasting for yoke style; 1¼ yards with 1¼ yards of contrasting for bib style.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully)—for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 1.—Sunday: Up betimes, despite a late return from the Bergen party, and to buy a brown and white, freckle faced cocker pup. And so at the typewriter. Can't get much copy out of a Sunday like this.

Monday: To R. K. O. and sneak up to Orson Welles' office to look at his old-time theater posters, and Welles pops in. He frequently startles his staff by arriving when he isn't expected. Welles swears like a mule skinner at his hirelings, pretending that he caught them loafing. There is an air of whimsy about him and his organization that is unlike anything else in Hollywood. It is midmorning, and Orson confesses he has been up with the larks, painting a painting of a barn or something in oil. First time he has done any painting in three years. I guess he's just too late to contribute to the celebs' hobby exhibit at Gump's next week, which will have the etchings, paintings, drawings, and photographs of such cinema Cellinis as Gracie Allen, Stuart Erwin, Lum and Abner, and somebody named Penny Snooks Hellyer. Lovely name, that. But my favorite Hollywood name belongs to one of Eyre Powell's bathing beauty models—Jetsi Posthuma.

Tuesday: To Universal, to watch Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan emote on the "Back Street" set. I learn that Boyer has a system which may be smart. When he is asked to play in a picture he does not read the part first to see if it suits him. He merely asks who the director is. He has a list of 10 directors for whom he will work and no questions asked. They include, of course, Robert Stevenson, who is making "Back Street."

Wednesday: To the Fox lot, to watch Don Ameche and Alice Faye in a glorious technicolor love scene for "The Road to Rio." Ameche is playing a South American smoothie with gray hair, and I tell him that gray powder certainly makes him look powerful handsome. He grins and says, "Gray hair helps any man." Is he right, girls?

Thursday: To Universal for a long talk with Henry Koster, Deanna Durbin's director, and he says his policy and ambition are always to give movie customers something they don't read in the papers. All he wants now is to make people feel good. "I wouldn't make a Nazi picture now for all the money in the world," he says, "or anything serious. When the war is over—then, maybe, one can get a little more solemn." Darryl Zanuck has a polo stick by his desk; Koster has a baton on his—a baton Stokowski gave him during the making of "100 Men and a Girl." Koster knows music, wants some time to film an opera. "The Merry Wives of Windsor," he thinks, would be a natural for the movies. I keep touting "The Marriage of Figaro." . . . In the evening to see the long anticipated W. C. Fields "Bank Dick," in which Bill is wonderful, as usual. Director Eddie Cline, old time Keystone cop, has staged the best automobile chase to hit the screen in years.

Friday: At the desk all day, to make up for so much running around. And a letter comes chiding me for saying Henry Fonda, who wanted to be a newspaperman, has never played one. He was a publisher in "Lillian Russell."

Saturday: Word comes that Sheldon Leonard, out here playing a heavy in "Tall, Dark and Handsome," has had a bid from the Group Theater to play in "Local 802." . . . To United Artists to watch Merle Oberon emote, and so to Lakeside for a bit of exercise.

Good Morning!

The Nazis and their works are due to become an open and well thumbed book to us thru the mediums of screen, press, and literature. . . . "Escape," adapted from the widely read novel by Ethel Vance, depicts memorably experiences of folk who become entangled in a web of political intrigue.

Events concern the tragedy of Emmy Ritter, a German born actress who for many years has made her home in America. Returning to her native land to sell a house, she transgresses unwittingly against a Nazi rule. . . . She is arrested, tried for treason, and sentenced to death. . . . She is sent to a concentration camp to await execution. . . . While there she becomes ill, is successfully operated on, and lives, only to anticipate a crueler manner of exit than the surgeon's knife. . . .

In the meantime, no word of her has reached her son and daughter at home. Letters written to her are returned marked "no address." . . . Mark Preysing comes to Germany to search for his mother—and finds himself bucking a wall of terrified evasion. . . .

Young Dr. Ditten, who has attended Emmy and who still retains a spark of humanity in his Nazi-mechanized organism, an old servant, and Countess von Treck, the lovely and unhappy American born mistress of a German general—Kurt von Kolb—make a way for Mme. Ritter's escape with her son into freedom.

The picture is uncompromisingly painful. Its atmosphere is clammy with suspense. You find yourself as frightened as the German citizens—who are fearful always! For the very skies and roads seem to have eyes and ears—and denouncing tongues. . . . Even in their thoughts these victims of a merciless régime dare only to "Heil Hitler."

While, as I said, action concerns Emmy Ritter's dilemma, the actress herself has little to do except just lie and be moved about like a puppet. . . . As well, I thought, for somehow Nazimova aroused little sympathy in me. Why I don't know.

Robert Taylor proves, as in "Waterloo Bridge," that he has brains as well as pulchritude. He gives a splendidly sincere performance. . . . So does Miss Shearer—and is she gorgeous to look at! . . . Conrad Veidt, Albert Bassermann, and Felix Bressart are excellent. Philip Dorn presents a striking study of Dr. Ditten . . . a powerful and intuitive portrayal distinguished by its reticence. In a brief "catty" bit, Bonita Granville scores.

Brilliant direction.

See you tomorrow.

Yarn Holders or Purse

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a novel way to carry a ball of yarn for your knitting or crochet work. These two bags may be quickly crocheted. By using a fine, mercerized crochet cotton, you may create a bag measuring six inches in diameter. A heavier material and a larger hook will produce greater size. There is no end to the versatility of these carry-alls, since they also may be used, with a lining, for a child's purse. These are ideal gifts for all ages.

For instructions in crocheting the yarn holders or child's purse, No. X-421, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

No two ways about it, the old traps are the best traps! What people "fell for" in 1937, they also fall for in 1940. I have in mind Question 25 of the recent self-rating examination.

North-South vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	?

You are South, and hold:

♠ K Q 10 7 ♥ None ♦ A K J 5 3 ♣ A Q J 9

What call do you make?

The answer was that South should bid four no trump, "a standard, altho not well known, convention demanding that partner name his best suit." This question, with only the slightest changes also was posed in the 1937 exam, to-wit:

East, your right hand opponent, dealt and bid four spades. You are South and hold:

♠ 3 ♥ A Q 10 5 ♦ A K J 6 ♣ K Q J 4

What call do you make?

The answer, then, was four no trump, also.

In both exams, the bridge public chose every conceivable bid, including a double, apparently without considering the advantages of this conventionally forcing four no trump overcall. These advantages are many. In no other way is South assured of reaching an offensive contract in which his team is virtually guaranteed a holding of eight trumps. It is extremely unlikely that North, for his forced response, will have no four card length except in the opponents' suit. Thus, by overcalling with four no trump, South kills two birds with one bid: [1] he guards against the nonvulnerable opponents playing the hand [doubled], and possibly raking in eight or nine tricks, and [2] he definitely discovers the best trump suit at which his side can buy the contract.

Today's Hand.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

NORTH.
♠ Q 8 5
♥ A 7
♦ K 10 6 3 2

WEST.

EAST.
♦ J 5

SOUTH.
♠ K 10 2
♦ A Q 9 8
♣ A Q 10 8 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	1 no trump	Pass
2 clubs	2 hearts	3 diamonds	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

North-South passed up a laydown slam on this deal and, the moment the play was over, a "blame fixing" argument broke out.

It seems to me that there can be no real doubt as to the guilty party being South. North made a free no trump bid over West's one heart; he gave a free diamond raise over the two hearts; and, most significant, he made a four heart cue bid over South's four clubs. His five diamond bid was only a "preference," but, in my opinion, the values he announced in his three previous bids should have appeared sufficient for South, in view of his own strength, to bid the slam.

South argued that none of North's bids indicated the all-important king of clubs, to solidify South's suit, and that other values, in spades, for example, would not have been so usable. This was a very superficial bit of reasoning. If North lacked the club king, he certainly would have to hold the spade ace to justify his bids, and in that case a doubleton club or the club jack would give South an equally good play for the slam. South simply failed to visualize the top cards and distribution North must have to back up his strong bidding.

Almost every country except ours has a traditional kind of Christmas cookie. We have preferred to borrow the recipes for our Christmas cookies from many other lands, instead of creating a purely American Christmas cookie tradition.

Sugar cookies or molasses cookies probably would be our native contribution to tradition, had we one. Yet these are around the year cookies, not cookies baked only at Christmas time.

German peppernuts, tiny hard cookies which improve with age, are one of our favorite borrowings. We may make them now and store them in a covered container until Christmas.

Peppernuts.

[Three Quarts Tiny Cookies.]

¼ cup butter
¼ cup lard
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1½ cups maple sirup
½ cup cold coffee
6 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon allspice
¾ teaspoon anise seeds
½ cup chopped Brazil nuts

Cream shortenings and sugars. Add maple sirup and coffee. Sift flour, baking powder, and spices together and add with nuts and anise seed, working the last of the flour in with the hands, if necessary. Cover and let "ripen" over night in the refrigerator. When ready to bake, roll dough into long rolls, not more than ¾ inch in diameter. Cut off in short bits, place on ungreased cookie sheet, and bake five to seven minutes in a moderately hot, 400 degrees, oven.

"Holiday Cookies and Fruit Cakes" contains another recipe for peppernuts, one which calls for honey and cardamom seeds. The booklet contains also recipes for Christmas cookies such as almond pretzels, almond crescents, cinnamon stars, lebkuchen, springerle, French cream cakes and Norwegian Christmas wreaths. There are many suggestions about making Christmas sugar cookies, too.

The booklet is available for 5 cents, by mail. Another baking booklet valuable for recipes appropriate to Christmas is "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls," 23 cents, by mail. It is a fat, printed book chockfull of recipes for breads made with baking powder and with yeast. Both booklets will be mailed upon receipt of 28 cents, in stamps.

Marabou Coat Is Glamor Item of Yule Season

BY REA SEEGER.

No collection of negligees, house coats or robes thruout the year ever matches the splendor of the specially designed Christmas models. They are in velvet, gleaming satin, snowy white thin woolens and the flattering shell pink woolens that are as light as a breeze. These woolens are made into hostess gowns of great chic, some with long double panels of soft shell pink satin down the center, and then tied with a huge bow of the same satin. Sleeves are easy and wide and long.

Other models are shirred with front fullness extending from shoulder to hemline, this fullness held in place with dull gold braid trim. They have all the swank of a silk, satin, or velvet gown.

Glamor items this year . . . the full length marabou coats with long straight sleeves, the marabou in delicate pink or blue or white. Such breath taking coats are lined full length with satin the same shade as the marabou. Luxurious white satin is quilted and padded into super-robes for decorative lounging, some have scarlet braid frogs to fasten securely over the chest; others tie at the waist.

Huge plaid taffeta coats boast plaid formations bigger and brighter than ever. One dashing model ties with two perky bows, one high at the neckline the other at the waistline. White wool coats have huge square collars of marabou. A most beautiful almond green crêpe has full length sleeves of marabou dyed the exact shade of the gown, with a fat round sash belt to tie snugly around the waist.

Quilted white jersey robes are lined either with scarlet or royal blue taffeta, with the quilted pattern stitched in the same colored silk. These are but a few of the possible finds. One view of the collections leave the most blasé shopper gasping for words.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kurland of Merrill avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Lenora Libbye, to Bernard Barry Oliff, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Oliff of South Millard avenue. Mr. Oliff attended the University of Illinois and was graduated from Central college.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 (AP).—The Washington Redskins today won the eastern division championship of the National Football league by beating the Philadelphia Eagles, 13 to 6. But the magnificent performance of little Davey O'Brien of the Eagles, as he bowed out of football, stole the show.

O'Brien set a world record for a single game when 33 of his forward passes were completed.

O'Brien played all but 17 seconds of the game. He bettered the previous mark of 23 set this season by Sammy Baugh of the Redskins.

25,838 Applaud Davey.

As Davey left the field the crowd of 25,838 stood and filled Griffith stadium with a deafening roar of cheers. The Washington players joined in the ovation. O'Brien plans to go to work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation within a few days.

The Redskins earned the right to play the Chicago Bears here next Sunday for the professional championship.

While O'Brien was setting his record, two other players set new marks. Don Looney, Eagles' end, caught 14 passes to break the old mark of 8 for a single game. Baugh, who earlier this season set a new mark for yardage gained on completions, turned in the best punt in the history of the pro game—85 yards from the line of scrimmage—to break Parker Hall's record of 80.

As O'Brien filled the air with passes, his running almost went unnoticed. Time and again, when he found his ends and backs covered, he charged with the ball. Twisting and turning his 151 pounds between the Redskin forwards, some of whom weigh over 230, Davey gained three first downs rushing.

None of 60 Intercepted.

Adding to the brilliance of O'Brien's passing was the fact that none of his 60 heaves was intercepted. His total gain thru the air was 316 yards, also a new mark.

The Redskins scored their touchdowns in the second and third periods—the first on Wilbur Moore's twenty-seven yard run, and the second on Dick Todd's plunge from the 4 yard stripe. Sandy Sanford missed the first extra point but Bob Masterson kicked the next one.

The Eagles got their touchdown in the final period, O'Brien passing to Frank Emmons, after Baugh's record punt had set the Eagles back on their 2 yard line. Davey made a shambles of the Redskins defense, passing the Eagles straight down the field to the touchdown. His final pass was thirteen yards to Emmons. Masterson blocked Murray's kick for extra point.

As the fourth period neared its end, O'Brien launched a drive from his 31 which took the ball to the Redskins' 22 as the game ended. Mixed in his expert passing were Davey's runs of twenty-three and nineteen yards.

Bo Peep.

Long years ago they christened me Bo Peep,
When you were by my side in schoolhood days,
For you were mild and gentle as a sheep
And everybody loved your quiet ways;
I used to meet you daily near the mill
And romp to school across the meadowland,
There was no terror in the winter's chill
As long as you were there to take my hand.

O, that was many moons ago and we
Have lost each other in the changing years,
Yet often in my sorrowing I see
Your blue eyes shining thru a veil of tears;
And I should count as trivial the cost
If I could once more find the sheep I lost.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night rewarded the patient loyalty of 16,208 of their constituents by administering a 4 to 1 trimming to the world champion New York Rangers in Chicago Stadium. It was their first home victory of the month old National Hockey league season, and the Hawks indicated at the outset they were going to shoot the works for the edification and justification of the season's largest turnout.

Max Bentley and Bill Carse scored two dazzling goals in the first period, and Cully Dahlstrom upset a terrific power onslaught for a solo breakaway and goal in the second period. In the third period the Rangers got their score, but just to add a measure of pleasure to the departing fans, Bill Thoms, assisted by Allen and Pep Kelly, scored the Blackhawks' fourth goal 14 seconds before the game ended.

Hawks Near Second.

The outcome shook the Rangers out of their third place tie they held with the Hawks before last night's match, and lifted the Chicagoans to within a game of second place.

The first score of the hilarious evening was produced 4 minutes and 25 seconds after the opening face-off and neither the crowd nor the Hawks quieted down thereafter. Phil Hergesheimer picked up the puck off the left boards in his own defense zone, carried it across neutral ice, and, after proceeding about six feet over the Ranger blue line, passed laterally to Max Bentley, who came racing down the center lane. One lightning swish and Max blinded Goalie Dave Kerr with the first tally.

Kerr's a Bit Too Slow.

The second goal, in 14 minutes and 59 seconds of the first period, was another perfectly timed speed special. George Allen got the rubber off the right boards in his own defense zone, sped three-fourths the length of the rink, then swerved left. Jockeying Goalie Kerr off balance, Allen passed perfectly to Bill Carse, coming in fast. Goalie Kerr dropped to the mouth of the cage, but the power of gravity wasn't strong enough. Before Dave hit the ice, the puck had scooted under him and into the nets for goal No. 2.

Near the middle of the second period the Rangers launched a series of power plays and had the Hawks really hopping to defend their cage until Dahlstrom escaped from the mêlée, carried the puck the length of the rink and on top of Goalie Kerr, with Ott Heller in hot pursuit. As he arrived near the cage Cully bounced No. 3 past Kerr. Then, with Heller on top of him, Cully crashed into the end boards.

Rangers Finally Score.

The Rangers' desperation technique paid a dividend after 9 minutes and 37 seconds of the third period when Phil Watson, on assists by Bryan Hextall and Heller, scored to destroy the Hawks shutout chances.

Then came the Thoms-Allen-Kelly good night goal in 19:46 of the final period.

STANFORD PICKS NEBRASKA FOR ROSE BOWL FOE

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 1 (AP).—Maj. Lawrence M. Jones announced tonight Nebraska has accepted Stanford university's invitation to play in the Rose bowl football game, and that the Huskers have received the sanction of the Big Six conference to play the New Year's day game in Pasadena.

The Nebraska team plans to drill in Lincoln until the school's Christmas vacation starts, then will move west, probably to Arizona, where practice will proceed until two or three days before the game.

Nebraska, officials here said, was tendered the invitation this afternoon, and immediately contacted other conference schools asking permission to go. The vote to permit the Huskers to go was unanimous.

Nebraska lost only one game during its 1940 campaign—a 13 to 7 defeat by Minnesota. Stanford, guided amazingly by its new coach, Clark Shaughnessy, after a disastrous showing last season, is unbeaten and untied.

Stanford won the Pacific Coast conference championship and clinched a bid to the Rose bowl by beating its traditional rival, California, yesterday.

GET JUMP ON TACTICS.

"That's swell," said Link Lyman, line coach of the Nebraska eleven when told last night that the Huskers would play Stanford in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

Lyman, and W. H. Brown, end coach and Nebraska's chief scout, came to Chicago yesterday to study the Bears' system of play against the Cardinals. Stanford, like the professional team, used a T formation, which features one back in motion on every play.

"We felt we had a good chance to land the game," Lyman continued. "When I left Lincoln and Omaha yesterday the Rose Bowl fever already had set in. I wouldn't be surprised if Nebraska sent eight or nine special trains out there. And don't forget there are a lot of Nebraska alumni on the coast.

"We respect Clark Shaughnessy's coaching skill and his fine Stanford team, but are confident we can show the Rose Bowl crowd that we play real football in the midwest, too."

Lyman, one time star line man for the Bears, said the Huskers should have their full strength for Stanford. Right now Harry Hopp, one of Nebraska's best backs, has a torn ligament in his shoulder.

Loyola Battles Alumni Basketball Five Tonight

30 Years of Chicago Basketball

Cornells of Armour Square Lost Only 13 of 1,000 Games as Amateurs and Pros.

[This is the first of a series of articles on highlights in Chicago basketball history for the last 30 years. No effort has been made to include all of the thousands of teams which have played the game in this city, emphasis being placed only on the more important teams and tournaments.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The first Chicago basketball team to gain national prominence, and to defend that prominence for a number of years, was a quintet known as the Cornells of Armour Square, a unit of the old South Park system, then and now located at 33d street and Shields avenue. The Cornells were the basketball phase of the then famous Cornell-Hamburgs football club, but, since they practiced in the Armour square gymnasium, they took that name. Because of having played with other organizations they were ineligible for competition in the closed division of park play, and so organized themselves as an independent five, meeting all comers.

Many of them, including Al Pressler, the captain, had played the game outdoors at Beutner square, 33d street and Wentworth avenue, in the days when nine players were used on a side. The game took hold in Chicago as an indoor sport along about 1904. The original Cornells consisted of Al Pressler, who had played at Wendell Phillips High and the University of Illinois; his brother Bill, who also had played at Phillips and with a number of non-park teams; Harry Frieling, a New Yorker; Bill Johnson, a star in both high school and Bible class basketball, and Fred [Spot] Kohfeldt, even in 1910 a veteran with seven years' experience. Rufe Klawans, the manager, was an attorney and a graduate of the University of Chicago, where he had played the game, and the coach was Herb Reynolds, who had starred on one of Chicago's earliest teams, the Central Y. M. C. A. quintet, with such other notables as Herbert Immenhausen, John Schommer, and Ed Lange.

Later Becomes Noted Illinois Athletic Club Five.

This fivesome was the one which developed into the famous Illinois Athletic club team, and still later into the professional clubs known as the Chicago Big Five and also as the Whiting Owls. Twice as the Cornells and twice as the I. A. C., they won national A. A. U. championships.

In 1910 the Cornells captured the Central A. A. U. championship, and local followers of the sport that Dr. James Naismith founded in 1891 in the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. began to follow the young men from the south side. A year later a young fellow named Bill Feeney, later to become known as Bat, graduated from Lane Tech and joined the team. Acquisition of Feeney was to make the team even stronger. This was proved one night when the University of Chicago, scheduled to meet the University of Illinois in Bartlett gymnasium, had to put in a hurry call for an opponent, the Illini having been forced to withdraw because of a scarlet fever epidemic in Champaign, which quarantined their team. The Cornells were rounded up by phone and rushed to the Midway. Much to general amazement, the Cornells won, thereby touching off a hex which they exercised over the Maroons thru 13 straight games.

In this same 1911 season, the Cornells not only won the Central A. A. U. title, but also that of the newly formed A. A. F. event, despite a difference in the rules used in each. They repeated in both in 1912 and 1913 without a loss, and in the summer of 1913, entered a pre-Olympic tournament, held on Grant park soil, near Monroe street and Michigan avenue. The national A. A. U. event was part of the program, and the final found the Cornells running away from a Quincy, Mass., five.

Accept I. A. C. Invitation; Lose Only Four in 700.

Because of its record, the team was invited to represent the Illinois Athletic club and accepted. Representing the I. A. C. from 1913 thru 1918, the boys set up a remarkable record. Prior to their association with the I. A. C., they had played 150 games. Under the Tri-Color emblem, they worked another 550. Out of that total of 700, they lost only four games—to the Oakland Y. M. C. A., the Michigan Aggies, the Naperville Y. M. C. A., and the University of Utah. Two of these defeats were incurred in National A. A. U. tournaments. In one, the Cornells lost a 32 to 30 battle to Oakland in the first round of the meet at the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915. The other saw them yield the final to the University of Utah in Chicago's First Regiment armory, the only defeat the team suffered on a Chicago floor. Utah was coached by Nelson Norgren, former University of Chicago star and present Maroon coach. The following year, the I. A. C. defeated Brigham Young, another Norgren-coached team from Utah, in the A. A. U. final, on St. Patrick's day, 1917, and then went on to win the 1918 title also.

Manager Klawans chose the 1915 tour to the Pacific coast as a wedding trip, and has returned to Chicago only once since then. His place on the homeward trip was taken by W. A. [Bill] Finn, still one of the ablest athletic timers in Chicago. Out of a total of 50 games played on that journey, the only defeat was that by the Oakland Y.

New Players Add Strength to Cornells.

Following their I. A. C. career, the old Cornells entered professional basketball, working first as the Whiting Owls and later as the Chicago Big Five. They disbanded in 1921, after 12 successive seasons together. In all, they played approximately 1,000 games, losing four as amateurs and nine as professionals. These latter losses were sustained in the following order: two at Fond du Lac, Wis., two at Muscatine, Ia., and single games to Detroit, Fort Wayne, Beloit, Milwaukee, and Vincennes, Ind.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Chicago Bears returned to supremacy in the western division of the National Football league yesterday for the first time since 1937 by defeating the Cardinals, 31 to 23, in the 41st game of the oldest rivalry in professional football.

Before an intimate little gathering of 13,092, which was thawed from its seats in Wrigley field by the Cardinals' spectacular 23 point rally in the fourth period, the Bears qualified to meet the Washington Redskins for the world professional championship in Washington next Sunday. Like the Bears, the Redskins will be making their first appearance in the playoff since 1937, when they passed over the icy surface of Wrigley field for a 28 to 21 victory.

Yesterday's game was a fitting close to Chicago's 1940 football season. It summed up elegantly the Bears' entire fight to the title. It revealed just how good these new western division champions have been at times this year, and just how disappointing they have been at other times, for it actually was two games in one.

It Begins Like a Rout.

In the first half the Bears were supreme. In the second half they were lucky to have had the protection of 31 points. Phil Martinovich, a substitute end, started the scoring by kicking a thirty-six yard field goal. Ray Nolting went twenty yards for a touchdown a few plays later and before the period was over Sid Luckman and Dick Plasman had started some of the customers thinking about the exits and firesides with a twenty yard touchdown pass.

It began to look like a rout when Rookie Ray [Dagwood] McLean gathered in a punt and went back forty-four yards for another score. Joe Maniaci added the conversion that ultimately served as the winning point. There seemed to be little reason for continuing a few minutes later when the Bears broke up a Cardinal pass, and by lateraling three times, completed a seventy yard return of the interception with Maniaci going over the goal line for the fourth touchdown of the half.

Now It's Cardinals' Turn.

But the Cardinals, victorious once over the new champions this year and eager to score their seventh triumph in the series which began back in 1920, continued to play for all they were worth right on down to the final gun. They stopped the Bears' powerhouse in the third period and started an entirely different game in the fourth quarter.

Before Field Judge Verne Lewellen tried to end the game with the customary pistol shot and found his cannon empty, the Bears had taken time out to change to tennis shoes and the Cardinals had smashed over three touchdowns and scored a safety.

Luckman was tossed for a loss behind his own goal by Guard Frank Huffman to score the safety. Buddy Parker split the guards for the first touchdown. Marshall Goldberg took a sixteen yard pass from Hugh McCollough for another. And McCollough smashed inside tackle and ran over Maniaci for twenty yards for the third. Parker added the three extra points. Statistics:

DODGERS BEAT GIANTS, 14-6, ON PARKER'S TOSSES

Throws 25 and 44 Yards for Touchdowns.

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—Ace Parker whipped touchdown passes of twenty-five and forty-four yards to Banks McFadden and Dick Cassiano to drive the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 14 to 6 victory over the Giants before a crowd of 54,993 in the Polo Grounds today.

Parker's tosses in the first and final periods gave the Dodgers their fourth straight triumph and clinched the runner-up honors in the eastern division of the National league. It was their first victory over their interboro rivals since 1930.

Each team scored within the first eight minutes, and from there on it was a grim affair until Parker's second successful toss clinched the decision midway of the fourth quarter. The Giants went fifty-five yards to score their touchdown, an eighteen yard pass from Len Barnum to Jim Lee Howell going across after Tuffy Leemans had done some valiant running.

Winners Score Early.

The winners first score came after only three and one-half minutes of play. Parker's fifty-eight yard quick kick caught the Giants napping and rolled out on the 2. Barnum's return boot went only to the 26. On the second play Parker located McFadden in the end zone and wafted the ball into his arms.

The Giants took the ensuing kick-off and, with the impetus of a thirty-seven yard runback by Barnum, marched to their score. Leemans and Barnum hacked out a first down on Brooklyn's 44, and then Leemans squirmed and fought his way twenty-eight more to the Dodgers' 16. On third down Barnum hung a pass on Howell's fingertips in the end zone. When Barnum's kick went wide it was the first extra point the Giants had missed in two full seasons.

Cassiano Takes Long Pass.

The Dodgers roared to another score in the final quarter. With Parker passing to Rhoten Shetley for repeated gains and running for still more yardage, Brooklyn stacked up five straight first downs and reached the Giants 5 before it was thrown back.

Barnum kicked out to the 44, and on the first play Parker sailed one far down the middle that Cassiano took in full stride almost between the goal posts.

Wailing Wall Honors Two Stars Today

Tom Harmon of Michigan and Alf Bauman of Northwestern will be guests of the Wailing Wall at luncheon today in the Sherman hotel. The members of this group of university alumni in Chicago have commanded the appearance of the two stars by the cumulative vote at all previous Monday meetings during the football season.

Harmon will receive the club's trophy as the outstanding back of the year. Bauman, whose play at tackle against Notre Dame a week ago was one of the outstanding features of the season, will be given a trophy as the lineman of the year. Jay Berwanger, will present the trophies.

The shillelagh, a gift to Knute Rockne by the president of the Irish Free State in 1930, will be presented to K. L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern athletic director, by Elmer Layden, Notre Dame coach. The club annually goes to the winner of the Notre Dame-Northwestern game.

Tom's Still on the Run.

For Harmon, today marks the beginning of another week of speeches, dinner engagements, and radio talks which will be climaxed Friday night in Gary, Ind., when his home town pays tribute to its great athlete. Arrangements have been made for an overflow crowd at the auditorium and amplifiers will be installed. Civic and sports leaders are on the program in which Harmon's part is to distribute the athletic awards to members of Gary's High school football squads.

Thursday evening at 6 o'clock Harmon, Capt. Forest Evashevski, and Bob Westfall, Michigan full back, will be the guests of the University of Michigan club of Chicago at the annual dinner in the Palmer House. Coach Fritz Crisler and all members of the Michigan football staff also will attend.

Sports Notables on Air.

Harmon is scheduled to take part in a national broadcast this afternoon from the Medinah temple, 14 East Ohio street, in connection with the awards to national winners of the 4-H club projects. Patty Berg, Bobby Feller, and Bobby Riggs are other sports celebrities on this program which begins at 3:30 o'clock with the presentation of awards in the Thomas E. Wilson National 4-H meat animal live stock project and the national junior feeding contest.

Dean Chris L. Christensen of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture, will speak. After the broadcast and a vaudeville show, dinner will be served to the 1,600 boys and girls of the 4-H clubs.

Packers Rally to Gain 13-13 Tie with Rams

Cleveland, O., Dec. 1 (AP).—The Cleveland Rams battled Green Bay to a 13 to 13 tie today, before 16,249, missing victory as the Packers pushed over 10 points in the final period.

Don Hutson, Green Bay end, nosed out Johnny Drake, Cleveland full back, for the league's individual scoring title. Unofficial figures give Hutson 57 points on seven touchdowns and 15 added points. Drake finished with nine touchdowns and two added points for 56.

Drake took a brief lead in the scoring race with a touchdown in the first half today, but his placement kick for the extra point was low. Hutson went over in the final period on a 11 yard pass and kicked the extra point. Clarke Hinkle completed the Green Bay scoring with two field goals, and Ollie Cordill made the other Cleveland touchdown.

Rams Lead at Half, 7-3.

After Hinkle dropped back to the 45 yard line to kick his first field goal in the opening minutes of the game, the Rams took command and outplayed the Packers until the final period. Hinkle attempted a third goal from the 30 in the closing seconds but the ball went wide.

Cleveland hammered at the Green Bay goal line during most of the first half but it was not until a minute before intermission that Drake plunged over from the 5 to climax a seventy-seven yard march. Parker Hall's passes gained most of the ground on the march, with Vic Spadaccini adding the point.

Hall's 30 yard toss to Jim Benton started Cleveland goalward early in the second half and the Ohioans capped a seventy-one yard advance with Hall's touchdown pass to Cordill. Drake's kick for the extra point, which later proved the deciding issue of the contest, was low.

Van Every Leads Rally.

Harold Van Every was the key man in Green Bay's powerful comeback. His running and passing tore apart the previously effective Cleveland defense and finally Hutson grabbed one of his eleven yard passes for the Packers' touchdown.

Cordill's fumble of a kickoff set up Hinkle's final field goal, the Packers recovering on the 24. Running plays carried the ball fifteen yards, but the Rams broke thru to throw Van Every on the 17. Then Hinkle stepped back to the 26 and kicked for the three points that tied the score. Lineups:

3 Florsheim Horses Add to Stable Honors

Adding three victories yesterday to the two scored Saturday, Irving A. Florsheim's Red Top farm entries from Libertyville took a commanding lead in the international horse show, held in conjunction with the live stock exposition in the International amphitheater.

Snuffy Smith, 7 year old chestnut gelding from Red Top farm, won a second blue ribbon last night in the three-gaited saddle horse class for stallions, mares, and geldings between 14.2 and 15.2 hands high.

Thompson Entries Versatile.

Entries from Mrs. A. C. Thompson's Happy Way farm of Justice Park proved the most versatile among the show contenders. These horses are competing in the hunter, jumper, and harness pony classes. Locust Flame and Blue Heaven won in the latter event last night. Bruce had captured the blue ribbon in the hunter class Saturday.

After winning the roadster competition in the afternoon, Sunny Ridge farm's Sue Bellwin, from Wheaton, had to be content with fourth in the same class on the evening program. Spring Gayle from Nawbeek farm, Paoli, Pa., was the winner.

Captain Bill Scores.

Captain Bill, which George W. Ault of Kirkland, Il., bought for $6,000 a week ago at a public auction featuring show horses owned by William R. Skidmore's Pine Tree farm, McHenry, Ill., took the blue ribbon in the open class for five-gaited stallions or geldings. This 7 year old chestnut gelding thereby became a favorite to capture the grand championship for five-gaited steppers. It defeated a brilliant field, including Sunny Ridge farm's High Tide.

Some 300 ice skaters are expected to line up to be assigned permanent numbers for the 10 racing Derbies this winter at a meeting in the Garfield Park gold dome building at 8 o'clock tonight, Pete Miller, president of the Illinois Skating association, announced last night.

FENGER INVITED TO CHRISTMAS GAME IN FLORIDA

Make Decision Tonight on Offer from Miami.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Dreams of Miami's sunny skies, waving palms, cocoanut trees and perhaps another victory filled the minds of Fenger High school's football players yesterday following their 18 to 0 triumph over Leo's Catholic league champions in the All-City charity game in Soldiers' field Saturday. The champions, now unbeaten in 37 games, were ready to call it quits for the year until Coach Chuck Palmer announced Fenger has received an invitation to play Miami High school Christmas day.

Palmer said a definite decision will be made tonight. If Fenger accepts it will be the fourth Chicago district eleven to play a post-season game in Florida. Harrison Tech and Oak Park have played in Miami, while last winter Mount Carmel's eleven routed an All-Star team in West Palm Beach.

Palmer Praises Florek.

Palmer was more willing to speak about his hard driving full back, Ray Florek, than the proposed Florida game. Florek, voted the outstanding player of the game by press box observers, scored two touchdowns against Leo on smashes of three and four yards.

Leo's little eleven, which had marched thru ten games without defeat until it met Fenger's towering squad, will gather in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel tonight for the annual football banquet under the auspices of the Leo Fathers' club. Owner Charles Bidwill and Coach Jimmy Conzelman of the Chicago Cardinals will be among the speakers. Arrangements were made by Harry J. Trainer, president of the Fathers' club, T. J. Barrett and George Kollman.

It's the Banquet Season.

Other prep elevens in the Chicago area also are completing arrangements for banquets. Harold [Red] Grange and Clint Frank will speak before Oak Park's football team tomorrow night in the Oak Park Arms hotel, Washington boulevard and Oak Park avenue. Fred Walker, former Wheaton college coach, is chairman. Toastmasters will be Cary DeButts and State Representative William G. Thon, fathers of the co-captains of the 1940 Oak Park eleven.

Bloom Township of Chicago Heights, 1939 champion of the South Suburban league, will hold its annual banquet Thursday night. The principal speaker will be Glenn Cunningham, the mile champion, now on the faculty of Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia. E. J. Fenneman, president of the Chicago Heights Board of Education, also will speak.

The Monarch Beers increased their lead to three games by taking the odd from the Michelobs. Koenig Brau's 1,081 was high game.

Joe Sinke bowled a 683 series and Joe Traubenik's 267 was high game. Scores:

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—The Boston Bruins tonight ran up the highest National Hockey league score of the season, driving thru the injury riddled New York Americans for seven goals in the third period and a 10 to 3 victory before 10,696 in Madison Square Garden.

Boston went ahead 3 to 0, on three goals by Eddie Wiseman, but the Americans tied the score in the second period with counters by Buzz Boll, Charlie Conacher, and Lorne Carr.

Then came the deluge as the Americans' defense collapsed and gave Earl Robertson in the nets no appreciable support.

The Americans' injury list was built up by the addition of Tommy Anderson, who was struck on the right eye in the first period by Wiseman's stick in a mixup along the boards. It was stated he could not see out of the eye.

Remember the Famous Cornells?

were strengthened by the addition of Feeney, but also of such stars, during the I. A. C. span, as Paddy Driscoll, Lennie Sachs, Jack Tierney, Norm Elliott, Gus Gresel, Moose Cochrane, Bernie Egan, Al Marquardt, Earl Watson, and the late Tobey Norlund.

There have been other great teams in the Chicago area in the last three decades, including such as the Ravenswood and Central Y. M. C. A.'s, the Hamlin Triangles, the Chicago Reds of Wells Park, the First National Bank, the Evanston Reds, the Seward Meteors and Blues, the West Side Browns, and Tigers, Hull House, the Mystic A. C., the Berwyn Comets, Wilson of Exmoor, Edgewater Presbyterian, Armour missions, Eckhart Park Imps, and in later years such outstanding fives as Forges Post, Armour Post, Whiting Owls, and Wilmington Seals, but the old Cornells still stand out among old timers as the town's No. 1 team.

What are the original Cornells doing now? Al Pressler runs a leather business on the south side. Brother Bill is a veteran conductor on the Illinois Central electric. Harry Frieling is a packing firm executive. Bill Feeney is a deputy sheriff. Spot Kohfeldt is a city construction inspector. Bill Johnson, who later played outfield for the Athletics, is working in California.

Chicago Bears' Alumni Elect Ed Healy President

The Chicago Bears' alumni association was organized last night when 50 graduates of George Halas' professional elevens had their annual get-together in the Ivanhoe club. Ed Healy, Halas college '29, was elected president, and Larry Walquist, class of '31, was named secretary-treasurer.

DADE-NOTO BOUT FOR C. Y. O. TITLE HOLDS INTEREST

Boxers End Drills Today for Finals Wednesday.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Finalists in the 10th annual Catholic Youth Organization amateur tournament will end boxing drills today in C. Y. O. center for 16 open and novice division bouts in the Coliseum Wednesday. Head Coach Paddy Kane and his assistants, Dick Fitzpatrick and Louis Radzienda, will have each boy spar two rounds of three minutes during the day. Wednesday's fights are three rounds of two minutes.

All contestants will receive their share of the attention, but two of the most important in the eyes of the coaches are Al Noto of St. Angela and Harold Dade, Corpus Christi. These flyweight rivals will meet in a rubber match for the flyweight championship.

Dade Out to Dethrone Al.

Noto, who was born in Italy 20 years ago, will be defending the title he won from Dade in their first fight a year ago. Harold, former Du Sable high school student, obtained a measure of revenge when he conquered Noto in a rematch for the Illinois Athletic club medal last January. Harold's chances of taking Dade's title are increased by his great activity during the year while Noto was kept out of the ring because of his duties as a scaler at the Salerno biscuit company, 4500 Division street. Al has not fought since he beat Don 10 Triumphs in Row.

Dade, who was only 17 years old on March 24, has a string of 10 consecutive triumphs. He has not suffered a setback since losing to Paul Inamine of Hawaii in the intersectional C. Y. O. tournament in Soldiers' field last July 10. Prior to this competition, Harold fought his way to a Chicagoland diamond studded golden glove.

QUESTION MILLS' ABILITY TO MEET STEEL DEMANDS

Present Production Held Adequate.

Plans for the building of defense facilities at outlying positions leased from Great Britain have again raised the question in the national capital as to whether the steel industry is able to satisfy both defense and normal domestic needs. The navy department declared that the industry's ability to produce all the steel needed was a moot question.

Walter S. Tower reports on steel situation.

The department disclosed that it had been informed by defense officials that steel production capacity is adequate at present. Output this year is expected to set a new all-time record.

Executives reiterated yesterday that despite the present big demand which is causing mills to operate close to capacity they will be able to handle the defense requirements. However, it is reported in Washington that a major expansion program may be announced soon.

Can Run Above Rated Capacity.

Walter S. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel institute, said that the present rated producing capacity of all the mills is 83,000,000 net tons a year. The rated capacity is actually 10 to 12½ per cent below the potential capacity so as to make allowance for repairs of plant facilities.

In practice many mills have been able to operate at their full rated capacity, or more, for substantial periods because furnaces and other facilities required no repairs at the time. Tower said that in an emergency it would be possible to push the mills beyond their rated capacity. Even a 5 per cent increase over rated capacity would give the mills a capacity of about 87,000,000 tons. He said that the mills now are in good condition, vast sums having been spent on their improvement during the dull depression period.

Estimate Defense Needs.

Steel production in 1939 was about 46,800,000 tons, compared with 28,200,000 in 1938 and 50,318,000 tons in 1937, an unusually active year. It has been estimated that steel required for defense purposes will not exceed an annual maximum of 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 tons in the next few years. Even with exports of 12,000,000 tons, it is contended that the long term demand on the mills should fall short of potenial production by a substantial margin.

Meantime the steel industry is moving rapidly to end, thru new construction, one bottle neck in its production facilities—electric furnaces for the manufacture of stainless and other high grade steels. These special steels are used in large quantities in defense production.

Capacity Much Increased.

At the start of 1939 the rated capacity of electric furnaces was 1,540,260 tons annually. Completion of the building program will bring total capacity to 2,453,260 tons annually.

Steel ingot production in the United States this year will exceed by about 8 per cent the record output of 1929, the magazine Steel predicted yesterday.

"It will surpass that of 1917—peak in the world war period—by 34 per cent," the forecast said. "It will top 1939 by 27 per cent."

Zinc Supplies Declared Far Below Needs

New York, Dec. 1 [Special].—Every one of the 12,042 tons of zinc shipped to Japan during the first 10 months of 1940 was urgently needed by domestic fabricators engaged in supplying American and British defense needs, C. Donald Dallas, president of Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., said today.

The result is that fabricating plants thruout the country are forced to curtail production schedules and delay deliveries desperately needed by the British, he declared. There is available to brass fabricators less than half the amount of zinc needed to meet present requirements, he said.

Two Actions Possible.

"We must either find some new supply of refined zinc or take some action with reference to the numerous existing nondefense uses for zinc," he said. "In many of these, some other material could be substituted without serious difficulty, whereas there is no substitute for zinc in brass which is vitally needed for defense.

"If, for example, the zinc which goes into production of die cast decorative automobile trim, radiator grilles, refrigerator hardware and the like were freed for defense production, our own and British needs could be met more promptly. Likewise some of the zinc used in galvanizing might be diverted to defense needs.

Used with Copper.

"You can't make cartridge brass without zinc. Brass is used not only for cartridges and shell cases, but it also goes into the production of detonator caps, rotating bands, fuse caps and many other parts in the armament and munition fields. These metals average about two-thirds copper and one-third zinc. We have copper. But much of it will be useless without the zinc. There can't be any copper shortage until the very serious zinc shortage is first cured."

The American Society of Animal Production yesterday announced the election of Prof. W. H. Peters of the University of Minnesota as president. Peters replaced Dr. G. H. Hart of the University of California.

SIXTH PLACE.

How does Youngstown Sheet & Tube rank in the steel industry? Have its earnings gone up with the rest of the steel companies? —E. M.

Answer: Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, with an annual ingot capacity of 3,494,000 tons, ranks sixth in size among the country's steel producers. The company has carried out a $100,000,000 modernization and expansion program in the last 10 years.

Declining sales of tubular steels, caused by the contraction of demand from the oil and gas industries, has been made up by the company by increased sales to the automobile industry.

Net income of the company in the first nine months this year rose to $5,265,492, equal to $2.77 a common share, after provision for preferred dividends. Net income in the corresponding period of 1939 was $1,311,259, or 41 cents a share.

Comparison of the company's net sales, net income, and earnings per common share in recent years follows:

1935	$ 86,789,000	$ 1,597,521	$0.64
1936	127,675,000	10,564,501	7.03
1937	144,289,000	12,190,649	6.79
1938	84,665,000	*658,934	*0.89
1939	117,028,000	5,004,484	2.50

*Loss.

The company has outstanding $85,500,000 in funded debt, 150,000 shares of 5½ per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and 1,672,365 shares of no par common stock.

Regular dividends are being paid on the preferred stock. Payment of $3.25 a share in 1937 and 75 cents a share thus far in 1940 were the only dividends to common stock holders since 1931. Before that common dividends had been paid without interruption from 1906. A dividend of 50 cents a share will be paid Dec. 16 to common stock holders of record Nov. 30.

The bulk of the company's operations are conducted in the Youngstown, O., district, and the remainder in the Chicago district. Headquarters are in Youngstown.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

I have heard the term "negotiable instruments" used in the bank. What does it mean? —H. T.

Answer: The term "negotiable instruments" includes checks, promissory notes, and bills of exchange. Such instruments may be transferred easily from one person to another by indorsement, delivery or both. Commercial paper is another term for negotiable instruments.

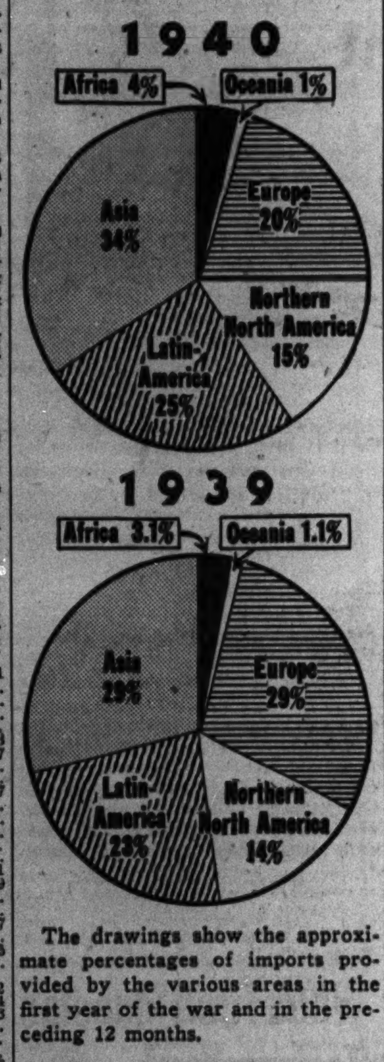
ore to meet American demands. Heretofore Russia has been an important source of manganese, an alloying metal vital in steel making operations. The United States is also seeking to promote the development of rubber trees and cinchona trees, a source of quinine, in Latin America.

On the other hand some imports were curtailed in the first year of the war. The most important of these were chemicals, meat products, steel mill manufactures, and fertilizers.



The drawings show the approximate percentages of imports provided by the various areas in the first year of the war and in the preceding 12 months.

Combined imports of these articles fell $36,000,000. They came chiefly from European countries and are being replaced mainly from domestic sources.

Canada Is Big Source.

Canada remained after a year of war the chief source of United States imports among individual countries. Dominion goods shipped to this country in the 12 months expanded 35 per cent and were valued at $401,600,000. Larger American purchases of nickel and other ores contributed to the growth. British Malaya moved up from fourth to second position among American suppliers as a result of its heavy shipments of rubber.

With the wartime expansion imports reached the highest level since the peak of 1937, a year in which drouth and industrial activity combined to bring a heavy inflow of goods from abroad. Exports of United States goods in the 12 months exceeded imports by $1,391,000,000. The margin of trade in favor of the United States was $582,000,000 greater than in the preceding year.

The value of imports received from each country in the first year of the war is listed in the following table with comparative figures for the preceding year [000,000 omitted]:

PAUL FELIX WARBURG TO HEAD FILM FIRMS' ARBITRATION SYSTEM

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—Paul Felix Warburg, financier, has been appointed chairman of a nation-wide arbitration system in the motion picture industry, Lucius R. Eastman, chairman of the board of the American Arbitration association, announced today.

Warburg will head an administrative committee of seven who will regulate 31 tribunals established to arbitrate differences between distributors and exhibitors.

PRICE INFLATION IS UNJUSTIFIED, BANK DECLARES

Cites Ample Labor, Supplies, Money.

There is no sound reason for an inflationary price movement, in view of the abundance of raw materials, the idle labor and capital, and the technical resources that can be drawn on to increase production, the National City Bank of New York declared yesterday in its weekly review.

[Some interests have questioned industry's ability to produce adequately for all needs. Details are given elsewhere on this page.]

"It is the reasoned judgment of authorities in the peacetime industries that they can supply prospective demands, provided they are spaced according to actual needs and not swollen by hoarding," the study said. "Where priorities for the armament industries are necessary, as in machine tools and possibly later in some other lines, they will undoubtedly be accepted as preferable to the inflationary alternatives, and in fact are unlikely to be gravely burdensome.

Buying Exceeds Needs.

"Buying of some raw materials and manufactured goods this fall, particularly in the metal products, has exceeded any previous volume on record. In the aggregate, however, the buying is not to be considered a measure of actual consumptive demand, for it has plainly exceeded current requirements, and will be followed by increase in inventory as deliveries are made against the commitments.

"Thus there is a greater margin of safety against a general bottleneck condition than may seem to be the case. But there are specific bottlenecks, and there is danger of an inflationary state of mind. The tendencies since last summer give warning of the latent danger of overbuying, which would end in business recession, but meantime would contribute to inflationary trends. To avert this danger requires not only cooperation and self-restraint, but also sound public policies adopted with the threat of mind."

Chief Economic Question.

The chief economic question, according to the bank, is how effectively the policies of the administration will encourage production by efficient procurement and by reasonable policies affecting prices, labor, and industrial finance and taxation.

"Public policies upon all of these questions," the bank said, "will determine to a considerable extent not only the efforts of the defense program on business, but the success of the program itself. In two respects, administration announcements have pointed toward policies to restrain inflationary tendencies.

"First, President Roosevelt stated that all public works expenditures, except those directly connected with munitions production, would be cut to the bone. Second, in certain commodity markets measures were set in motion to increase supplies, and thus avert further advances in domestic prices without enforcing actual controls."

Eight Million of Securities Put on Market

Securities totaling more than $7,900,000 will be placed on the market today. Largest of the offerings will be the 115,270 shares of common stock of Standard Accident Insurance company at $54 a share by a group of underwriters headed by the First Boston corporation.

It is said to be the biggest public offering of securities of a casualty insurance company since the enactment of the securities act of 1933. Net proceeds received by Standard Accident will be approximately $5,800,000, of which $3,370,564 will be used to redeem the company's 75,000 outstanding shares of first preferred stock at $45 a share. COMMUNICATION MEN ASKED FOR DEFENSE ADVICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 (AP).—The defense communications board, created to coördinate the communications industry's rôle in the defense program, has invited executives of seven major communications companies to act as an advisory committee.

In announcing this today, Chairman James Lawrence Fly said the board has asked the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and the National Federation of Telephone workers to recommend appointments to a labor advisory committee.

Communications executives asked to serve on an advisory committee for the industry were Walter S. Gifford, president, American Telephone & Telegraph; Jack Kaufman, executive vice president, Globe Wireless, Ltd.; Sosthenes Behn, president, International Telephone & Telegraph; Joseph Pierson, president, Press Wireless, Inc.; David Sarnoff, president, Radio Corporation of America; W. E. Beakes, president, Tropical Radio Telegraph, and R. B. White, president, Western Union Telegraph.

OUTPUT OF PORK SETS NEW PEAK FOR NOVEMBER

Production of pork last month was the largest for any November in the history of the packing industry, the American Meat institute estimated yesterday. It placed the total 16 per cent above that of October and 19 per cent above November, 1939.

The institute estimated that the number of hogs marketed was the largest on record except for November, 1923. Cattle sent to market were about 4 per cent fewer w,ith lambs down slightly.

Wholesale prices of most cuts of meat changed only slightly during the month, the announcement said.

MORE TENANT FARMERS ARE BUYING LAND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 (AP).—A. G. Black, governor of the Farm Credit administration, reported today that an increasing number of tenant farmers had purchased farms during 1940, a fact he attributed to higher agricultural incomes.

In the first nine months, he said, farmers bought 10,800 properties, priced at more than $27,000,000, from the federal land banks and the land bank commissioner.

BOOSTS IN GIFT TAXES VIEWED AS POSSIBILITY

Government Seeks New Revenues.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 [Special].—A tightening of the gift tax provisions in the revenue law to bring in additional money was regarded a possibility tonight as a result of President Roosevelt's recent conference with congressional leaders on how to meet the general governmental revenue problem.

Three developments pointed to this possibility as one of the answers to the problem of increasing revenue, likely to be presented to the new congress when the President makes his expected suggestions for obtaining additional income to meet defense needs and to bring the normal budget more closely toward balance.

First is the fact, brought up at the President's Friday night conference, that one of the taxes not showing an increase as a result of improved business conditions is in the estate tax group. The gift tax is a component in this taxation structure, designed primarily to prevent evasion of the so-called estate tax levied against bequests. Its general effect is to tax at slightly lower rates any gift of a person which would be taxed at a higher rate if it went to the beneficiary as a result of death.

The second element is the fact that administration officials for some time have been talking about the desirability of an increase in levies on money passing either by gift or bequest. It has been suggested that rates on both gift and estate bequests in the $40,000 to $50,000 bracket are too low.

Idea of Morgenthau.

The third aspect is the fact that the treasury secretary, Henry Morgenthau Jr., for several years has been advancing the idea that a bequest or gift should not only be taxed at the source, but that the recipient also should be required to pay a part of his net proceeds. Morgenthau made this proposal in the so-called "soak the rich" tax bill of 1936, but when the measure emerged from congress an increase in the estate tax rate had been substituted for his "double-tax" proposal.

Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, ranking Democratic member of the senate finance committee, expressed the view today that the corporation income tax rate may be boosted as high as 30 per cent before the national defense program is paid for. The present rate is 24 per cent on corporations with annual net incomes of $25,000 or more.

Personal Loan and Savings Becomes a National Bank

The Personal Loan and Savings bank today becomes the Industrial National Bank of Chicago. The bank will continue its personal loan and savings services and, in addition, will do a general banking business.
